The Bishop Walks Out.
Mr. Rockefeller Advises.
Mr. Ford Visits Mr. Curtis.
Brain, Money vs Babies.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BISHOP JAMES CANNON, JR., yesterday declining to answer the Senate lobby committee, walked out, disregarding orders to remain.

Senator Walsh called it "an open case of contempt."

Another case of contempt sent a well-known oil man to jail.

But any lobby committee would realize that an oil man playing the races is different from a bishop "playing" the stock market.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER lives quietly, plays golf, leaving men younger than 91 to run Standard Oil. But he keeps track of the world and when he advises he advises wisely. Much wisdom was condensed into the few words he said to a player in his foursome, "be deliberate" and "talk less and play better." That is a good "how to succeed" recipe.

HENRY FORD, GOING to visit Cyrus H. K. Curtis, arrives just in time to read an editorial published by Mr. Curtis, that will surprise Mr. Ford.

It says:

"Prohibition reform is going over." And, "Nothing can stop the growing intent of the people of the United States to preserve the good of the experiment, noble in motive, but to end its unexpected and unnecessary evils."

HENRY FORD HAS SAID that if prohibition went and beer came back, he, Mr. Ford, would close his factories, because men with beer can't work fast enough to keep step with modern machinery.

Cyrus H. K. Curtis also owns modern, rapid machinery. He and Mr. Ford might have an interesting discussion, if they could get their minds off advertising.

YOUNG LADIES, graduating in a college for women, are urged by the Rev. Dr. Robert Parrish to "be brain and money women."

We owe much of education, science and art to rich men, says the Doctor, and must not "despise wealth."

NO TENDENCY TO DESPISE wealth is visible in this country. But many still maintain that the "brain and money woman" is not as desirable as the "charm and baby woman."

THE BOY THAT INVESTED one dollar in a derby lottery and won $149,000, "split the money three ways." His brother got $35,000, he kept $35,000 and gave his father $79,000.

There was no quarrel. Each felt that he was getting about all the real money in the world.

Everything is comparative. Many men in the United States would call the total $149,000 "not worth thinking about."

BRITISH MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS abandon the attempt to conquer Kanchen-Junga, and transfer attention to another mountain in Asia called Jonsong, 24,300 feet high.

In proportion to size the Jonsong peak is not as high as one of the little rough spots on an orange.

Infra-microscopic creatures climbing such an orange "peak" would equal the achievement of any human climbers. We climb or fly up, less than one-thousandth part of the earth's diameter, and praise ourselves.

GEN. ATTERBURY, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad, plans a Chicago to New York train to make the run in 14 hours, doing 90 miles an hour by electric power.

If Pennsylvania engineers have planned it, the thing will be done undoubtedly.

Airships will make the run in three hours before very long, and a slight change in transportation methods might bring on the earth's surface a speed of 150 or 200 miles an hour.

THE YALE DAILY NEWS says half the undergraduates are guilty of cheating at examinations. And such cheating, according to the Yale News, is "a matter of amusement to the faculty."

It ought not to be a matter of amusement, and the faculty denies the charge.

A STUDENT WHO CHEATS in examinations, would consider himself disgraced if he cheated in sports or at gambling.

Why go to college if your brain is not more important than your legs.

A NEW JERSEY ADMIRER, nominating Mr. Morrow for the White House, called him "another Wilson." Exactly what Mr. Morrow thought when he read that nobody will ever know. Successful men learn to keep their thoughts to themselves.

Liberal Teachers Resign at Pitt

PLAN BATTLE ON POLICE ACTION

Raid on Malone Meeting Brings War Decision by Civil Liberties Union

The issue of liberalism at the University of Pittsburgh flared again today as it became known that two faculty members, Prof. Colston E. Warne and Instructor W. Ellison Chalmers, champions of academic freedom, had resigned.

Announcement of their resignation was made last night at a meeting of the Pittsburgh branch, American Civil Liberties Union, in the Downtown Y. M. C. A., at which the organization voted to push charges against police for interference in the Fifth Ward Republican Committee.

J. Steele Gow, acting head of the university had this to say of the resignations:

"Well, they're gone. There is nothing for me to say about it, although I wish them all the success and happiness possible."

TAKE OTHER JOBS

Chalmers announced that he would leave today for the University of Wisconsin, where he will teach economics in the summer school. Warne leaves in July for Amherst, where he will teach economics next term.

Warne made this statement:

"My resignation is to enable me to accept greater opportuni-

BITTEN BY DOG, HIGH SCHOOL GIRL DIES

Wilkinsburg Student Stricken 2 Months After Attack by Pet; Hydrophobia Blamed

Bitten by a Scotch collie, a family pet, two months ago, Virginia Newman, 17, junior in Wilkinsburg High School, died today in Pittsburgh Hospital, presumably from hydrophobia.

She was taken ill Wednesday night while entertaining a Sabbath School class of the Hebron United Presbyterian Church in her home at Rodi on the Frankstown road. A physician was summoned, and she was ordered to the hospital the next day, but medical science failed to save her life.

"Button," the dog, died shortly after it had bitten Virginia. L. M. Newman, father of Virginia, believed the animal to have been poisoned. It is now thought the dog died from rabies.

Virginia had felt no ill effects from the bite until stricken Wednesday, according to members of her family.

ZEPPELIN LANDS AT HOME PORT

BULLETIN.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 6.—(AP.)—The Graf Zeppelin, home from her 18,000-mile voyage to South America and the United States, landed at Friedrichshafen at 7:32 p. m. (2:32 p. m. Pittsburgh time).

BASLE, Switzerland, June 6.—(AP.)—The Graf Zeppelin, steadily nearing her home port, Friedrichshafen, flew over Solestre, near the Swiss frontier, at 5:15 p. m. (12:15 p. m. Pittsburgh time).

The Graf, having dodged a storm area in France, was fighting against a strong north wind and was flying at about 600 feet.

BIG WELCOME AWAITS

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 6.—(AP.)—This home port of the Graf Zeppelin was all excited today with expectation of the home-coming of the airliner after her seventh trans-Atlantic crossing.

Flags were floating from most houses and at the Zeppelin works in the Maybach engineering shops.

The Graf was expected home between 7 and 8 o'clock tonight (between 2 p. m. and 3 p. m. Pittsburgh time).

A great wreath commemorating the first South American flight was ready to be handed over with due ceremony to Dr. Hugo Eckener by a representative of the town.

Countess Brandenstein-Zeppelin, daughter of the late Count Zeppelin, was among the numerous enthusiasts crowding into the old town by automobile from all parts of the country.

ANNE MORROW LINDBERGH

Lindy Takes Anne on Trip In Plane

TETERBORO AIRPORT, HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N. J., June 6.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took his wife for an airplane ride today.

The famous couple took off from this airport about 11 a. m. in a new type of small high-wing monoplane, and after flying in the direction of Newark, returned here shortly before noon.

The Lindbergs came to the airport from the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, in Englewood.

Later it was learned that the Lindbergs had landed at the Metropolitan Airport in Newark and had some additional gasoline put into the tank of their plane. They remained in Newark only 10 minutes and then returned to Teterboro.

Slain Girl's Body To Be Exhumed

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(INS.)—Exhumation of the body of Leona Fishback, beautiful art student, killed by her sweetheart during an insane rage last October, probably will be ordered by police today in an effort to solve the slaying of Frank Reed Whiteside, internationally known artist and former instructor of the slain girl.

William E. Peters, former Doylestown baker, is now serving a life sentence for the murder of Miss Fishback.

SIXTH WARD LOST LIST PROMPTS MOVE

Even Attorneys Barred; Court Signs Petition for New Count in Wilkinsburg

Today's developments in the aftermath of the primary election:

1—A county detective was stationed in the recount board's room at the courthouse with orders to bar attorneys and all others except members of the board and their assistants.

2—Judge James R. Macfarlane granted petitions, presented previously by Attorney Samuel S. Rosenberg for a recount of ballots in 19 Pinchot districts of the First and Second Wards, Wilkinsburg.

3—The recount board reported no trace of the missing voters' list which disappeared three days ago from the ballot box of the First District, Sixth Ward. Judge Macfarlane volunteered no information concerning his investigation of the list's disappearance.

County Detective David Drexler was placed on guard at the quarters of the recount board in the Courthouse today at the request of Attorney Leander Trautman, chairman.

Trautman said the move was prompted by the disappearance of the voters' list from the ballot box of the First District, Sixth Ward, missing for three days. No one, including attorneys, is permitted within the railing except

PINCHOT SEES VAN BROWN 'IN'

By JESS BOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Gifford Pinchot said today the outlook was favorable for S. Van Brown, his candidate for Republican state chairman, in the election set for tomorrow.

Gen. Edward Martin, present chairman, who is seeking re-election, said he would get a substantial majority of the committee votes, but declined to give figures.

Pinchot also refused to make specific predictions except to say this:

"It should be remembered that those who are predicting Gen. Martin's re-election by a

Pittsburgher Fined In Rum Conspiracy

NEW YORK, June 6.—Samuel Mallinger, of Pittsburgh, pleaded guilty and was fined $200 when 45 of the 136 persons and firms indicted for conspiracy to flood the eastern seaboard with whisky made by steeping shavings from the insides of old liquor barrels in alcohol were fined a total of $14,800.

HAMMERSTEIN'S WIDOW GUILTY

NEW YORK, June 6.—(INS.)—Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, widow of the theatrical impresario, today was found guilty on a charge of vagrancy in Jefferson Market Court.

Throughout the protracted hearings on the case, the defendant has denied the charges and claimed "it was a frameup."

The former Broadway beauty, now 47, with iron-gray hair, faces a possible sentence of one year in jail. However, as she has no criminal record, it is likely that she will be placed on probation.

She was remanded for sentence on June 9.

Counsel for Mrs. Hammerstein announced an appeal would be taken.

British Air Heroine Balks at Radio Talk

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 6.—(AP.)—Radio fans up early today to hear Amy Johnson, who recently flew unaccompanied from London to Sydney, talking from the Australian metropolis over a coast-to-coast network, were disappointed.

The station hookup was complete and radiophone transmission between Australia and America never was better, but the British aviatrix refused to appear before the microphone.

C. C. QUAILEY, ALDERMAN, DIES

Dr. Charles B. Quailey, 43, politician and dentist of the Oakland district and former Pitt athlete, died this morning in West Penn Hospital after several week's illness.

Dr. Quailey was alderman of the Fourth Ward and once was known to thousands of Pittsburghers as one of the foremost football stars of the University of Pittsburgh.

He had been in ill health several months. April 20 he was taken to the hospital, and on May 9 was operated on for the removal of gall stones. He failed to recover after the operation and a call was sent out for volunteers for a blood transfusion. More than a score of friends responded, among them Toby Brown, of Oakland Police Station, who was selected for the vain transfusion.

Dr. Quailey was born in Denniston, O., and was educated in

Hoover Signs Vet Extension Bill

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS.)—President Hoover today signed a bill extending the time from 1930 to 1935 in which World War veterans may apply for compensation. He also signed the legislative appropriation bill carrying appropriations of $26,557,767.

Mexican Ace Hops for New York

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 6.—(AP.)—Col. Roberto Fierro, Mexican Army flier, hopped off from Kelly Field here at 6:56 a. m. today in an effort to make a non-stop flight to Mitchell Field, Long Island, N. Y.

The Mexican flier expected to arrive late this afternoon at New York. After spending several days there, he planned to attempt a non-stop flight to Mexico City. His scheduled route would take him over New Orleans, Montgomery, Ala., Charleston, S. C., and Trenton, N. J.

Macedonian Revolt Chief Reported Dying

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 6.—(AP.)—Panze Michailoff, leader of the Macedonian revolutionary organization, was reported today as dying. Partisans asserted he had been poisoned with a slow-acting drug, but it was stated officially that he is suffering with tuberculosis.

Third Death Marks New York Tong War

NEW YORK, June 6.—(INS.)—Tong warfare flared anew here today. Louis Lee, a laundryman, was found shot to death in the rear of his Brooklyn shop early today bringing the two-day total of tong deaths in this city to three.

BOROUGHS HIT AT BLUE LAWS

Crafton, Ben Avon Heights and Bridgeville voters oppose the Blue Laws in the first returns from these boroughs in the poll of Allegheny County by the Sun-Telegraph.

Avalon is leading the boroughs in the number of ballots cast to date. Its attitude on the blue laws will be published tomorrow.

Ten other boroughs reporting in the poll and the City of McKeesport continue to cast majorities favoring repeal of the Sunday observance laws as the canvass progresses throughout the outlying districts of the county. The boroughs of Dormont, Coraopolis and Chalfant and the townships of Elizabeth, Pawn and Findley are embraced in the poll with the distribution of ballots today.

The latest tabulation of ballots cast by Pittsburgh voters shows a total of 37,733 votes, divided as follows:

For the Blue Laws	5,488
For modification	2,786
For repeal	29,459

These figures represent a ratio of 5.4 votes for repeal for each vote in support of the Blue Laws.

Grace Abbott Urged As Davis' Successor

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—Appointment of Miss Grace Abbott to succeed James J. Davis as Secretary of Labor has been recommended to President Hoover by the Nebraska congressional delegation.

Miss Abbott, of Grand Island, Neb., now heads the children's bureau of the department. Her promotion is advocated by Senators Norris and Howell and all six Nebraska Representatives.

Bomb Blast Shakes Paris Postoffice

PARIS, June 6.—(AP.)—A small parcel addressed to the Baroness Edouard de Rothschild exploded in the central postoffice while employes were sorting mail today.

The explosion caused a heavy detonation, but no employe was within 10 feet of the basket in which the parcel was lying and none was injured.

Customs Not to 'Harass' Returning War Mothers

NEW YORK, June 6.—(INS.)—Two hundred and twenty-seven Gold Star mothers, sisters and wives returned today from their pilgrimage to France on board the United States liner President Harding, and the force of customs inspectors here was up in arms over what they say is the climax of a long series of indignities heaped upon the customs forces by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman.

The customs investigators were directed by Lowman "not to harass these women and to see to it that they were treated with every courtesy."

The inference that they would accord any other kind of treatment to the women relatives of the nation's martyrs inflamed the customs force.

Mrs. Sarah G. Thompson, of New York, whose son, Aviation Lieut. Hugh S. Thompson, was shot down in 1918, declared that the long rows of white tombstones in the cemeteries of France was one of the greatest arguments against war that history had ever advanced.

Mrs. Charlotte Butler, of Orlando, Fla., whose son was killed at Chateau Thierry, declared that her visit to the grave had convinced her her boy had not died in vain.

"There will never be another war," she said, "if people will only visit France and view those endless monuments to patriotism."

CANNON'S WALKOUT ON QUIZ STIRS DEMAND SENATE ACT

BISHOP MAY BE LIABLE IN CONTEMPT

Move Launched for Authority To Grill Virginian on Any Subject in Smith Inquiry

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Senate may determine whether Bishop James Cannon, Jr., should tell its lobby committee about his anti-Smith activities in the 1928 presidential campaign.

A move was on foot today to put the question to that body in a request for authority to question Cannon on any subject.

While the defiant bishop was warned his actions in refusing to reply to questions as to his "personal, political activities," along with his abrupt "withdrawal" as a witness, might lead to contempt of the Senate proceedings, some doubt was expressed as to the right of the lobby inquiry to probe such matters under present powers.

WOULD FACE CHARGES

Orders on Senate authority would leave the Methodist leader no course but to reply or face contempt proceedings.

That Cannon will come in for scorching criticism on the floor of the Senate for his action there remained no doubt. The committee stood in adjournment after his departure.

Cannon told the committee he would return when a subpena was issued, and not before. He left to the accompaniment of cheers and hisses.

When asked if Cannon's action constituted contempt, Walsh replied emphatically:

"I have no doubt of it."

Little else was discussed on Capitol Hill except what might be the bishop's fate. The cynical were offering odds that he will not be punished for his "contempt," although Harry F. Sinclair, the oil magnate, was sent to the district jail for less defiance than the bishop displayed before the committee yesterday, by walking out of the witness chair and inviting the committee to do its worst.

CANNON UNPERTURBED

Bishop Cannon was unperturbed today over the unprecedented storm which his actions had aroused on Capitol Hill. He was at his desk in the Bliss Building, nearby, while indignant senators waited the return of Senator Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, the committee chairman, before determining upon any further procedure.

Caraway, who suddenly decided to leave Washington on the eve of the bishop's appearance before the committee, was reported to be in Jonesville, Ark., today, planning to motor leisurely back to the capital. Meanwhile, the committee smarted from the bishop's sting and waited.

large majority are the ones who said Francis Shunk Brown would be nominated by a plurality of 250,000."

Declaring he would not compromise and was in the fight for the chairmanship of the Republican state committee to the finish, Martin accepted an invitation to confer with Pinchot. Following the conference, Gen. Martin said that they had only discussed matters of procedure.

Three of the 12 state committeemen and women from Allegheny County arrived early today. They are County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman for the Davis-Brown ticket in Allegheny County; Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, chairman for Davis and Brown in other western counties, and Mary M. Conwell. The other nine are due to arrive here early tomorrow.

Armstrong said that Allegheny County's 12 votes will go to Martin in addition to a number from other western counties.

Armstrong, W. L. Mellon, Gen. Martin and A. Boyd Hamilton, assistant to Martin, are holding a succession of conferences.

TRAGEDY ENDS PLEASURE TRIP

LIGONIER, Pa., June 6.—Tragedy climaxed what was to have been a pleasure trip for three families three miles east of Ligonier today when a shot gun, discharged accidentally by a son, killed John Peak, 46, of Hazel Glenn.

Peak and his two sons, Gale, 18, and Donald, 15, and the families of S. W. Wagg and E. L. Sandig, all of Hazel Glenn, who were on a motor trip to the state of Washington, camped just beyond Ligonier last night.

This morning, while entering an automobile, Gale Peak, 18, discharged the shotgun, the full charge striking the father, who was asleep on the rear seat.

Bartlett Expedition Off for Greenland

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP.)—Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, Arctic navigator, who piloted Peary's ship on his dash to the North Pole, was steering his schooner Morrisey northward again today at the head of a scientific expedition to Greenland.

Harry Whitney, of New Haven, Conn., sportsman and explorer, who sailed part of the way with Peary in 1908, plans to trap live seal, walrus and polar bear. He represents the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Science and the Philadelphia Zoo.

Aged Deputy Trails, Takes 11th Maniac

IONIA, Mich., June 6.—(INS.)—Roy Wynkoop, the madman who tried to kill Judge Fred S. Lamb, of Cadillac, Mich., in a courtroom, is back in Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane today because of the woods' lore and courage of a 70-year-old deputy sheriff. Wynkoop was the eleventh of the 13 lunatics who escaped Tuesday morning to be returned. Pat Boles, the deputy, found footsteps across a swamp and for hours followed the trail. Wynkoop submitted meekly.

SLEUTH GUARDS VOTE RECOUNT

members of the board and their aides.

Judge James R. Macfarlane this afternoon signed petitions presented by Attorney Samuel S. Rosenberg for a recount of 19 strong Pinchot districts in the First and Second Wards, Wilkinsburg.

LEADERS "IGNORANT"

Rosenberg's move has been disclaimed by local Republican leaders, but Rosenberg insists that he is acting in behalf of the Brown-Davis state campaign managers.

The recount board continued its work today. Nearly a dozen boxes are said to have been recounted, but no report has been made public and no announcement was made as to the progress of the search for the missing vote list.

Judge Macfarlane conferred yesterday with members of the board and District Attorney Andrew T. Park. He issued a written statement in which he declares that he appointed the recount board without regard to their political affiliations and that Attorney Ralph H. Frank, of the Pinchot legal staff, "might better bring his complaint to me than to the newspapers."

FRANK'S STATEMENT

Attorney Frank in a statement yesterday charged that the recount board's activities are shrouded in secrecy, and that no Pinchot representatives were put on the board.

"I protested the day the board started to function," Frank said, "and I was told by Mr. Trautman and Mr. Bennett that the exclusion of condidates representatives was on Judge Macfarlane's specific instructions. I did not volunteer a statement to the newspaper. I was asked for it."

The recount board operates under an act of the legislature. In 1928 its findings resulted in wholesale convictions of election law violators. Its spokesman at that time was Attorney Ward Bonsall, chairman. In 1929, all three members were spokesmen. Two of them disagreed consistently with the statements issued by Chairman Bonsall and in almost every case filed reports disagreeing with his findings.

When this board started functioning Chairman Trautman told newspapermen:

"All matters pertaining to the board are under the personal supervision of Judge Macfarlane, and any statements concerning the board must be made either by him or with his approval."

the public schools there. He entered the dental school at Pitt in 1908, and graduated in 1911. During the years at college he played halfback on the varsity football squad, playing under the late Col. Joe Thompson.

COACHED SCHOOL TEAM

He was a close friend of Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, former football coach at Pitt.

Following his graduation he went to Martins Ferry, O., where he coached the football squad of the high school. After two seasons he returned to Pittsburgh and practiced dentistry in Oakland.

He continued his practice up until the time of his illness.

Twelve years ago he was appointed by the Board of Education as the first school dentist. He worked among the school children until a few years ago.

ELECTED ALDERMAN

Dr. Quailey has been an active supporter of State Senator James J. Coyne. Three years ago he was a candidate for Congress, but was defeated by P. J. Sullivan. Two years ago he was elected alderman of the Fourth Ward, defeating Thomas Carr.

"Razz" Quailey, as he was known to many, had lived in the Oakland district since he returned to the city from Martins Ferry. His home was at 10 Oakland square.

He was a member of the Eastern Inter-Collegiate League of Football Officials, the Knights of Columbus, several dental fraternities and St. Paul's Cathedral.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart Quailey; two sons, John and Stewart Quailey; daughter, Marie, and two brothers, the Rev. David Quailey, of Lancaster, O., and John Quailey, of Dennison.

Several hundred others will go to the convention in automobiles.

More than 100,000 members of the organization, representing 100 temples, will attend the convention.

BRITISH TROOPS ROUT AFGHAN TRIBESMEN

Fighting Front of Rebels Outside Peshawar Breaks Under Heavy Shelling

International News Service.

LONDON, June 6.—The fierce fighting front of the Afghan tribesmen today apparently suddenly melted before the attack of British forces outside Peshawar, according to dispatches from that city to the London Times.

Between 7,000 and 15,000 Afridis were on the run, scattering into small groups and seeking refuge in small villages near the border of the northwestern frontier province, the dispatches indicated.

There was no report as to casualties.

Peshawar was an armed camp. The military was supreme and on hand everywhere.

Heavy gunfire in the hills was plainly audible in the city and it was assumed that the mountain guns of the British artillery were busy pounding away at the hill-cloistered fastnesses where tribesmen had based their forces.

AGE-OLD FOES UNITE

BOMBAY, June 6.—(INS.)—Moslems and Hindus, age-old foes, apparently had united today in protest against the arrest and incarceration of Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader.

A general strike was declared after the first month which has passed since Gandhi was arrested and placed in comfortable confinement at Yeroda prison. Some 65,000 mill hands quit work and 30 factories were closed today.

VOTE COUNT BAN REVERSED

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(AP.)—The State Supreme Court yesterday reversed the order of Judge Harry S. McDevitt restraining the county commissioners from certifying the Philadelphia vote in the primary election of May 20.

Upholding of Judge McDevitt's injunction would have barred the seating of Philadelphia's 16 representatives in the reorganization meeting of the State Republican Committee here tomorrow.

Pinchot has an unofficial plurality of 20,042 over Francis Shunk Brown, according to official returns from every county in the state received by the Associated Press after the official count of Philadelphia was made public today, the last to be announced.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 6.—(INS.)—Efforts to secure a statement of fact in the question of perforation of Luzerne County primary ballots were to mark the election contest between now and Monday, out of which Francis Shunk Brown, gubernatorial candidate, is trying to wrest the nomination from Gifford Pinchot.

The hearing yesterday, at which Brown's attorneys produced numerous witnesses to show irregularity in the Second District of the Eighth Ward in this city, was adjourned until Monday to allow time for a ruling on the perforations. The perforating of ballots, the Brown forces contend, was mutilation, rendering all of the paper ballots invalid. If such were the case, Pinchot would lose a plurality of 26,544 and the nomination.

The Pinchot forces contend that since the perforating of the ballots was done with the consent and at the direction of the court as insurance against the introduction of fraud, there can be no doubt of the legality of the proceeding.

Police Chief Kills Self as Trial Opens

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 6.—(AP.)—A. B. McGraw, New Brookland chief of police, shot and killed himself this morning just before he was to go on trial today on a charge of murdering Henry Martin, Columbia youth.

McGraw shot Martin April 8, 1929, in the emergency operating room of a Columbia hospital.

The case was tried last year, but the jury disagreed. McGraw testified Martin was advancing with a knife, and he shot in self-defense.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—President Hoover's personal appeals for Senate leaders to ratify the London naval treaty before going home for the summer apparently inspired little enthusiasm on Capitol Hill today.

The weather is getting hotter—it was above 92 today—and the rise in temperature was commensurate with the Senate's increasing desire to dispose of the tariff bill and quit.

EVEN IMPORTUNED BORAH

So keen is Mr. Hoover's desire to see the treaty removed from the realm of active controversy, however, that he has renewed relations with Senator Borah in an attempt to enlist the Idahoan's active support for speedy ratification.

The President had only indifferent success with Borah, according to indications. Borah is going to support the treaty but he is not enthusiastic about it and, in fact, there is reason to believe the Idahoan rather sympathizes with those seeking to delay ratification until November. He said:

"I told the President it was wholly immaterial to me whether the treaty was disposed of at the regular session or at a special session."

MIGHT DECLARE RECESS

There is a well-defined move afoot in the Senate to dispose of the tariff, adjourn, let the President call the special session, then recess it until several weeks before the regular session begins in December.

Meanwhile Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, the treaty's leading critic, renewed his appeal for all the facts contained in the secret correspondence that led up to calling of the London conference, and for delay until these are forthcoming and can be studied.

TRAGEDY LAID TO INSANE LOVE

ROCHESTER, Minn., June 6.—(AP.)—A coroner's inquest today was expected to write the official finis to the insane drama in which, police say, Henry Clouse, 46, a farmhand, was driven by hopeless affection and disordered mind to kill Marjorie Clemons, 13, daughter of his landlord, then to end his life.

The bodies were found huddled side by side beneath a blanket at the edge of a woodland clearing on an abandoned farm, seven miles north of here. The girl had been shot in the back of the head, Clouse twice through the mouth.

His thumb still was on the trigger of the rifle he had borrowed from Marjorie's father, a week ago. They had been dead for several days.

Clouse's automobile, in which they drove away from the Clemons home, where Clouse had lodged for 11 years, was found nearby, a charred wreck.

The proportions are 78 per cent for repeal, 15 per cent for the Blue Laws and 7 per cent for modification.

The division of the Pittsburgh vote between men and women is: For the Blue Laws, 2,852 men and 2,636 women; for modification, 1,659 men and 1,127 women; for repeal, 19,434 men and 10,025 women.

Returns from Pittsburgh voters for the day total 1,684, with 284 for the Blue Laws, 132 for modification and 1,268 for repeal.

The three boroughs reporting for the first time show these initial figures Crafton—Continuance 6, modification 7, repeal 17; Ben Avon Heights — Continuance 2, modification 0, repeal 19, Bridgeville—Continuance 3, modification 2, repeal 15.

Awaits Hearing in Bad Check Charge

Julian S. Taylor, 44, of South Aiken avenue, was turned over by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today to Alderman George J. Anderson for a hearing on three informations charging that Taylor had passed worthless checks. Taylor was arrested in Huntington, W. Va., and returned here by city detectives.

German Debt Bill Signed by Hoover

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—President Hoover today signed the bill for settlement of the German debt to the United States, including awards of the mixed claims commission and the costs of the American Army of Occupation.

END DRY LAWS, COX URGES

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—(AP.)—Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is "unhesitatingly favored" by former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, Democratic presidential nominee in 1920.

Cox declared:

"The people will never change the existing order by bringing back the saloons. Nor will private interests ever again be permitted to become selfishly allied on any side of this issue.

"With this understanding, I unhesitatingly favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. As between the old saloon order, with its brewery-controlled politics, and whatnot, and the present setup, I would prefer the latter, but we all prefer not being compelled to choose between these two extremes. Both are impossible."

REVISED TARIFF BILL READY

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS.)—One more version of the 16 months old tariff bill was agreed upon informally by Senate and House conferees today with a hope that it will be final.

They adopted new compromise rates on cheese, cattle, watches, rayon and cherries to satisfy the parliamentary objections sustained in the Senate by Vice President Curtis against former rates. With this task completed, the conferees were ready to report the bill back to the House and Senate.

Senator Smoot (Rep.), Utah, chairman of the Senate conferees, announced he would present it to the Senate later in the day.

Sells Pittsbrugher Sand for Rum—Held

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(INS.)—Sale of five bags of sand for liquor today resulted in Clifford Petiet, 38, chemical engineer, being held in $500 bail for fraud.

Petiet was arrested on the complaint of Sidney L. Stark, Pittsburgh traffic signal manufacturer, who claimed he paid the defendant and another man $580 for the "choice liquor" last week.

Change Locks to End Senate Robberies

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS.)—Ransacking senators' offices has become so frequent a new system of locks was installed today.

Among those to complain that their offices had been rifled were Senators McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee; Smoot (Rep.), of Utah; Johnson (Rep.), of California, and Brock (Dem.), of Tennessee.

Air Chamber Votes Byrd Gold Medal

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP.)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd has been voted a gold medal by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is the only other recipient of the honor.

The gold medal and silver replicas for 65 members of his expedition, will be presented at an "aviation dinner" here, June 25.

PROHIBITION CROWDING PRISONS

'Census' for Country Shows Dry Law Has Landed 7,158 In State and Federal Cells

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Prohibition has landed 7,158 persons in state and federal peitentiaries, Representative Bachman (Rep.), of West Virginia, told the House today in presenting the first complete "census" of the country's prohibition prison population.

The number is increasing steadily, withr federal courts apparently far more ready to send prohibition violators to prison than state tribunals, Bachmann said.

His survey disclosed that prohibition law violations account for 27 per cent of the federal prison population, but only 3½ per cent of the state prisoners, he said.

CITES GREAT CONGESTION

Analyzing detailed figures from 100 state and five federal prisons, Bachmann declared both are crowded far beyond capacity. State prisons have room for 94,704 with 116,670 confined, he said.

The West Virginia prison was cited as the most overcrowded. With a normal capacity of 840, there were 2,296 prisoners confined there January 1, he said. He denied, however, prohibition is a factor in overcrowding state prisons.

The survey showed 3,121 persons in five federal prisons for violating prohibition laws on January 1, and 4,037 in the 100 state prisons.

Ohio, with 8,806, has more prisoners than any other state, Illinois is next with 8,026; New York third, with 8,019, and Michigan fourth, with 7,118, he averred.

MICHIGAN TAKES LEAD

Michigan has more persons confined in Federal prisons than any other state, with 750. Illinois has 743, Texas, 615; West Virginia, 612, and Kentucky, 580.

There are more in Texas state prisons for violating the prohibition law than in any other state, January 1, there were 635.

New York, Nevada, Montana, Arizona, New Hampshire and North Carolina have no one in a state prison for a prohibition violation. New Jersey has one; Wisconsin, two, and Utah, three.

Congress in Quandary Over Rum Buy Penalty

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(INS.)—All federal district attorneys may be canvassed for their "consensus of opinion" on the possible effects of the Sheppard bill, proposing to make the buyer equally guilty with the seller in prohibition cases, it was indicated today, before Congress acts on it.

The Texas Senator, who fathered the Eighteenth Amendment, declared he proposed penalties for the "buyers of liquor," to bring about better enforcement of prohibition. Members of the Senate Judiciary sub-committee, who heard his arguments, said they were in doubt about the effectiveness of his proposed remedy and would like to learn the opinions of enforcement officers generally.

LESS DRINKING, DORAN AVERS

ROCHESTER, Minn., June 6.—(AP.)—Dr. James M. Doran, federal prohibition commissioner, believes liquor drinking decreases as prohibition talk increases.

Addressing a Women's Christian Temperance Union convention here, he said consumption of liquor was less than a year ago and predicted it would be still less next year. He declared:

"America is the only country in the world that had nerve enough to tackle the liquor problem effectively. England attempted to control it by limiting the hours of sale, and Canada by government sale, but both methods fall short of the mark."

Canada's act this week in stopping legal exportation of liquor to the United States was lauded by Commissioner Doran as a gracious and friendly act, which has assisted greatly.

Capital May 'Fire' Liquor Informers

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—Congestion of liquor cases on the police court docket led David A. Hart, assistant United States attorney, to recommend today that District of Columbia police stop using informers to get evidence.

More than 350 liquor cases are on the docket, Hart reported, and 90 per cent are based on evidence of informers.

New German Tax to Make 'Single Bliss' Expensive

BERLIN, June 6.—(AP.)—Germany's bachelors and bachelor girls will have to shoulder an additional burden of taxation as their share of effort to meet Germany's heavy obligations if a proposal of the cabinet is approved by the Reichstag.

The cabinet has agreed upon an additional 10 per cent tax on incomes of unmarried men and women, which means more than double the present rate. The increase, while startling compared to the income tax of Americans without wives or children, is not likely to exceed the high level already reached on British income taxes.

The proposal is linked with the emergency tax on government employes and salaried workers in private business. The tax increase is expected to develop heated debate in the Reichstag, especially since it affects government employes.

Haughty Palmer 'Castle' Opened to 'Commoners'

CHICAGO, June 6.—(AP.)—Doors of the Potter Palmer "Castle" on the Gold Coast, one of the few remaining show places of the gorgeous and haughty '80's and '90's, opened today to the feet of the commoners.

After a two-day society charity benefit, to which a signboard bids "everybody welcome," the turreted stranger among towering apartment buildings will be given to wreckers. An apartment hotel will take its place.

Potter Palmer, an early mercantile prince and inn keeper, built the old home on Lake Shore drive during the 80's. Mrs. Palmer was the only social dictator of Chicago's elite over three decades.

Mrs. Palmer, who died in 1918, also maintained homes in Paris and London.

An audience with her was obtained only after a message passed through 27 hands.

King Edward VII, as Prince of Wales, was a guest of the Palmer's. Presidents Grant, Garfield and McKinley were entertained at the "castle."

Tall Men's Rum Capacity Declared Superior

LONDON, June 6.—(Universal)—A tall man can stand more liquor than a short man.

That surprising statement was made today by Dr. Courtenay C. Weeks, director of the National Temperance League, testifying before the royal licensing committee on the various effects of alcohol. Said the doctor:

"A man's system purges whisky at the rate of a quarter of an ounce an hour. It takes, therefore, 15 hours to clear five drinks."

The expert did not reveal the purging comparison of tall vs. short men, but a point was made that he did not include fat or lean men in his testimony.

WILLOCK, STEEL HEIR, EARNS $7 WEEK, BALM SUIT REPLY

WED A MAID, SUED BY ANOTHER

Will Get Millions, but Now Lives in Cottage, Drives Truck; Father Aids Little

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP.)—William W. Willock, Jr., 22, son of the wealthy steel magnate, testified in Supreme Court that since last November, when he married one of his mother's chambermaids, he has lived with his wife in the gardener's house on his father's Long Island estate at Syosset.

Their expenses have averaged $30 weekly, he said, and his father has given him only $20 a month, although furnishing him free rent and paying his light, gas and electric bills. He makes $7 a week driving a truck, he said.

$500,000 BALM SUIT

Willock's testimony was given at an examination before trial of a $500,000 breach of promise suit brought against him by Catherine McCormack, who also was a servant in his father's house at the time he married the chambermaid.

He said he and his wife have been living on $120 a month he draws from a bank, where he now has $14,000 on deposit.

TO GET MILLIONS

Willock eventually will inherit millions through his maternal grandparents, with the heritage of the $120,000,000 estate of his grandfather, Benjamin Franklin Jones, Sr., pioneer Pittsburgh steelmaster, and a trust fund of $7,000,000 created for him by Mrs. Jones, his grandmother. Willock's mother was Alice Jones and his father, William W. Willock, is a former vice president of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company.

LOS ANGELES FIFTH CITY

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—(AP.)—Los Angeles, with 1,231,730 population, today was credited by the census with an increase of 655,057 or 113.59 per cent since 1920.

An increase of 1,263,102 or 134.88 per cent, brought Los Angeles County up to 2,199,557.

Los Angeles is expected to rank fifth among American cities. The 10 largest cities in their order in 1920, were New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, Boston, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles.

By moving to fifth place, Los Angeles will pass Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Boston, St. Louis and Cleveland. Detroit is expected to keep fourth position.

Weather Conditions.

Light showers occurred nearly everywhere from the central plains eastward to the coast, and from Canada to the gulf, as the result of the disturbance now centered over the lower lakes. Thunderstorms were general over the lower lakes and southward over the Ohio Valley to Texas. The rainfall was generally light, although many places reported generous amounts.

Warm weather continues over the Atlantic Coast states. Over the Mississippi valleys there was a change to much cooler. It is warming up again over the Rocky Mountain states and Canadian Northwest.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary. Stage at Franklin is 1.1 feet; Lock No. 7, 10.2; Pittsburgh, 10.0; Dam No. 4, 12.5; Dam No. 6, 7.6; Dam No. 9, 8.4, and Dam No. 12, 4.8. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

The skies are overcast everywhere from the central plains to near the Atlantic coast, as a result of a low pressure area centered over the lower lakes. Thunderstorms were general last night in all the Ohio Valley and over the lower lakes. Visibility ranges from five to eight miles, ceiling 1,500 to 2,000 feet. The wind is light from the Southwest.

BUSINESS GAINS RAPID—FORD

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(INS.)—Business conditions are decidedly on the upward trend in the estimation of Henry Ford, Detroit auto magnate, who dined at the home of Edward T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia financier, last night.

Recovery from the business depression is proceeding at a faster rate than the decline when it began a few months ago, Ford is convinced. He said:

"You see a lot of these fellows were fooling around with the stock market and they got caught. They had to go to work again. Now, they've been at work and they're beginning to enjoy it. That is always the reason for good business."

Ford and Mrs. Ford, arriving here on their special car from Washington where they had visited President Hoover, first visited Cyrus H. K. Curtis.

BELIEVE KILLER OF GIRL INSANE

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Dexter Dayton, confessed slayer of Marjorie O'Donnell, former Pittsburgh girl, is insane, according to his attorneys, Daniel S. Ring and Harvey Cobb. They say they will ask the appointment of a lunacy commission.

The attorneys planned their action after officials at the jail had called their attention to his peculiarities while imprisoned. The attorneys said they will have an alienist examine Dayton, and on the strength of the report will seek the lunacy hearing.

Dayton choked Marjorie O'Donnell in a room in a hotel here last October.

Oregon Goat Eats Rabbits' Pedigrees

TUALATIN, Ore., June 6.—(AP.)—Metal tags are delicious fodder for goats. A hundred thoroughbred rabbits have no pedigrees now because a goat got loose in the hutches and devoured all the tags telling of the rabbits' ancestry.

SPILLS THRILL AT HORSE SHOW

The annual Sewickley horse show, held in the Allegheny Country Club show ring, entered its second day today attended by a large throng of spectators who had been thrilled by a series of exciting spills on the opening day.

Among those who were tossed from their mounts was Miss Louise Munheim, who suffered a spectacular tumble when her horse balked at a stone wall jump. The accident left spectators gasping, but Miss Munheim was not injured.

Mrs. Oliver Kaufmann also was tossed from her horse and so were Miss Marie McCahill, Marguerite McCahill and David I. McCahill.

One of the features of the opening was a costume parade and a procession in which rumbled a hay wagon carrying a number of the younger social set.

Bill Would Boost Federal Judge Pay

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—A bill to increase the salaries of federal judges was prepared by Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, for introduction today. Under the measure, the salaries of judges of the Circuit Court of Appeals would be advanced from $12,000 to $17,500, district judges from $10,000 to $12,500, and judges of the Customs Court from $10,000 to $12,500. It would not affect Supreme Court justices.

Release by Actress Balks $500,000 Suit

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP.)—A jury in a preliminary hearing in Supreme Court decided that a release signed by Florence Sharr Williard, former actress, in July 1927, was a bar to her $500,000 breach of promise suit against Joseph Hann, wealthy candy manufacturer.

The jury also held that the release, in consideration of which Miss Willard was paid $1,500 was valid. Miss Willard alleged Hann promised to marry her in August 1923.

Girl, Alleged Death Lure, Finds 'Capone' Is Sleuth

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP.)—A man with a scar on his face is not necessarily a relative of Alphonse (Scarface) Capone, He might be a New York detective.

Rose Halperin, 28, had leisure to figure that out today in her cell in Harlem Prison, where she is held in default of $15,000 bail as a material witness in the killing of Jacob Rothenberg, dress manufacturer. Irving Ashkenas, a taxicab driver, is awaiting trial on a charge of manslaughter, as Rothenberg's assailant.

After the slaying of Rothenberg during a strike riot last February, two private detectives followed Miss Halperin to Montreal. Posing as Chicago gangsters, they scraped an acquaintance with her and introduced a young man with a scar under his eye to her as "James Capone," a brother of Al Capone.

"Capone" proved affable and a liberal spender. He arranged to meet her later in New York.

Yesterday, accompanied by Miss Halperin, "Capone" walked into the office of District Attorney Crain. "Capone" had told her he had to see about collecting some money owed him.

Dropping his Capone role, the man with the scar disclosed himself as Eugene S. Canaveri, New York detective. He said Miss Halperin had told him she had lured Rothenberg to the street corner where he was struck down.

Canaveri said she also told him she and Ashkenas were in the pay of a garment union. The detective said she boasted of having had a part in the slaying of two other men.

Alleged Fake Peace Officer Fined $10

J. F. Krouse, 32, of 435 Hays avenue, Mt. Oliver, was fined $10 as a suspicious person by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Station today. Mrs. Hoover Rests Alone At Camp on Rapidan

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—Accompanied only by her secretary, Mrs. Herbert Hoover has left the White House for the solitude of the Virginia mountains where she can convalescence from her wrenched back undisturbed by social activities.

For the first time since she was injured two months ago, Mrs. Hoover this week attempted to resume her normal social activities. With the President, she was hostess at a State dinner on Tuesday and Wednesday attended a luncheon at the home of Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the Secretary of Labor.

These occasions left her somewhat exhausted so Capt. Joel T. Boone, White House physician, recommended that she go to the Presidential camp on the headwaters of the Rapidan river, where she would not be confronted by constant demands upon her time and energies.

Dr. Boone said no anxiety was occasioned by the setback in Mrs Hoover's recovery, but that the wrenched muscles needed rest.

FIFTH WARD RAID TO BE FOUGHT BY UNION

ties which Amherst affords. I am leaving with only the most friendly personal feeling toward Chancellor Bowman and his associates.

"I regret that it is so difficult to retain academic integrity in an institution which is in the birth-pangs of a Cathedral of Learning. Four years in Pittsburgh have convinced me of the potentialities of the university.

DEPLORES PRESSURE

"I have been troubled by certain of its academic practices and especially by the dissolution of the Liberal Club and interference with the traditional academic freedom of faculty members. I am confident, however, that as the university matures, it will establish policies which will allow it to take its place among the great universities of the country.

"The University of Pittsburgh will have a brilliant future only if it can learn the difficult lesson of tolerance of ideas, however distasteful these may be to the entrenched business interests."

MANLEY'S STATEMENT

Dr. Louis K. Manley, dean of the school of business administration, said both Warne and Chalmers could have remained in the school if they had cared to, and that he did not see where any issue was raised by their departure.

Chancellor John G. Bowman is in Europe.

Chalmers was reported listed for dismissal from the university several months ago for liberal activities, but was retained at the insistence of the faculty.

The announcement of the resignations preceded an address by Roger Baldwin, of New York, director of the Civil Liberties, who slashed at Pennsylvania's laws against sedition, its courts for convicting three Communists and sending them to the penitentiary for "simply being Communists", its transference of state power to police; the courts' use of the injunction in labor difficulties, and "the system of governmental operation, by which the interests of the nation impose their wishes upon the people, whether by law or any otherwise."

SEES BRITAIN DOWN

Predicting that if the Indian revolt is successful, the British empire will disintegrate, Baldwin swept the ills of the world into a corner with the promise that much would be alleviated if labor so organized that it developed a status of labor polity.

"The economic battle is the battle today," he said. "Pennsylvania is the worst offender in oppression. I have seen towns of 1,500 barricaded with wire, coal towns owned by the corporations. It was not only impossible to get in, but if once in, impossible to get back out. Pennsylvania should sweep away its state police, its industrial police, many of its law-making bodies. I would rather have the militia called in during a strike than have deputy sheriffs, state police, or industrial police.

"Members of the militia are home fellows, many of them workingmen, and are not gunmen or thugs hired for the occasion."

Explaining the work of the Civil Liberties Union, he declared that its function was simply to defend the minority against oppression, to protect its right to free speech on the basis that the minorities contribute most to progress. Dr. Warne presided.

ACTIVE LIBERALS

Warne and Chalmers, of the economics staff at Pitt, were active in the Liberal movement at the school, and around them centered the fifth of the Liberal Club, which ended in its banishment, the Fred Woltman dismissal, the departure of other liberal teachers, including William Nunn and others. Warne served the school four years. Chalmers two. Both are interested in the social side of economics.

Charging police lawlessness in breaking up the meeting of the James F. Malone forces in the Fifth Ward Wednesday night, a ringing statement issued at the meeting pointed out that Malone's group had a permit for the meeting, and that once more police decided for themselves that they were superior to the law. The statement blames, not the individual police, but the Mayor and powers behind them that "gave orders."

HOSPITAL LAYS STONE SUNDAY

The cornerstone of the new building of Allegheny General Hospital, facing East Park, North Side, will be laid at 4 p. m. Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, president of the board of directors of the hospital, will preside.

W. W. Smith

An address tracing the progress of the hospital will be given by William Watson Smith. Dr. John McNaugher, president of the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, will offer the invocation. The stone will be laid by Henry Lee Mason, Jr.

In the stone is placed, in addition to the traditional items, the annual reports of the last four years, which give a complete history of the movement to build the new hospital. The first three reports, prior to 1890, after the founding of the hospital, are likewise included.

U. S. Army Private Dies in Plane Crash

RIVERSIDE, Cal., June 6.—(AP.)—Private Stephen Yazza, a mechanic in the air corps at March Field here, was killed yesterday when an airplane piloted by Lieut. J. R. Glasscock, went into a spin.

Yazza enlisted from Fort Defiance, Ariz. The officer said he jumped at an altitude of 1,000 feet and alighted without injury, aided by his parachute. Yazza did not jump, despite instructions to do so, Lieut. Glasscock said.

Los Angeles Loses Four Damage Cases

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—(AP.)—Four additional claims for damages totaling $30,000 have been allowed against the City of Los Angeles as the result of the St. Francis dam disaster of 1928. It was announced that all but five death claims out of more than 400 growing out of the bursting of the dam have been settled. The flood cost the city approximately $7,000,000.

Wife Shoots Mate, Then Kills Herself

WEST CHESTER, June 6.—(INS.)—Believed to have gone suddenly insane with jealousy, Mrs. Mary Williams Starr, 35, shot her husband, Charles, 29, through the brain; then took her own life in their home near West Grove, about 15 miles west of here, early today.

Mrs. Starr died instantly. Starr, taken to the West Grove Hospital, is dying.

FRELINGHUYSEN SHOWS COURT IS LEAGUE'S

New Jersey Candidate for Senate Protests Against U. S. Entrance, on Radio

ATLANTIC CITY, June 6.—In a radio address here last night Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Republican candidate for nomination to the United States Senate, made a forceful protest against our entry into the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations. He said:

"The question involved is whether our nation shall maintain or shall surrender its traditional political independence with respect to the affairs of foreign nations.

"It is a question on which every candidate for the United States Senate is in duty bound to express his attitude to the people.

"So far as I am concerned, if you elect me to the Senate I shall vote against the entrance of the United States into the League Court.

"When in the Senate before I voted against our participation in the League of Nations, and I regard the court to be part and parcel of the same thing.

COURT PART OF LEAGUE

"Had we entered the League of Nations, we should have surrendered forever our wise policy of maintaining our national political independence, and if we enter the League Court we shall be making the same departure.

"What ground have I for asserting that the League of Nations and the League Court are part and parcel of the same system? In answer, I quote Elihu Root, one of the jurists selected by the League of Nations to draw up the statute of the Court. Mr. Root said:

"'We must first consider that this new Court must be provided for as part of the system of which the League of Nations is a part. We must accept the invitation of the Council and recommend a plan for a court which is now going to form a part of the system of the League of Nations.'

"I also quote Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League, who, after the court had been formed, said:

"'The definite establishment of the court completes the organization of the League.'

"Let us not forget, also, that the court was provided for in the covenant of the League of Nations, that the League members elect the judges of the court and pay their salaries."

Wife Says Sister Broke Up Her Home

Mrs. Mary Sirbough, of 5411 Albemarle street, in Morals Court today charged her sister, Helen Smoller, 20, with breaking up her home. She caused the arrest of the sister and her husband, W. M. Sirbough, 29, yesterday in a room at 246 Atwood street. Miss Smoller denied any impropriety and was discharged. Sirbough was fined $10 by Magistrate T. D. Jones.

Dyer Act Invoked In Theft of Plane

DENVER, June 6.—(AP.)—In the first case of its kind, the government contends in an appeal here that William McBoyle, head of a Galena, Ill., airport, was guilty of violataing the Dyer act in the alleged theft of an airplane.

Counsel for McBoyle argued that the law applies only to transportation of mortgaged or stolen automobiles from one state to another.

The case was taken under advisement.

Murder Trial Halts, Accused at Funeral

CHICAGO, June 6.—(AP.)—Mrs. Walberg Gesterrich, on trial at Los Angeles with a man who lived for years in a secret attic room of her home, for the murder of her husband, was released under custody to attend the funeral of her mother at Milwaukee. She arrived in Chicago at 6:55 a. m., today in custody of Deputy Sheriff Nettie Yaw. Attorney Wilner, her counsel, was also in the party. They left for Milwaukee by automobile.

Buried 40 Feet Deep, Found Alive, Unhurt

SEATTLE, June 6.—(AP.)—Surviving entombment at the bottom of a 40-foot sewer trench in West Seattle yesterday afternoon, A. G. Brooks, a city street inspector, was alive and uninjured today as rescuers tunneled toward him. Joe Ferro, pipe layer, who was caught at the bottom of the trench with Brooks in the cave-in, was crushed to death. Brooks was being fed coffee and brandy through rubber tubing.

AIR TOURISTS ON MOUNTAIN HOP

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 6.—After their restful layover here yesterday, the Pennsylvania good-will fliers were in the air this morning headed across Allegheny Mountains to Pittsburgh. The first stop today is Everett, an air-marked field about 10 miles east of Bedford on the Lincoln highway.

After luncheon there at Mountain Airport, the fliers prepared to hop to Johnstown for overnight stop and then on to Pittsburgh tomorrow.

Their arrival at Bettis Airport at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon is the windup of a 6-day tour of the state demonstrating the practicability of flying Pennsylvania.

So far there have been only two forced landings and two minor accidents.

Nobody has been hurt and only one ship has been left behind in a forced landing.

Three women pilots on the tour—Mrs. Louise Thaden, Hewen Richey and Louise Vamas—have shown themselves to be seasoned navigators as well as aviators. Mrs. Thaden, instead of remaining here for the day's lay-over yesterday, returned to her home port at Butler, Pa., planning to rejoin the tour again today at Everett.

'Annul Nora White's Tia Juana Marriage

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—(INS.)—The Tiajuana marriage of Philip T. Carling and Nora Westerman Carling, known in musical comedy as Nora White, stood annulled today after evidence was introduced showing violation of Mexican marriage laws. The Superior Court ruled late yesterday that the wedding was illegal in California. The ruling ended Mrs. Carling's suit for separate maintenance, and Carling's counter-suit for annullment.

First Salute Shell To Be Given Hoover

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—The first shell fired in a presidential salute to Herbert Hoover is to be presented to him by Assistant Secretary Jahncke of the Navy.

When President Hoover reviewed the fleet off the Virginia capes on May 20, the Salt Lake City, the reviewing ship, led the fleet in a 21-gun salute to the chief executive.

Police Chief Starts Garbage Crusade

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., June 6.—Persons who avoid patronizing the garbage man are alleged to be wrapping their refuse in newspapers, climbing in the family automobile and while cruising rapidly through the city, toss the bundles on immaculate lawns. Chief of Police John C. Wall has opened a crusade to apprehend some of the guilty persons.

Briton Ready to Fly Ocean to New York

DUBLIN, June 6.—(INS.)—While Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith awaited favorable weather to "tool" aloft his tri-motored plane, Southern Cross, on a daring attempt to be the first to span the North Atlantic Ocean in an east-to-west crossing to New York, Free State soldiers were busy today preparing the landing field at Curragh for his take-off.

School Head Quits At Commencement

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 6.—One of the last acts of J. C. SAN FRANCISCO, June 6 (AP.)—Arrest in the East of Miss Marian Birney, 29, landscape artist, under indictment on the charge of embezzling $65,000 in bonds entrusted to her by her father, Dr. Bascom Birney, 74, was expected today by police here after word from New York and Hoboken, N. J., that she is in that region.

Miss Birney, graduate in agriculture from Syracuse University, disappeared from her apartment here a week ago. The missing money represented the life savings of Dr. Birney, retired physician and former surgeon for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad.

Mrs. Brooks Divorces Bell-Ringing Mate

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., June 6.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Elisabeth Brooks was granted a final decree of divorce from Reginald Brooks, New York and Palm Beach clubman. She had charged that Brooks had secreted alarm clocks about their Palm Beach home, setting the alarms to sound at one hour intervals. She also charged him with parading through the house ringing cow bells and with other acts which she said caused her health to break.

Foreigners in China Flee, Fear Massacre

LONDON, June 6.—(INS.)—Panic-stricken foreigners, fearing a repetition of the 1928 massacre, moved to concentration camps together with thousands of non-combatant Chinese today as Nationalist forces engaged Northern rebel troops in heavy fighting about Thinanfu, according to a Pekin dispatch to the Daily Telegraph. The Northerners claimed to have bombarded and burned the neighboring town of Flokow.

ALTITUDE FLIER TO TRY AGAIN

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—Clouds blotting out the earth at 22,000 feet forced Lieut. Apollo Soucek to turn back yesterday in his second attempt to break the world's airplane altitude record.

With favorable weather he will try again today, he said, using the same metal propeller but with increased pitch.

Scheduled to go to sea in 11 days the high flyin' ace is making his last trials to reclaim the record he held last year for the United States.

Lieut. Soucek must surpass by 528 feet the record of 41,794 feet made last year by Willi Neuenhofen, German pilot.

Flames Evict Guests Of Boardwalk Hotel

ATLANTIC CITY, June 6.—(AP.)—Guests at the Chelsea Hotel, fronting the boardwalk, fled to the street early today when fire destroyed a one-story bathhouse opposite.

Sparks showered upon nearby buildings. Bell boys from the Chelsea were formed into a bucket brigade to extinguish the embers as they fell upon the hotel roof. Thousands looked on.

BOY DIES IN OIL PLANT BLAZE

LOTHAIR, Ky., June 6 (AP)—A four-year-old boy was burned to death and more than 100 persons were made homeless by a fire which swept the Standard Oil Company storage plant and surrounding buildings here.

The child, Junior Vanover, son of Grayson Vanover, an employe of the oil company, had been left by his mother, an aid to the fire fighters, and he evidently was trapped in the blaze by the fire.

Standard Oil officials have estimated their loss at $1,000,000 and damage to homes and adjacent property owned by the Kingsford Coal Company was set at $50,000. The fire was brought under control after four hours had been exhausted in preventing the spread of the flames.

The fire started in the oil plant, presumably set by sparks from a smokestack.

Foot Broken in Crash, Wins $15,000

For a [illegible] injured leg, Mary [illegible] Homestead yesterday won a $15,000 verdict in Common Pleas Court against the Pittsburgh Railways Company for injuries received November 20, 1928, in a collision between a Beltzhoover and a Homestead car. The case was heard before Judge Alexander B. Reid. Her counsel was H. Fred Mercer. The plaintiff had asked for $50,000 in damages.

2 Youths Confess Stealing Autos For $5 Each

MEADVILLE, Pa., June 6 (AP)—Arrest of two young men was believed by state police to have paved the way for clearing up several recent car thefts and gasoline station holdups in Crawford, Venango and Clarion counties.

The prisoners, John Myers, 20, Franklin, and Donald Vogan, 20, Reno, Pa., confessed, state police said, that they had been employed by an Oil City man to steal automobiles at $5 a car. Officers said the two revealed the name of the man.

They were caught here with a car which police said they admitted stealing in Franklin.

$40,000,000 LEFT BY GETTY

LOS ANGELES, June 6—(AP)—An estate valued at $40,000,000 was left by the late George F. Getty, 74, oil operator, it was disclosed with the filing of his will for probate. Getty died last Saturday.

Virtually the entire estate was left to his widow, Mrs. Sarah C. Getty. A son, J. Paul Getty, was bequeathed $500,000 and a grandson, George Franklin Getty III, was willed $300,000. Several relatives received bequests of $1,000 and $2,000.

Getty had been a figure in California oil development for 25 years.

HARD-SOFT LARGE-SMALL CORNS

Out to Stay Out—Roots and All. Magic Oxygen Salts Bath Never Fails. No More Burning, Aching Feet.

No matter how many corns you have or how painful they are—soak your feet for 15 minutes in a delightfully soothing and revitalizing Radox foot bath for 3 or 4 nights—then lift corns and callouses right out, roots and all, and they won't come back either unless you wear shoes again which aggravate your feet.

No cutting or digging to required, because Radox liberates oxygen, which softens hard, horny layers of corns, each tiny bubble penetrating the pores further and further, carrying the acids right to roots of corns which are so loosened they can be lifted out bodily.

Your feet are made strong, healthy, vigorous—hard skin on toes and [illegible] soft.

Mayflower Drug Stores and all good drug stores are stocked with Radox—if they aren't, insist upon them ordering it if you want to experience great foot joy and comfort.

JOB LACK HELD CHURCH ISSUE

PHILADELPHIA, June 6 (AP.)—Unemployment is a spiritual as well as an economic problem and therefore should intimately concern the church and religion, the Rev. G. H. Bechtold, secretary of the Board of Home Missions, declared at the closing session of the convention of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania.

The statement was made in the presentation of the report of the Inner Mission Board, which added that the lack of employment is a serious problem leading to the disruption of families and estrangement from the church.

Need of the evangelistic spirit in the individual congregations was stressed by the Rev. G. H. Kinard, of Allentown. He continued:

"Protestant churches in America gained 500,000 members in 1927 and 1,112,000 in 1928, but the increase dropped to less than 500,000 in 1929. The Lutheran church led in number of accessions with 65,000. Only 10,000 of these members were accredited to the United Lutheran Church, with the ministerium claiming about a third of that number, although comprising only one-fifth of the united church."

4 FLIERS KILLED IN 2 CRASHES

ALLENDALE, Mich., June 6—(AP.)—Two men were killed and a boy injured critically in an airplane accident near here. The dead are Gilbert McHarmid, pilot-instructor for the Leonard Motorless Aircraft Company of Grand Rapids, and Gilbert Heilink, salesman for the company.

The boy was taken to a hospital at Grand Haven, Mich., where his condition was pronounced serious. He was not identified definitely, but was believed to be Charles Giberson, 17, of Kalamazoo.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 6—(AP.)—Two persons were killed at the airport here as their plane went into a flat spin while they prepared to land.

The victims were Francis A. Cote, 19, Franklin, Mass., and Clyde G. Maxfield, 23, of West Barnstable, Mass. Maxfield died on the way to a hospital.

Speeding Bishop's Auto Halted By Shot

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 6 (AP.)—Archbishop Stefan was arrested for speeding in a manner that for a time caused reports that he had been shot.

The archbishop was motoring home to Sofia and as he entered the town his chauffeur put on a fast speed. A mounted policeman who did not recognize the Archbishop's automobile fired a shot in the air thereby signaling a patrol further up the road to halt the machine.

The second officer thereupon stopped the bishop and took him to the police station where he was released with apologies after he established his identity.

Grand Jury Raps Work of Justices

BEAVER, Pa., June 6.—Justices of the peace of Beaver county were admonished in a report to the court by the grand jury Russell Porter, foreman of the jury told the court that because of improperly drawn informations many cases were dismissed and the costs placed on the county.

CAROL'S RETURN HERALDED

BUCHAREST, June 6 (AP.)—Prince Carol, former heir to the Rumanian throne, was said on good authority to have informed Gen. Averescu he intends to change his manner of living at once and separate from the companion with whom he has lived in France.

The news was regarded here as a distinct step toward the return of the prince to Rumania. Minister Titulescu, who has returned to his post in London, was reliably reported to have told all with whom he talked to exercise tolerance toward Carol.

His attitude was said to have been that the prince cannot forever be kept away from home. He said the best way to take Carol's name out of politics would be to let him come home not as a pretender to the throne but as a prince who definitely renounces his rights.

PLAN FOR HUGE FUND BEFORE CLUBWOMEN

$2,000,000 Endowment for Federation's Work Urged At Denver Convention

DENVER, June 6.—(AP.)—Establishment of a $2,000,000 endowment fund to further the work of the General Federation of Women's Clubs was before the organization as it opened its biennial convention here.

Since its inception the Federation has financed its varied programs with a per capita assessment of 10 cents annually.

WOULD ASSESS MEMBERS

Under the new plan each member would be assessed $2 to be paid over a period of two years, the aggregate to be established as an endowment fund and the interest only to be used in the organization's program.

In connection with this, opposition was expressed at a meeting of state presidents, to a movement that would virtually strip the board of trustees of its power to invest funds of the Federation. An amendment would place this power in the hands of a financial committee of three members.

CHAIRMAN SUMMONED

Mrs. Edward Franklin White, Indianapolis, Ind., chairman of the constitution revision committee, was called from her room to answer numerous questions as discussion of the proposed amendment became heated.

Addresses of welcome were given last night by Gov. W. H. Adams, of Colorado, and Mayor Ben F. Stapleton, of Denver.

EX-WIFE AGAIN SUES MAGNATE

CHICAGO, June 6.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mildred R. Archibald, wife of H. Teller Archibald, owner of a string of candy stores, filed suit for divorce, although her husband divorced her in Miami, Fla., last year and is now married to another woman.

Mrs. Archibald charged that he deserted her in 1926 after 25 years of married life. Her attorney explained that the suit is intended to clarify her legal status and replaces an action for separate maintenance. There has already been a property settlement out of court, he said. Mrs. Archibald failed recently in an effort to have the Miami decree set aside, on the ground that she had been notified only by publication.

Archibald married Miss Dorothy Wooden, of Washington, D. C., after he won his decree.

BUTLER RETAINS PEACE POST

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP.)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, was re-elected president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace at its annual meeting. Other officers also were re-elected.

Elihu Root resigned from the executive committee but remains as a trustee. His place was taken by James R. Sheffield, former ambassador to Mexico.

Charles S. Hamlin, of Washington, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, serves in Sheffield's place on the finance committee.

N. Y. Chase National Has 84 Directors

NEW YORK, June 6.—Eighty-four of the nation's financial and business leaders join in directing the destinies of the world's largest bank, the Chase National Bank of the City of New York. Seventeen directors who sat either on the board of the Chase or the Equitable Trust which recently were merged have been dropped, and two new directors added, Robert C. Stanley, president of International Nickel, and John C. Traphagen, former Equitable vice president. The National City Bank, second largest, has only 27 directors.

President of Cuba Cuts Own Salary

HAVANA, Cuba, June 6.—(AP.)—President Gerardo Machado took the initiative in reducing Cuba's national budget by appearing before the cabinet and voluntarily cutting his salary to $12,000 a year from $25,000. Salaries of other government officials were reduced also to enable the secretary of the treasury to keep within the $76,000,000 budget announced.

Idleness Blamed For Man's Suicide

JOHNSTOWN, June 6.—Discouraged over his repeated failure to obtain work, was the motive in the suicide of John Jaber, 29, who hung himself with a clothesline at his home here. The suicide left a note to relatives telling the reason for his act.

City to Enforce Dodger Ordinance

MONONGAHELA, Pa., June 6.—An ordinance prohibiting the littering of city streets with advertising dodgers will be enforced strictly and violators will be fined, police announced.

5 HURT, FOREST FIRE QUELLED

FEDERALSBURG, Md., June 6 (AP.)—Fanned by a high wind, a forest fire swept over 300 acres of timber land near here, injuring five firefighters before it was brought under control at the edge of the Reliance highway. Had it not been stopped there, it would have burned 1,000 acres of timber lands and threatened the towns of Bridgeville and Ivy.

The injured men, all members of the Federalsburg fire department, were dragged from danger unconscious.

The fire is thought to have started from an engine at a saw mill owned by James Dash, situated on a tract from which he was cutting timber.

Mothers of Thin Underweight Children

Don't Delay Accepting Local Druggist's Weight-Increasing Offer

It makes a mother's heart ache to see her puny, underweight child moping around with hollow-cheated stoop and pipe-stem legs. Such cruel thinness is no longer necessary.

Thanks to a wonderful scientific discovery, druggists are now guaranteeing McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets, which will cover up your child's ribs, round out his chest, flesh out his cheeks, greatly increase his strength, vigor and endurance—just as they did for the New Jersey boy who recently gained 10 pounds in 21 days.

Your child will like these pleasant sugar-coated tablets as full of pure cod liver oil's unequaled flesh-producing vitamins, because they have no fishy taste, and never upset the stomach.

Read this ironclad guarantee—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets must give any underweight man, woman or child the desired increase in weight or money refunded. Just ask for McCoy's at any drug store—60 tablets 60 cents.

TRY SHOW BOAT CASES JUNE 16

District Attorney Andrew T. Park announced today that preparations had been made to rush the trial of three men indicted yesterday in connection with the raid on the Show Boat, and that they would be put on trial June 16.

The defendants are Milton Jaffe, Louis "Doc" Markowitz and F. P. Graham, indicted as alleged operators of the Show Boat, floating gambling palace. The three are charged with being common gamblers and maintaining gambling devices.

On June 12, the 12 defendants indicted in connection with a raid on the boat Manitou on which an immoral show was said to have been given, will go on trial.

BILL 'RAISERS' SENTENCED

A man was sentenced to the Atlanta Penitentiary for five years and his brother paroled for two years today after they had pleaded guilty in Federal Court of raising $5 bills to $20 notes.

Joseph Stankovitch, 28, and John, 19, admitted passing bills they had raised, in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Joseph, who said he had been sentenced before on a similar charge, drew the prison term.

Isadore Freidman, 27, was sentenced to serve a year at Atlanta after pleading to charges of violating the narcotics law.

Jules Pascin, Paris Artist, Hangs Self

PARIS, June 6.—(AP.)—The Petit Parisien today said Jules Pascin, one of the most talented painters of the younger school, was found dead yesterday hanging from the knob of a studio door in the Montmartre.

The discovery was made by friends who, alarmed at not having seen him since Sunday, broke the door of the apartment. A police inquiry returned a verdict of suicide due to acute neurasthenia, from which he had suffered for months.

N. Y. Play Producer Dies in California

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—(AP.)—Fred C. Whitney, 65, theatrical producer, is dead here after a long illness. Whitney was ill when he came here from his home in New York ten weeks ago to produce a play. The body will be sent to Detroit for burial, where his son, William Whitney lives.

Mexico Population Set at 16,404,030

MEXICO CITY, June 6.—(AP.)—Mexico's population is 16,404,030, according to the 1930 census.

The nationwide count taken on May 15 showed a gain of approximately 2,000,000 population since 1921, according to a statement of the census board today.

LLOYD GEORGE URGES UNITY

LONDON, June 6. — (AP.) — David Lloyd George, Britain's war-time premier, at the Imperial Press conference today sounded the call to a new empire unity. He declared:

"We attained equality through unity in the war. Now let us rivet that equality through unity."

"We should strive until we have welded all nations of the empire into one free commonwealth of equal and independent nations—equal, free and independent in a commonwealth of vast opportunities, but also with burdens and responsibilities."

FOLLIES BEAUTY SUES RICH MAN

LOS ANGELES, June 6. — (INS.)—Miss Cano Morris, of Cleveland, O., beautiful, brunette dancing girl of the Ziegfeld Follies, filed suit for $200,000 damages against Charles T. Davis, retired millionaire, on charges of betraying her under a promise to marry.

Miss Morris alleged she came to this city from her home in Cleveland with money furnished by Davis in April with a marriage understanding. She was induced, she claims, upon promise of marriage, to live on Davis' Tujunga Mountain estate and pose as his wife.

Miss Morris charged she learned Davis was already married. She asked $100,000 damages and $100,000 for punishment.

30 Hurt as Fascists And Socialists Clash

WOLFENBUETTEL, Germany, June 6.—(AP.)—Fascists and Communists invaded a Socialist Reichsbanner meeting here last night. A free fight resulted in which more than 30 persons were injured. A man dropped dead from excitement.

GRAND JURORS FREE BORGLUM

DECATUR, Ga., June 6.—(AP.)—The Dekalb County grand jury recommended that the three indictments against Gutzon Borglum, original sculptor of the Stone Mountain Confederate monument, charging malicious mischief, be nolle prossed.

The indictments were returned five years ago after the famous sculptor smashed several models of the monument.

Two of the indictments were against Borglum and J. G. Tucker, former superintendent of the monument, and the third was against Borglum alone.

No explanation was included in the grand jury's recommendation.

The models were wrecked about the time Augustus Lukeman succeeded Borglum as the monument sculptor.

TRIO CONVICTED IN ABDUCTION

CHICAGO, June 6. — (AP.) — Samuel Gold, Norman Resnick and Seymour Pellar were found guilty by a criminal court jury of kidnaping Theodore Kopelman and extorting $4,000 ransom. Four other persons arrested in connection with the kidnaping, including Kopelman's divorced wife, are to be tried later.

The jury fixed the punishment at 20 years imprisonment. The defense announced it would ask a new trial.

Kopelman was kidnaped February 28 and held prisoner three days in a bungalow near Trevor, Wis. He arranged with his attorney and his sister, Gertrude Kopelman, to turn over $4,000 to the kidnapers. Six men, including Gold, Resnick and Pellar, were arrested when they entered Miss Kopelman's dress shop, allegedly to collect the rest of the money.

Mrs. Myrtle Thoren Kopelman, the victim's divorced wife, was indicted on a conspiracy charge. Witnesses said she was Resnick's sweetheart and instigated the kidnaping plot.

EDGE DEFENDS U. S. CUSTOMS

LILLE, FRANCE, June 6.—(AP.)—Dissatisfaction with the activities of American customs officials in France was one of the first things Ambassador Edge encountered on his third visit to French industrial regions now in progress.

He also met, as on previous tours, objections to the rates of duties in the United States on French goods. The Ambassador replied at the Lille Chamber of Commerce that he had statistics to show that the Lille district nevertheless, sold more goods to the United States as the tariff became higher.

Criticism of American customs agents was voiced by Alfred Decamps, president of the Lille Chamber of Commerce.

Playgrounds to Open At Ellwood City

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., June 6.—Ellwood City's playgrounds will open the present season here Monday. Miss Helen Wilson is general supervisor. A playground will be opened in the West End this year for the first time. Other playgrounds are located at Shelby, Lincoln school and North Side. Swings, slides, sand boxes and other equipment will be set up.

Adorable Frock for Tot

Pattern 1923

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Cool and comfy for warm summer weather is this dainty frock and bloomer model for your small girl. It is so very easy to make, too! The becoming cape collar and the hem of the dress are cut from white fabric while the body of the dress is cut from a print. A front box pleat gives additional grace and fullness.

Pattern 1923 makes up beautifully in dimity, lawn, batiste, piqué, organdy or voile. Small flowers, dots, geometric designs and checks are popular for small garments this season. Smart colors are red, yellow, pink, blue, green and orchid.

May be ordered only in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 2 requires 1⅞ yards of 35-inch fabric and ¾ yard contrasting material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our BOOK of PATTERNS for adults and children, also transfer patterns, is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.
5—Address your request to

Pennsy Acquires West Jersey Line

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—Acquisition of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad by the Pennsylvania Railroad, through a 999 year lease, was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

RIOTERS HELD IN LYNCHING

CHICKASHA, Okla., June 6.—(AP.)—Seventeen men were accused in a blanket complaint filed in District Court as leaders of a mob which last Friday night and Saturday morning besieged the Grady County Jail and fatally wounded Henry Argo, Negro, alleged assailant of a white woman.

G. W. Skinner, husband of the woman who was attacked, and Jud Brown, named by witnesses as the actual slayer of the Negro, were among those charged. Skinner stabbed Argo as he lay dying in jail after a member of the mob had climbed up vines on the wall of the jail and shot the Negro through a cell window.

Warrants for the arrest of the men were being issued.

DOHENY JURORS CALLED STUPID

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—(AP.)—Why Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, was not convicted of offering former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall a bribe, after Fall had been convicted of accepting a bribe from Doheny, was explained last night by former Senator Atlee Pomerene at the Democratic "victory dinner" here last night.

Failure to convict Doheny was "because of the stupidity of 12 Washington jurors," the special government prosecutor declared.

Pomerene had been asked by former Gov. James M. Cox, chairman of the meeting, to explain why Fall was convicted and Doheny not.

G. O. P. LEADER HIT ON RUM

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—A newspaper report describing the alleged finding of liquor in a Dallas hotel room occupied by R. B. Creager, Republican National Committeeman from Texas, was inserted in the Congressional Record by Senator Brookhart (Rep.), Iowa.

Senator Connally (Dem.), of Texas, questioned the propriety of this but withdrew his objection when Brookhart insisted "I want the President to know what kind of a referee he has there."

Brookhart asserted Creager was "protecting liquor" in the state, and put into the record an affidavit describing, he said, the finding of the liquor in Creager's room.

WORLD WOMEN NAME LEADER

VIENNA, June 6.—(AP.)—The International Council of Women chose the Marchioness of Aberdeen, as its president for the next six years, deciding that the president should hold a six-year term and that the congress should meet every three years instead of five.

The council settled many problems. When debate arose concerning duplication of work by the International Council and the World League for Suffrage, it was decided that both should meet simultaneously henceforth.

Regarding the question of a woman's retention of nationality after her marriage to a foreigner, which failed of settlement at a recent conference at The Hague, the women voted to present the question to the various governments.

WOMEN ELECT MRS. LANDES

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(AP.)—Mrs. Bertha K. Landes, former mayor of Seattle, Wash., was elected president of the American Federation of Soroptomist Clubs. She had held the office of second vice president the last two years.

The federation, composed of business and professional women and wives of Rotarians, proposes the formation of a young people's world citizenship league as a means of teaching a universal doctrine of peace and a uniform creed of friendliness. The plan will be submitted at the international convention of the clubs in London later this month.

Beaver Driver Held After Fatal Crash

BEAVER, Pa., June 6.—Donald Groscost, 24, of Beaver, was held for court in bond of $2,000 by Justice David Stewart on charges of involuntary manslaughter and failure to stop in connection with the death of Charles L. Kirschler, 2... Kirschler was killed May 28 when his truck overturned after being side-swiped by an automobile driven by Groscost, police said.

Everyone Has Job In W. Va. Town, Census Shows

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., June 6.—(AP.)—It has been said that "everybody works but father," but this is not true in Dekalb district, Gilmer County, where everybody has a job. This according to census returns made by L. A. Carr, Fifth District supervisor.

POLAND DROPS U. S. POWER BID

WARSAW, Poland, June 6.—(AP.)—The Polish government definitely rejected the proposal of the Harriman interests to electrify six provinces in Central Poland.

The American group made its proposal a year ago, asking a 60-year concession to build transmission lines and plans using both coal and water power.

The plan was violently attacked by the press the general objection being that 60 years was too long a period. Political reasons also intervened, many opponents saying it was dangerous to give so important a concession to foreigners because in the event of differences the concessionaire might seek diplomatic intervention by its government.

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripes; children liked its pleasant taste. All drugstores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

PORTER'S DOPE BILL DEEMED EFFECTIVE

Measure Passed by Houses Concentrates Narcotics War, Deputy Points Out

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Through a concentration of activities the Porter bill should make an important contribution to more effective enforcement of the Harrison anti-narcotic act, aimed at curbing the dope habit, Deputy Prohibition Commissioner H G Anslinger declared today

The Senate, by unanimous vote passed the bill yesterday. As two amendments were adopted, the bill today returns to the House, where a motion will be made to concur in the Senate amendments.

STUDIES SITUATION

Since Col. L. G. Nutt was relieved of direction of the narcotic section of the Treasury, following revelations in New York City, Anslinger has been directing this service, and has made a careful study of the situation.

The Porter bill sets up a bureau of narcotics in the Treasury headed by a commissioner at $9,000 annual salary, and a division of mental hygiene in the Public Health Service, which will have supervision over the two Federal narcotic farms as well as certain research and scientific duties.

In Anslinger's opinion addiction is on the decline because of the increasing difficulty in obtaining dope.

More than 95 per cent of the drug distributors brought before the Federal courts during the past year have been convicted and the courts do not hesitate to administer severe fines and sentences.

PRICES FORCED UP

The hard drive against narcotic distribution by the present Treasury force, inadequate as it is in numbers, has forced prices of drugs to from $125 to $300 an ounce, depending upon the section of the country, according to Anslinger. The highest prices prevail in the interior of the country.

The Treasury's narcotic bureau will be under the supervision of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman.

BERGER FIGHTS DIVORCE

Charles Berger, one time confessed bootlegger, filed an answer in court yesterday to a suit for divorce brought by Fannie Berger, in which he set forth that his wife had never been the same toward him since he returned from the Atlanta penitentiary.

Berger says he gave his wife realty, cash, furniture and liquor valued in all at nearly $30,000. When he returned she had only $6,000 left. She gave him half and he used it to start in business on the North Side, he avers. He denies the charges of cruelty which are the basis of her suit.

New Gusher Brings Large Flow of Gas

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 6.—The Peoples Natural Gas Company, of Pittsburgh, has drilled in a gas well on the Frank Watson farm in Morgan Township, Greene county, which has an initial production of 2,500,000 cubic feet of gas per day. The well, in the Castle gas field, is one of the largest gushers to be found in Southwestern Pennsylvania for several weeks.

Several drilling projects are now under way in the Castle section.

Engineers Indorse Raise in U. S. Pay

CLEVELAND, O., June 6.—(AP.)—Proposed increase in pay for inspectors for the Interstate Commerce Commission was indorsed by the sixth triennial convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Consolidation of the Brotherhood with the Order of Railway Conductors was advocated before the convention by E. P. Curtis, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., president of the conductors' organization. No action was taken by the Brotherhood.

CURIOUS CREATURES

By RICHARD A. ADDISON.

O. K. FUNDS FOR RIVERS HERE

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—On the recommendation of Major General Lytle Brown, chief of Army engineers Secretary Hurley approved a total expenditure of $6,602,600 for river and harbor improvements in Pennsylvania, under provisions of the War Department appropriation act approved May 26. The money would become available in the new fiscal year which begins July 1.

The largest single item is $3,380,000 to be spent on the Delaware River from Philadelphia to the sea, while Ohio River open channel work received the second largest allotment of $1,640,000.

Allotments affecting Western Pennsylvania waterways were made as follows:

Ohio River, lock and dam construction, $338,850, as against $1,886,760 recommended last December; $800,000 for lock and dam construction in the Allegheny River, for which no recommendation was previously made; $3,000 for Allegheny River open channel river, as recommended; $2,000 for maintenance work in the Youghiogheny River, as recommended, and $30,000 for examination, surveys and contingencies in the Pittsburgh district.

Fire Fighters Save Town From Flames

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 6.—(INS.)—After a hard fight, firemen and volunteers checked the blaze which threatened to wipe out the town of Isleton today. The fire ruined the Central Hotel, a garage containing a number of automobiles, and two residences. Loss was estimated at $125,000.

TWO MEN HELD IN ROBBERY

WHEELING, W. Va., June 6.—An effort is being made to identify two men, under arrest as the bandits who held up a gasoline station at Cadiz, O., just west of this city, as the same men who held up J. W. Johnson, cashier of the Union Bank, of Benwood, and escaped with $10,000 in cash, about two weeks ago.

The suspects, who gave their names as John Strain, 25, Port Royal, Pa., and Otto S. Berg, Boston, Mass., are held in the Jefferson County jail at Steubenville, O., without bond, pending a hearing. They were injured when their car overturned during a chase in which Sheriff Maurice Wooster and Deputy Estep captured them. Berg had several ribs fractured.

PRIEST ASSAILS RACE HATRED

VILLANOVA, Pa., June 6.—(AP.)—Moral atrophy, racial and religious hatred and the spirit of centralization "which destroys state rights and ultimately aims to make man a serf," were listed as among the menaces that face the United States in an address by the Rev. Patrick V. Scanlan at the annual commencement of Villanova College.

Father Scanlan declared a college graduate had a better opportunity to succeed in the United States than in any other country.

Degrees and certificates were awarded 195 students.

The Mendel medal, presented by the college for "distinguished service in the advancement of science," was awarded to Dr. Albert Francis Zahm, chief of the division of aeronautics in the Library of Congress, Washington.

2 HELD IN KAW PACKING DEATH

TOPEKA, Kas., June 6 (AP).—L. H. Kimmel, 48, president and Virgil Pointer, 38, foreman of the Kaw Packing Company, Topeka, were charged with murder in connection with the death of Roy Kramer, 47, an employe of the concern, which officials said was attributed to an accident.

Charges of murder in the first degree were filed by J. Glenn Logan, county attorney, against the two men after the "handyman," in an affidavit, stated he had slain the company official at the suggestion of the president who promised he would be a lot easier to live with.

The packing company officials said has collected $30,000 on insurance carried on Kramer's life.

Protesting his innocence, Kimmel, who has a wife and five children, pleaded not guilty at his arraignment. He was released under $25,000 bond.

MOTORIST HELD IN 3 DEATHS

McCOOLE, Md., June 6 (AP).—A charge of manslaughter was lodged against John T. Kidner by a coroner's jury last night in connection with the fatal injury of a mother and her two children at Dawson Monday night. Kidner was released under $1,500 bail. He had waived extradition from West Virginia where he was arrested.

Mrs. Faye Walker and her daughter Barbara and son, Junior, died after being struck by an automobile which fatally injured the Walker family group of 10 on the highway. Kidner was arrested by state police after he had taken one of the injured to a Keyser, W. Va., hospital. He has denied his was the machine which struck the group.

Two Sisters Die Within Three Days

ROCHESTER, Pa., June 6.—Death claimed two sisters, members of a Rochester family, within three days. When the Misses Annie and Maggie Nannah returned from the funeral of their sister, Miss Kate Nannah, who for 60 years was a teacher in the Rochester public schools, they were informed of the death of their only other sister, Mrs. Sarah N. Gormley, in Brazil, Ind.

Mrs. Gormley's funeral will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday from the Aberli funeral parlors, North Side, Pittsburgh.

Despondent Over Parting, Wife Shoots Self

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., June 6 (AP).—Mrs. Bertha Tyree, (illegible) 27, of Cameron, Marshall County, formerly of Greene County, Pa., attempted to take her own life and last night was in a serious condition in a Moundsville hospital with a bullet wound above the heart.

Dr. D. B. Fahy, attending physician, said Mrs. Tyree told him she had been despondent because of inability to find her estranged husband, Wilbert Tyree, who she said has filed her for divorce at Waynesburg, Pa. She shot herself at the home of her mother, Mrs. Annie Workman.

It's comforting to know that if you need money you can get it. A glance at the "Loan Ads" in the Classified Section will give you the names of money firms which will be glad to serve you.

MEXICO TO BUY 30 U. S. PLANES

MEXICO CITY, June 6 (AP).—The Mexican war department decided virtually to double the number of its modern fighting planes.

The aviation department will purchase 30 new airplanes in the United States and organize a second aerial group to supplement the one now in existence.

Gen. Pedro Calles has been appointed chief of the air service.

Students Awarded Special Honors

PERRYOPOLIS, Pa., June 6.—Degrees of master of mumbled have been presented to 44 students of the Perry Township High School in recognition of their performance in a special literature course which required considerable home reading preparation. The extra activity was conducted by Miss Florence Lauderi, dean of girls.

Parnassus Nurses Awarded Diplomas

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., June 6.—Sara Florence Hauddon, Leechburg; Leah Belle Rappe, Evans City; Anna Irene Dowds, Pitcairn, and Agnes Pauline Webb, Scottdale, Citizens' General Hospital Nurses' Training School students, graduated.

Campbell, Tube Co. Chief, in Hospital

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 6.—James A. Campbell, chairman of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, is in the North Side Youngstown Hospital suffering from a carbuncle on his arm.

'Disgusted' With Jail Camp, Man Departs

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 6.—James P. Burns, 46, Cumberland, Md., arrested by an officer here on a minor charge, admitted to police he escaped from the Fayette County prison camp September 6, 1928, after he became "disgusted with the place."

Boy Injured When Struck by Auto

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 6.—Struck by an auto alleged to have been driven by Russell Brocket of Overbrook, Ronald Mathews, 7, of Jeannette, sustained lacerations of the head and other injuries.

Big Gas Strike Made Near Washington

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 6.—A gas strike reported to be making 700,000 cubic feet has been made in the 50-foot sand on the S. C. Weir lease southwest of this city by the recently organized Duquesne Gas Corporation.

Mail Carrier Dies Of Heart Attack

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 6.—While working in his yard, Morris E. Allison, former local mail carrier and prominent in Democratic politics in this section, was stricken with a heart attack and died shortly afterwards.

Attorney Injured In Auto Accident

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., June 6.—Attorney E. C. Higbee, member of the Fayette County Bar Association, is in Connellsville State Hospital with injuries to the head, sustained when the automobile in which he was riding with his son, Donald, was forced from the Connellsville-Uniontown highway.

Let us make a Free MOTH Inspection in your Home

THOUSANDS of dollars worth of beautiful furniture will be destroyed by moths this year in Pittsburgh, and the unbelievable thing is that the owners will not suspect that the damage is being done until too late. Early summer is the chief egg-laying season with these crafty marauders. They may be buried deep in the fabrics of your choicest possessions, no warning given until brushing reveals the irreparable destruction.

Call MAyflower 6000

Why Take This Risk?

One of our experts will gladly visit your home and make a scientific examination without cost or obligation. If danger signs are found, an estimate will be presented covering complete elimination of all forms of moth life, by a process which carries a FREE INSURANCE POLICY with Lloyd's Casualty Company, against moth damage for a period of THREE YEARS.

AUTOMATIC EYE TELLS SHADES IN COLORS

New Invention Registers Differences Unnoticeable Without Machine's Aid

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP.)—A pair of mechanical eyes that can match colors better than any woman has been produced at New York University.

The device was announced to the New York Electrical Society at New York University by its inventor, Dr. H. H. Sheldon, professor of physics, and incoming president of the society.

FAST AS HUMAN EYE

This new robot is as fast as the eye, its decisions instantaneous. Its eyes are two photo electric cells. The colors to be compared are laid in front of them. A needle pointer between the eyes immediately swings. If the match is perfect the needle exactly balances between the two cells, its point at zero on a scale. If the match is off, the needle swings, to one side for too light, to the other for too dark, and moreover it indicates on the scale exactly how far the match is "off."

It registers color differences invisible to the most expert eye. This means, said Dr. Sheldon, that ultimately one more human task will be taken over by machines because they can do the job better.

USEFUL ON FOODS

"The device reveals," he said, "that no piece of cloth is the same color on both sides, even when both are dyed the same. This is because in finishing one side comes off a hot roller, and the hot side is different in color. The difference is quite invisible to the eye.

"This coloroscope, as we call it, was developed at the request of a large textile manufacturer. But as often happens when scientific work is done for a specific purpose, it is finding a surprising number of uses. Only this week a representative of the yeast industry said he wanted to use it. Its values are obvious for industries employing color, including paints and varnish, tiles and materials. But it has been interesting to learn how many foods and liquids use rigid color standards."

RAZOR COMPANY OFFICIAL DIES

BOSTON, June 6.—(AP.)—William E. Nickerson, inventor, bank director and vice president of the Gillette Safety Razor Company, died at his home here. He was a trustee of Boston University and gave large sums of money to the university under the name of "the mysterious Mr. Smith."

Nickerson was born in Provincetown in 1853. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His most notable achievement as an inventor was in the making of all the machinery used by the Gillette Company.

His last gift to the university was an athletic field, which has been named for him.

Soviet Decree Aids Jews in Russia

MOSCOW, June 6.—(AP.)—Jewish Telegraphic Agency.—A decree which enables the entire Jewish population of the small towns to become artisans, relieves them of fear of high taxes and will eventually permit them to go into Soviet industry as qualified workers was issued by the Soviet cabinet. This decree is only a part of the relief program which the Soviet government has in mind for the Jews of the small towns.

Coxey's Caravan Attached for Wages

ERIE, Pa., June 6.—(AP.)—The caravan in which J. S. Coxey, Sr., of Massillon, O., has been traveling about the country giving lectures was attached here by R. G. Mooers, who has been taking care of the property while the caravan was wintered here.

Mooers claims Coxey, known for his unemployment march on Washington, owes him $1,200 in wages.

Rail Magnate's Son Marries Divorcee

CHICAGO, June 6.—(AP.)—Chauncey B. Blair, son of the late Chauncey J. Blair, financier and nephew of Henry A. Blair, head of the Chicago surface lines, was married to Mrs. Paulette Picard Daniels Whiting, society matron. Blair was divorced by his wife last week. His bride has been divorced twice.

Butler Banker Gets Second Jail Term

BUTLER, Pa., June 6.—(AP.)—Thomas M. Baker, 68, vice president of the Merchants' National Bank, which closed its doors three years ago because of defalcations, was sentenced to serve from two to four years in the Western Pennsylvania Penitentiary for embezzlement. Baker finished a three-year term in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta recently.

Former Congressman Running for Senate

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—(AP.)—Robert J. Bulkley, former member of Congress from Cleveland, announced his candidacy for the nomination as United States Senator subject to the Democratic primary. There are four other aspirants for the Democratic nomination.

Man Leaves Bed To Kill Himself

ERIE, Pa., June 6.—(AP.)—Frank Di Buono, 35, laborer, arose shortly after retiring last night and shot himself through the head, dying instantly. No cause for the act could be learned. He is survived by the widow, who witnessed the shooting, and four children.

U. S. Shipping Board Inquiry Sought

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP.)—An investigation of the United States Shipping Board by a special House committee was proposed in a resolution introduced by Representative Lehlbach, (Rep.) New Jersey. A similar proposal is pending in the Senate.

Los Angeles Sets Record for Growth

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—(AP.)—The population of Los Angeles tonight was announced as 1,231,730, an increase over 1930 of 655,057 or 113.59 per cent. Census officials said the growth probably was the largest of any city of major size in the United States.

New Cleaner Absorbs Grease and Dirt from Walls, Rugs, Stoves, Fabrics, Enamel, Floors, Bath Room, Furniture—Dishes

A SIMPLE new discovery has revolutionized the work around the house. A special creamy, white, soap-like compound, called Make-Clean, does ALL your cleaning more easily, more quickly, more thoroughly.

Just put it on, then wipe it off. Make-Clean does the work—it quickly absorbs the dirt and grease, yet does not harm the finest finish or the most delicate fabric.

Like magic, Make-Clean removes ALL dirt, grease or blotches from all painted, varnished or enameled surfaces. No rubbing. No scrubbing.

The finest upholstery or most expensive rugs can be cleaned safely with Make-Clean. The brilliant original colors will re-appear.

This marvelous cleaner washes clothes in one-half the time—with one-half the effort. It will not harm the finest silk stockings—in fact it protects the delicate material by requiring little rubbing.

About a tablespoon of Make-Clean in the dish water absorbs the grease more quickly—and no soap is required. Grease from pots and skillets vanishes with no rubbing.

The grimiest grease on your stove comes off like mere dust. The blackest spots on your floor will disappear. Your refrigerator, sink, tables, windows, oil cloth and window-shades can be cleaned with the greatest ease.

Your bathroom—your tub, lavatory, tiled floors, painted walls or linoleum will welcome Make-Clean.

This wonderful compound is unexcelled for waxed surfaces—furniture or floors. It absorbs the dirt-laden wax, leaving the surface clean and spotless—ready for a new coat of wax. Your automobile will shine like freshly painted after a light cleaning with Make-Clean.

Make-Clean will not harm anything that clear water will not harm. Water is never used on wall paper or calcimine.

This marvelous cleaner is the result of years of laboratory experiments. The secret is a combination of ingredients which absorbs grease, dirt, blood, and foreign substances, yet does not in the slightest affect cotton, wool, silk, paint, varnish, wood or metal.

Mere words cannot tell what Make-Clean will mean to you. We therefore ask you to try a bucket on our positive MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE and see for yourself.

Money-Back Guarantee

We know that Make-Clean will quickly and safely clean painted, enameled or varnished walls, fabrics, stoves, furniture, silverware, window shades, floors, and rugs. It cannot be equalled for washing dishes and washing clothes. We positively guarantee to refund the full purchase price if, after you have used half a bucket of Make-Clean (following directions), you do not find it to be even better than we have described it and if you are not more than satisfied. Phone your dealer NOW for a bucket. 1½ lb., 15c; 2½ lb., 65c or 5 lb., $1. Make-Clean is economical—a little goes a long way.

Pretty Anne Murdock Sees Chance to Advance

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Larry Eaton, president of the Eaton Advertising Agency, is puzzled by the strange actions of his secretary, Janet Andrews, who has been in his employ for five years. When Miss Andrews starts to cry while taking dictation from him, Eaton allows her to go home for the rest of the day. Eaton then decides to get a new secretary. He speaks to his friend Jameson about it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

Jameson fingered his small mustache and chuckled faintly. "Keep your shirt on. I've seen it happen before. I didn't always cut coupons. I once sat in an office and dictated lovely letters to a series of little girls. And these efficient virgins of the type of your Miss What's-her-name let their work get a strangle hold on them.

"That is, they think it's the work. Then, when they discover it's the man they're working for, instead, they go to pieces. That woman—40 if she's a day, I judge—didn't look to me as if she'd have a good time after office hours. I suppose she goes home to a little flat, picks up a cold supper, drifts off to the movies and goes to bed praying for morning and the office.

"Nerves! No wonder she has them. She has a right to crawl with them! No emotional outlet, my boy; and you or I or any man knows what that means."

"I don't see it," Eaton said stubbornly. But he did see it, being no fool, and his heart sank.

Later, when Jameson had taken his departure, Eaton went into the office of Timothy Sanders, the vice president.

Sanders was a young man who had come up through the copywriting department and even now wrote much of the important copy. He was a lean, enthusiastic person, who thought in headlines and remained a bachelor through choice. He and Eaton liked each other enormously, but seldom came in contact outside the office.

Miss Murdock
Sanders' Secretary Asked To Take Letter

Sanders, it happened, was not at his desk. But his secretary was there alone in the room in the corner by the window.

The light streamed in through the sheets of glass and haloed with especial tenderness her cropped, red-gold head. The effect was charming, and Eaton responded to it with quick pleasure before he spoke.

"Is Mr. Sanders in the building, Miss Murdock?"

She had not heard him enter, so noiseless had been his tread upon the thick-piled carpet. If she was startled she did not betray it, but rose to her feet and faced him quietly, a small girl, extraordinarily pretty.

"He just stepped outside, Mr. Eaton," she replied. "I . . . I find him for you."

She smiled. Eaton responded to the smile as he had to the picture she had made—with instant pleasure. He said "Thank you" with marked warmth.

Presently the girl returned with Sanders. Eaton thanked her again and spoke to his associate.

"Spare me 10 minutes, Sandy?"

"Twice that," offered Sanders cheerfully, and nodded to his secretary.

"Just a moment," said Eaton as she turned to go. "When I am through here, could you take a letter for me, if Mr. Sanders can spare you? Miss Andrews has gone home."

Eaton's Trouble
Says He Needs New Secretary

The blond girl smiled and assented in a controlling voice that was low and warm and pleasing. As she went out of the room and the door closed suddenly behind her straight back, Eaton asked suddenly:

"Satisfied with that girl of yours, Sandy?"

"Miss Murdock? Sure. She's all right."

"Been with you long?"

"Six months. She's been three years in the organization, though. She came to me from Dick Johnson. Why?"

"Nothing—except that my mind runs on secretaries. I find I shall have to let Miss Andrews go. She's not well. Can't stand the gaff. Why," he asked suddenly, on guard since Jameson's visit—"why the devil are you grinning like a Cheshire cat?"

"Can't a fellow smile? Want to take Miss Murdock away from me? I'll wring your neck if you do," threatened Sanders without savagery. "She knows more about this business than I do."

"That wouldn't be much." Eaton insulted him with genuine affection, and Sanders continued to grin amiably.

"About the Marsten campaign — just what are your ideas?" asked Eaton, sitting down near the desk. "I want to stay down and work on it tonight."

Meantime, Anne Murdock left her office and went back to the copywriting department to see a friend.

"First chance I've had to get away," Anne told the other girl breathlessly. "I've been so anxious since you phoned last night. Betty, how is he?"

Betty Howard, a good-looking woman in her early 30s, smiled, but her dark eyes remained troubled. "It's pneumonia, all right. The doctor sent in a nurse. His temperature was pretty high when I phoned last."

Sad Circumstances
Betty's Husband and Son Both Sick

"Oh, poor little man!" Anne's eyes were heavy with pity. "But don't worry so—try not to," she begged, and then, with an effort at condolence, "Youngsters have to go through these things." Mother said last night that Jim, Kathleen and I all had measles at once, and Kathleen went into bronchial pneumonia—she was only a baby, younger than your Billy, and she came through flying."

"I know. But it's so hard," Mrs. Howard said. "I have to do my work and m; mind isn't on it. I'm—torn to pieces all day. A woman's a fool to marry," she added suddenly—"a woman with her living to make."

Anne nodded. She made no pretense at disagreement. She knew Betty Howard's commonplace story—the clever girl of more than average talent working her way through college, finally getting a good position and dreaming of reaching the heights of her chosen profession. Then after five years marriage to a man much older than herself, a man struggling to come through the physical and spiritual disaster which his war service had brought him.

Betty had come to the Eaton

'SMELL' RAIDS UPHELD BY COURT

Eighty Barrels of Italian Club Wine, Liquor Making Utensils to Be Destroyed

If other circumstances warrant, Prohibition agents who smell liquor outside establishments under suspicion may conduct liquor raids on "smell" warrants without making buys, Judge F. P. Schoonmaker decided yesterday, in an opinion handed down in Federal Court.

At the same time the jurist ordered destruction of nearly 80 barrels of wine, and liquor making equipment, seized during two raids on the Bloomfield Italian Independent Club, 4615 Lorigan street.

Previously President Judge R. M. Gibson, in Federal Court, handed down an opinion in the case of William J. Brothers, of 7839 Mulford street, in which he said:

"A mere alcoholic odor, plus suspicion may indicate a violation of the law, but standing alone it does not indicate it."

Yesterday's opinion by his fellow jurist was in direct antithesis.

RAID'S LEGALITY ISSUE

Following raids March 6 and 7 on the Italian club, Louis Contestibile, steward, sought to save the seized liquor from being destroyed.

Grounds were that the procedure was illegal and affidavits were insufficient. Counsel for the defendants questioned constitutionality of the raids.

Contestible also claimed that liquor seized was wine made last November and had not had time to ferment. Government analysis showed it to be of more than 11 per cent alcoholic content.

SAW MEN DRINKING

Agents who raided the club charged they saw men drinking at tables. At the same time a strong alcoholic odor was detected. No buys were made. March 6, a raid was conducted. The day following, another raid on search warrants sworn out as a result of information discovered during the first raid, was made.

In his opinion Schoonmaker said:

"In the instant case we have club rooms where men assemble and who are seen drinking at tables. A strong odor of alcoholic character comes from the building, which these experienced prohibition agents believe to be that of alcoholic liquor. These facts, we conclude, are such as would warrant a man of prudence and caution in believing that an offense—had been committed."

RULES AGAINST ODORS

Judge Gibson ruled that alcoholic odors alone are not sufficient in themselves to establish a cause for issuance of a search warrant, but with other circumstances the procedure is rational.

During the past several months many raids have been made on "smell" warrants. At the last term of Federal Court several arrested in such raids pleaded guilty to informations charging possession of liquor. This, action saved them from possible action under the Jones "five and ten" act, because there were no allegations of sale.

Derby Pool Winner Here To Open Candy Store

Good news for several Pittsburghers who bought tickets on Blenheim, winner of the Epsom Derby in England, drifted into town yesterday from Quebec.

August J. Anderson, 27, of 1903 River street, McKeesport, and Willard M. Gray, hat salesman in a downtown store, were among those mentioned as big winners. T. R. Kepple, of Meadowlands, and G. Burma, of Pittsburgh, also were mentioned among the fortunate.

Several weeks ago Anderson paid $1 for a ticket in McKeesport, and got a "talking to" from Mrs. Anderson when he got home. A dollar was too much to throw away these days, she said.

"I feel different about it now," she said last night. "You see the ticket won between $6,000 and $8,000. That's fine.

"As soon as we get the money we will invest in a confectionery store, and with what is left we'll pay on a home."

Gray got the ticket from a friend who had dabbled in the pool promoted by the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada. He didn't think much about it until he was advised yesterday that the ticket was worth $1,000. He hasn't yet decided what he'll do with it.

SHOT AND PARALYZED, FORGIVES SON

(SEE STORY ON PAGE ONE.)

MRS. MATHILDA WOODS, 64, PARALYZED FROM WOUNDS, IN COURTROOM TODAY

Mrs. Woods, 1208 Orchard street, in court today on the stretcher on which she sobbed as she forgave her son, sentenced to three and a half to seven years for shooting her in their home April 9. The son pleaded guilty. Mrs. Woods asked to bid him good-bye.

PARALYZED, IN COURT ON COT

Hears Sentence Pronounced As Boy Enters No Defense, Then Bids Tearful Adieu

A son who had shot his mother in a drunken fury was forgiven by her today in court as she lay helpless on a stretcher, paralyzed from the wounds.

The mother was Mrs. Mathilda Woods, 64, of 1208 Orchard street, shot April 9, and the son was George Woods, 24, who pleaded guilty to the shooting and was sentenced to from three and a half to seven years in the workhouse.

Judge Harry H. Rowand asked the son if he had anything to say in his own defense. He replied, "nothing."

MOTHER SMILES SADLY

Then while Judge Rowand was looking over the papers in the case preparatory to pronouncing sentence, the son looked at his mother whom he had made a helpless cripple for life and smiled sadly. The mother, raising her head from the stretcher, said:

"That's all right, George. I'm not mad. I forgive you."

George turned to the deputy sheriff guarding him and asked:

"Can I go over and speak to mother?"

DEPUTY REFUSES PLEA

The deputy refused his plea. Then Judge Rowand pronounced the sentence. As the deputy started to lead George away, he looked at his mother and started to weep. The mother said:

"Please, judge, let me say goodby to George."

She began to cry.

Judge Rowand ordered the deputies to stand aside. Then court attaches wheeled the stretcher over to where the son was standing. He stooped over and tenderly embraced his mother for several minutes. Both sobbed as they separated.

TELLS ABOUT SHOOTING

Before her son was sentenced, the mother, from her stretcher, told Judge Rowand of the shooting. She said:

"I was in the kitchen, and George, who had been drinking, came in and started to quarrel with me because I had gone out the night before to visit a sister. He wanted to know why I had left him alone all evening. I didn't want to argue with him and started out of the room, when he took a gun off the kitchen table and fired at me.

"When I started out, George thought I was going to call the police and have him sent back to Mayview."

The son had been released from Mayview six months before the shooting after having been held there three months for mental observation.

2 HURT, RESCUE CAR IN CRASH

When the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a pole at the intersection of the William Penn Highway and the Monroeville road early today, Russell McKeever, of Linhart, and Paul Reniger, of the Apollo Apartments, Wilmerding, were injured. McKeever was recovering today in the Braddock General Hospital while his companion was able to leave the institution after receiving treatment.

Lawrence Kimmick, of Turtle Creek, R. D. 1, who was passing in another automobile, took the pair to the hospital. While speeding through East Pittsburgh, Kimmick's car, police said, crashed into that of M. D. Kramer, of 1712 Grandview avenue, North Braddock. Kramer gave chase to Kimmick, while East Pittsburgh police, unaware that Kimmick was taking injured motorists to a hospital, gave chase to both cars.

Kimmick and Kramer were halted by North Braddock police. Explanations followed and no arrests were made.

Mother, 2 Children Burned by Gasoline

Mrs. George Baldwin, of 1708 Freeport road, Arnold, and her two children, Wilma, 6 and James 4, were severaly burned when gasoline which the mother was using to clean a dress, ignited in their home yesterday. They were attended in their home. Neighbors heard the scream of the trio and rushed into the house. Firemen from Arnold extinguished the flames.

Life in Danger, Wife Declares, Asks Divorce

Her husband was averse to work, liked to gamble and do other things distasteful to his wife, Helen Margaret Cuthbert, pretty Wilkinsburg matron, told Judge James B. Drew, in giving reasons for wanting a divorce from William John Cuthbert.

Even when she obtained employment downtown, she says her husband very much annoyed her and that he carried a gun and threatened her. Mrs. Cuthbert averred her husband even abused her before her child was born. The couple were married in 1927 and separated in 1928. She charges him with cruel and barbarous treatment.

LEG FRACTURED, $25,000 ASKED

Suit was filed in Common Pleas Court by Ernest Campbell, against the Central Garage Company, $25,000 for a fractured right leg, received in an automobile collision at Fifth avenue and Grant street April 10. The plaintiff avers that the defendant concern was in possession of an automobile owned by Frank B. Reed and operated by the garage company. He says that his truck was struck with such force, by the automobile in question it forced his truck clear across the street.

Joseph Clothiers' Receiver Named

A receiver was appointed for the Josephs Clothing Corporation, Fifth avenue, in United States Court yesterday on petition of three creditors presenting claims totalling $1,280. The court appointed Louis Greenberger as receiver, and fixed his bond at $10,000.

ROOM OFFERED RATE HEARING

President James Rae, of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday invited the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission to hold its forthcoming hearing on complaints against the increased rate scale on short haul iron and steel articles in the chamber. This offer was made in view of the crowded conditions in court rooms where hearings have been held.

Shippers of the Pittsburgh, Mahoning and Shenango valley districts, and representatives of the chamber today were to meet to formulate plans to be pursued at the hearing in Washington, where they will offer evidence to show that if the Interstate Commerce Commission carries out its order to discontinue rates established by circuitous rail routes here, Pittsburgh producers and manufacturers of iron and steel will be handicapped in transportation facilities, and business which ordinarily comes here, will be sent elsewhere. Roy Kern, chairman of the shippers' organization, was to preside at the session held in the chamber.

Police Auto, Fire Siren Go Bad at Same Time

Demands for a new automobile for Tarentum police and thorough overhauling of the borough's fire siren were current today, following inquiry into a fire which occurred in the Valley Motor Company building, West Seventh avenue.

Shortly before the blaze was discovered, Patrolman William Kelly attempted to give chase to two motorists seen leaving the building, but was outdistanced, citizens said. Patrolman Joseph Pierre attempted to sound the siren on top the borough's light plant, but without result, according to report. Firemen were summoned a few minutes later and extinguished the flames.

Headlines in all the papers say: "Authorities having trouble rounding up 12 escaped convicts." The main trouble is recognizing 'em. I bet they get a different 12 back in.

Papers also been commenting on the novel way that the State of Nevada "executed a man for committing murder." The novelty of that was that a prisoner was executed in any way for just committing murder.

Mr. Hoover has had to tell the Senate treaty investigation that even a President of the United States has the right of some private correspondence. They asked Bishop Cannon to show his marriage, and preaching license.

'MACK' M'CARTHY GETS JAIL TERM AS FORNEY CASE ENDS

The Camera Question Box

Today's Question: Judge D. Paulson Foster has inaugurated night sessions for Juvenile Court in order that parents involved need not lose time from their employment. Do you think his plan should be extended to other courts and governmental activities for the same reason?

Judge Jones

JUDGE THOMAS D. JONES, Morals Court judge: There are both good and bad points to night sessions. Most cases that come before my court involve misconduct occuring after working hours. It would not be expedient to hear the case the same evening the arrest had been made, for those involved would still be excited.

John Huston

JOHN HUSTON, chief clerk, Morals Court: I think that Judge Foster is to be commended on the establishment of a night court for the juvenile cases. In a majority of cases, it is a hardship for the father to attend a day court as it involves a loss of wages.

Miss Masterson

MARGARET MASTERSON, stenographer: I think night sessions are advisable, but I'm not so sure that they should be extended to other courts. Many courts have no particular need for night sessions. Every father should be present when his child is being tried.

Michelfelder

REV. S. C. MICHELFELDER, superintendent Lutheran Inner Mission Society: Anything that is done to make parents and children feel that the court is really trying to help them and understand their problems is a ... ige Foster on ... step.

J. W. McGowan

J. W. McGOWAN, director, Knights of Columbus boy welfare activities: The night courts as suggested by Judge Foster of the juvenile branch of the County Court is lending substance to the thought the courts are made for the people and not people for the courts. This represents a definite constructive move in the right direction.

Miss Patterson

LOUISE PATTERSON, secretary: Yes, I think the plan should be extended to other courts. Although it is something new and untried, I believe it will terminate successfully. It is only fair to give parents an opportunity to attend a hearing in which their children appear.

TWO BROTHERS ESCAPE WITH $250 FINES

Principal Offender to Serve 90 Days and Pay $800; Case May Be Appealed

Finis was written to the celebrated Forney case when John "Mack" McCarthy, 34, today began serving 90 days in jail for contempt of court, for failing to answer a subpena to testify against Forney, the alleged slot machine king. Forney was freed last March, when a jury found him not guilty of placing slot machines in the city.

McCarthy was also fined $800. His brothers, Dale, 22, and Lawrence, 25, were each fined $250. Dale and Lawrence paid their fines and were released.

The fines were imposed by Judge Elder W. Marshall, before whom the three McCarthy brothers were convicted nearly two years ago of maintaining gambling devices. They were arraigned at the time of the slot machine and graft probe. About 150 other defendants pleaded guilty to having slot machines and all were let off with fines ranging from $25 to $200. Judge Marshall took this as a precedent in imposing only fines, and omitting jail sentences.

"MACK" CONFESSES

Judge Frank P. Patterson imposed the 90-day sentence upon "Mack" McCarthy. "Mack" had dropped the pretence of the day before, that he did not know he had been subpenaed for the Forney trial. Instead, he said he was nervous and excited and did not know what it had all been about.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty testified he had prepared the subpena, which was read to McCarthy by Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren February 27, a week and a half before the Forney trial. This was done when "Mack" came to the district attorney's office to be questioned prior to being used as a star witness against Forney.

Forney had admitted to the grand jury that the McCarthys were his collectors and slot machine repairmen.

JUSTICE OBSTRUCTED

Judge Patterson then asked "Mack" if he had anything to say before being sentenced. McCarthy started to repeat his story of being frightened.

"Didn't anyone tell you to leave town?" asked the judge. "I am giving you a chance to tell the truth."

"No, they didn't," was the reply.

Judge Patterson, in his opinion, said that McCarthy's failure to appear when subpenaed was contempt with the obvious purpose to obstruct justice. He said the court had been held up to ridicule and forced to make only a partial trial of the Forney case because of his absent testimony.

Attorney C. B. Prichard, for Forney, filed exception to the sentence.

CRAFTON MEN GIVE COMEDY

Crafton business and professional men will again don gowns, wigs and French heeled shoes tonight, to present "The Womanless Wedding' in the Crafton High School auditorium. The opening performance was given last night. The presentations are sponsored by Crafton chapter No. 79, Order of the Eastern Star.

Crafton's tallest and most pleasingly plump male resident, Grant Crennel, was the bride, while the borough's smallest business man, Rudolph Yanda, was the groom. Four score men prominent in the borough had roles in the comedy.

GERMAN SABER DUELS THRIVE

BERLIN, Germany, June 6. — Secretly but will all the glamour of ancient tradition, there still flourishes in the university towns of Germany this bloody ritual of undergraduate life — the deadly saber duel.

Efforts of the state to stamp out the fierce rite have for years been futile. Bred in the very bones of the young German aristocrat is the burning desire to prove his unswerving valor even in the face of physical mutilation. And tradition has decreed that the bloody duel with sabers is the acid test.

Personal enmity or even differences of opinion need not necessarily exist between the combatants.

For a bloody quarter of an hour, the duel must continue. Then, gashed and dazed, the combatants are led jubilantly away to have their wounds dressed and the glorious bandages applied.

FRENCH PRIEST TO GET HONOR

The Very Rev. Louis Lena, first assistant to the Rt. Rev. Louis LeHunsec, of Paris, France, superior general of the Holy Ghost Order, will be awarded the honorary degree of doctor of laws at the annual Duquesne University commencement exercises in Soldiers' Memorial Hall next Wednesday. Dr. Lena is on an official visit to the communities of the Holy Ghost order in the United States. In the past three weeks he has visited New England, Louisiana, Florida, Georgia and Wisconsin.

Dr. Lena is the guest of Duquesne University while in this city. The Very Rev. M. A. Hehir, president of Duquesne University, welcomed the visiting prelate with a dinner in his honor.

Sewickley Woman's Death Held Suicide

Deputy coroners today were investigating the death of Hilda Esterman, 26, which occurred in the Valley Hospital at Sewickley early today. She died from gunshot wounds in the chest, inflicted, according to the coroner's report, in her home at Bank and Boundary streets, Sewickley, yesterday. The death is listed by deputy coroners as suicide. The young woman, a bookkeeper, is said to have been extremely nervous for several weeks due to illness.

Ninth grade, Betty Davis, Mary Myers and Russell Pannier; Eighth grade, Dolly Kiedaisch, Marjorie McCune and Norma Kasthub.

Bride, Widow, Now Asks Divorce At 23

Married at 15 in 1922, a widow a few years later, and remarried again in 1926, pretty Anna Pass, of 409 Short Canal street, Sharpsburg, has asked Judge James B. Drew, of Common Pleas Court, to divorce her from John Pass.

The little brunet avers that her husband chased her out of the house and that he was not kind to her. She charges Pass with cruel and barbarous treatment, her counsel being G. Richard Klare. Mrs. Pass is decidedly youthful looking, although 23.

WINS $20,000 FOR LOST HAND

Howard C. McDonald, of the North Side, won a $20,000 verdict against the Levinson Steel Company, Twenty-third and Josephine streets, for the loss of his left hand. The case was tried before Judge James R. Macfarlane, the plaintiff alleging that he was crippled by the settling of a concrete pillar, allowing a steel beam to fall on him. The accident happened November 12, 1927. His counsel was C. J. Tannehill.

200 FROM PITT FLY OVER CITY

More than 200 students and faculty members of the University of Pittsburgh took to the air yesterday from Bettis Field in an effort to cope with the city's heat wave. The event ushered in a series marking Senior Week at the University.

The Curtiss-Wright Flying service furnished the planes and the pilots and the co-eds furnished the thrills. The rides, of a half-hour duration, were over the Golden Triangle.

The afternoon's program consisted of inspection of hangars and equipment at Bettis Field. Officials of the Curtiss-Wright company were hosts to the collegians.

Senior week will be continued with a series of events, including a poverty parade and fraternity sweepstakes.

Orphan Children To Give Exhibition

Several thousand persons are expected to attend the exhibition of drills and athletic stunts which the children at St. Paul's Orphan Asylum at Idlewood present Sunday afternoon. More than 700 children will be seen in the exhibition.

Charles A. Geber, physical director, will be in charge of the exhibition. Music will be furnished by Chartiers Council Orchestra of Chartiers Council, Knights of Columbus.

A sports program has been arranged for both the morning and the afternoon by Miss Agnes Gormley, student chairman. A banquet in the evening will close the gala day.

Miss Danella Shannon, instructor in physical education for women students, will lead the co-eds through a program of contests including a ball game.

Letters will be awarded to women students for the first time. The Dr. George Caslin trophy cup will be awarded the winning school at the banquet in the evening. The trophy is now held by the school of education, sponsors of the annual field day. Miss M. Gertrude Blanchard, dean of women, is co-operating with Director Shannon and the student committees in making the field day a success.

MOTOR BLAMED IN PLANE CRASH

BOSTON, June 6.—(INS.)—An investigation began today into the motor failure that caused a New York bound plane of the Colonial Airways to drop into Boston harbor, resulting in the drowning of one passenger and injuries to 14 others. Pilot Owen O'Connor was credited with preventing a crash on land by his skillful handling of the plane.

Pearl S. Thorsen, a contractor of Boston and New York, was drowned when he attempted to swim to shore from the submerged plane.

The right motor, for reasons unknown, cut out and the ship commenced to settle, according to a statement by John F. Ryan, president of Colonial Airways, operators of the plane.

Among those suffering minor injuries were Val Chick, co-pilot; W. A. Stayton, Rochester, Pa., and W. H. Shaffer, Pittsburgh.

Shaffer, 35, lives at 231 Orchard drive, Mt. Lebanon. He is sales manager of the National Steel Fabric Company and has offices in the Union Trust Building.

William H. Stayton, Jr., 35, another of the injured, is vice president and general manager of the National Pipe Products Corporation of Rochester, Pa., where he resides.

Musicians Drop Strike, School Bands Out

Threat of a musicians' strike at all the Warner Brothers' theatesr in Pittsburgh was ended today when theater officials abandoned a plan to have orchestras of four city high schools present a program at the Enright Theater, East End.

The Musicians' Union objected to the plan and threatened to call out the members on strike unless the school orchestras were kept from the theater.

The Enright management had arranged a "Graduation Week" program in which the orchestras of Schenley, Peabody, Westinghouse and Taylor Allderdice schools were each scheduled to present a half-hour program during the week starting tonight.

HORSE TRAFFIC HERE WANES

Horse-drawn vehicular traffic in the downtown district has decreased 36.4 per cent in the last three years, according to a statement by John M. Rice, chairman of the street facilities committee of the Better Traffic Committee. In the traffic count in the Triangle in 1927, 808 horse-drawn vehicles entered the section during the day. This year the number was riduced to 514.

First tabulations of the traffic count in the Triangle May 22, released today, shows a total of 68,200 vehicles entered the section, an increase of 8 per cent over the number in the 1929 count.

The greatest amount of traffic in the city was at Seventh avenue and Bigelow boulevard, where the volume was 11,286 against 10,917 last year. The intersection showing the greatest increase was at Forbes street at the Liberty Bridge approach, which showed an increase from 7,009 in 1929, to 9,250. The largest decrease was at Water street and Point Bridge, where traffic decreased from 9,019 in 1929 to 8,773.

A distribution of vehicles according to types reveals 46,879 passenger, 1,916 taxicabs, 765 buses, 12,713 trucks, 4,296 street cars, 317 trailers and 514 horse-drawn vehicles. Unclassified traffic amounted to 483.

Linhart to Confer Degrees at Pitt

In the absence of Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, the board of trustees has appointed Dr. Samuel B. Linhart, secretary of the university, to act in his place in conferring the degrees at the annual June commencement to be held June 11 in Syria Mosque. The commencement exercises will mark the one hundred forty-fourth year of the university. More than 1,000 students will be graduated at that time.

COAST GUARDSMEN IN BOSTON HARBOR PULLING 11 INJURED FROM WRECKED AIR LINER IN WHICH ONE WAS DROWNED

Squirrel Hill Man Denies Breach of Promise

Benjamin Browarsky, Squirrel Hill, sued recently for breach of promise to marry Laura Schugar, Columbus avenue, North Side, denies he proposed marriage to her.

In his bill of particulars filed in Common Pleas Court, Browarsky claims that on one occasion when she came to his moving picture house, at 1717 Beaver avenue, her conduct was such, he had to request the police officer of the house to remove her. He avers that when Miss Schugar saw him coming toward her she left.

The defendant in the action claims he did not go to her with tears in his eyes and tell her because of illness, the marriage had to be postponed. He claims that the young woman who says her heart has been wounded, forced her attentions on him.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Many Society Women Ride Entries in Sewickley Horse Show Ring

The second day of the horse show is bigger and better than ever, and with the sky clear once more there'll be many more in the grandstand on Sewickley Heights to see the afternoon classes.

This morning many women were riding and this afternoon there'll be more. Mrs. J. C. Bairwin I saw standing by the show ring this morning and she wore a grey tweed riding habit and Janet McKinney was in riding clothes too. And young Nancy Lee Byers, daughter of the J. Frederic Byerses was riding and she wore a smart riding habit of copper color with a cream jacket. Another woman rider was Mrs. Lewis A. Park in brown tweed.

Sitting in her box was Mrs. William C. Stevenson, formerly of Pittsburgh, now of Middleburg, Va. She looked smart in a yellow knitted ensemble with a white tam, and Mrs. J. Stuart Brown, Jr., also chose a yellow gown of crepe, and she wore a soft beige tweed coat and an egg-shell straw hat.

Mrs. Ralph Lynch I caught a glimpse of and Mrs. Henry Clay Bughman, Jr., I noticed chatting with friends. She wore a blue tweed suit a purple tone flannel coat and a grey felt hat.

Again this morning Mrs. H. Norton Van Voorhis was in her box. Others I noticed in the grandstand were Margaret McCready in a blue crepe spectator frock with a beige hat and coat and Genevieve Bell in a yellow flowered crepe gown and a grey tweed coat with grey fox collar. Her hat was of green vagabond felt.

Near the ringside was Mrs. Simon T. Patterson in a sand jersey ensemble with a brown felt hat, and Mrs. John Neale in a blue shantung ensemble I noted in the crowd.

Josephine Nicola who was riding yesterday was watching the classes from the grandstand. She wore a blue dotted silk dress and a blue felt hat. Mrs. Roger McMahon was in her box talking with friends, and she wore a blue crepe dress.

Young folks and older folks and everyone in the smart world went to the costume riding and driving party in the show ring of the Allegheny Country Club which closed the opening day of the annual horse show being held today, and closing tomorrow night.

The hosts, the William Christopher Robinsons with Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan in an old-fashioned buggy, led the parade, circling the show ring before the grandstand, filled with an applauding audience. And a scarlet-coated band played an amusing medley of old-time songs and popular tunes and college melodies.

The Robinsons and Milligans were garbed in quaint costumes of many years ago, with Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Milligan in long flowing brocaded gowns of the gay 90's trimmed with rich lace. And their hats of straw were trimmed with a profusion of roses. Mr. Robinson and Mr. Milligan wore high top hats and velvet coats.

Costume Parade

After them came a motley procession. There were the Alan Magee Scales garbed like chefs throwing ice cream sandwiches to the crowd about the ring, a wagon filled with young society folks gayly garbed in be-ruffled crinolines including Betty Scott in pink, Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson in purple. There was George Nicola as an Indian chief riding a spirited horse. There was a float with a windmill and young men and women in Dutch costumes, a farm wagon in which rode Mrs. Maitland Alexander in a colorful Dutch costume of yellow and orange with wooden shoes as a final note.

Representing cowboys from Jackson Hole ranch were Mrs. P. E. Dodder, Mrs. William Frew, Mrs. Leslie Johnston, Mrs. John Dilworth and others.

Margaret Rose as a demure child in a blue and white dotted swiss frock and a leghorn hat, drove by in an old-time buggy with William Trumble.

A particularly attractive float was filled with boys and girls from Hawaii. They included Mary Franklin Robinson, Clodagh McCune, Peggy Milligan, Mary Oliver, Emily Frew and Virginia Wright.

Gowned as demure belles of their grandmothers' day were four debs of the past winter who rode in a phaeton. They were Lydia Irish and Mary Elizabeth Floyd and Rosamond Fitch and Dorothy Jarvis.

Debs as Belles

Very amusing were Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland, as Miss Ambridge, and Mrs. Harvey Childs III, as Miss McKees Rocks, who, gowned in full-skirted and puff-sleeved navy blue serge bathing suits of the '90s, were pushed in boardwalk chairs by Mr. Moreland and Mr. Childs, dressed like black-faced comedians.

Mrs. J. Frederic Byers, Mrs. McCleane Brown and young Bucky Byers appeared as jockeys. And I saw Katherine Collin and Anne Rose in Russian peasant costumes.

Yesterday afternoon more and more folks sought shelter in the grandstand from the burning sun, though some folks preferred to watch from the ringside or from cars parked around the ring. Near the ringside I noted Mrs. Alexander Robinson looking very smart in a mustard-yellow and black light tweed suit with a fitted jacket and a brown baku hat. And sitting in a car watching the classes was Mrs. Dorwin J. Donnelly in a cool blue and white silk print.

Arriving in the afternoon were Peggy Berger, a deb of the past year, in a blue knitted costume, and Bettie Guiler, in a blue linen dress with a blue and white striped cardigan and a blue straw hat.

Late Arrivals

Another late arrival was Frances Reed in a beige flannel dress with a beige and brown checked cardigan and a brown baku hat. Chatting near the ring were Mrs. Lewis A. Park and Josephine Nicola in riding habits.

Sitting in the grandstand were Mrs. William Callery, Mrs. J. B. Rose, Mrs. Harry Miller, Louise Reed in a green linen dress with a cape collar, Mrs. Gilbert S. Rafferty in apricot crepe, Mrs. William Booth in a green and black printed frock, and Mrs. George K. Tener.

Mrs. John Kimball was in the grandstand, as was Mrs. Charles Orr, Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., was there, and Mrs. Alex Hunter in a yellow crepe frock with a yellow straw hat.

Mrs. James Schoonmaker, Jr., I noticed, and Mrs. A. Rex Flinn, and Mrs. Maitland Alexander in blue linen, Mrs. Lucien Patton and Mrs. C. A. Painter. Sitting in the Doyle box were Virginia Doyle, Rebecca Doyle, Janet Davis, Rosamound Fitch, and Nancy Doyle. Virginia and Nancy wore smart sport frocks of white cotton mesh with white felt hats, and Rebecca wore a yellow knitted costume with a yellow tam. Janet Davis chose a blue crepe frock, and Rosamound Fitch one of green crepe.

In the afternoon Jane Allderdice wore a riding habit. Mrs. Frances Burke Rodgers wore a smart white crepe frock with short sleeves and a white baku hat.

Mrs. J. O. Burgwin was in green crepe, and Mrs. Henry Clay Bughman, Jr., in a rose crepe ensemble with a hat of eggshell straw. Mrs. H. N. Van Voorhis was in black and white crepe, and Virginia Wilcock wore a charming muslin frock flowered in green.

Miss Rose Lawler, of Bala, Pa., who is at the Allegheny Country Club during the show, wore a smart printed ensemble, and Mrs. John W. Lawrence wore a green and black print with a black straw hat.

Very cool looked Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller in a shell-pink crepe sleeveless frock and a large eggshell straw hat. Katherine Collin I saw near the ring, wearing a pink crepe frock and a smart white linen hat.

And Anne and Margaret Rose, who were with her, wore white crepe frocks and Mary Elizabeth Floyd chose a write crepe dress, too.

White Popular

Sitting in the grandstand was Margaret McCready in a blue knitted dress, and occupying her box was Mrs. Henry R. Rea in sand silk and a straw hat in the same shade. Chatting with her I saw Mrs. J. Frederic Byers in a white crepe, pleated sleeveless frock and a large eggshell straw hat. Mrs. Drayton Heard was in the grandstand, and watching the show from their car were Laura Wallace in white crepe, Betty Lambie, of Phoenix, Ariz., in a green print; Mrs. Samuel Adams, Jr., in white crepe; Mrs. John Wallace and Mrs. R. T. M. McCready in a blue and white crepe dress.

Mrs. John Stewart wore yellow linen, and Mrs. Ralph Lynch yellow silk, and Miss Elizabeth Bovard was in a riding habit. Mary Oliver wore a lovely gown of shell pink, with a pink felt hat, and I saw Mrs. E. V. Babcock in blue crepe, chatting with her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Jr., in a green shantung ensemble and a green straw hat.

Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., wearing blue and white crepe and a blue straw hat, was in her box, and in the Marshall box were Mary Marshall in white crepe, with a yellow straw hat; Isabel Healy, of Pottstown, Pa., the Marshalls' house guest, in blue crepe, with a blue moire toque; Jane Marshall in yellow crepe, with a blue moire toque, and Mary Kuhn in pie crust shantung, with a straw hat of the same shade. Harriet Pickes wore a white linen frock, with a leaf design in rose, and a rose cardigan, and Laura Evans was in dust pink, with a blue straw hat, and Jane Edson chose blue crepe, with an eggshell straw hat. Susan O'Neil wore a brown print sleeveless frock.

Emily Frew looked smart in a yellow print ensemble, and Lydia Irish chose a blue and white dotted cotton ensemble, and Mrs. William C. Stevenson and her small daughter, Janet, of Middleburg, Va., were there.

A very prominent wedding socially will be that of Jane Edson, daughter of Mrs. John Joy Edson, Jr., of Sewickley, and William Dudley Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Griswold Livingston, of Lawrence, L. I., and it will take place on July 5. The ceremony is to be an afternoon affair, and will take place in the gardens of the Edson residence in East Drive.

July Wedding

And August, too, will have its quota of weddings and one of the first I know of is that of Bernice Taylor, who's a sister of the Franklin McCawleys, of Forest Hills, L. I., and Alan Donnelly, of Pittsburgh, which will take place on the sixteenth day of that month. The marriage will be solemnized in the summer home of Mr. Donnelly's sister, Mrs. Kenneth Rafferty, and Mr. Rafferty, at Cape May, N. J.

The marriage of Miss Rose Broido, daughter of Morris Broido, of Munhall road, to Joseph S. Rosenbaum, will be solemnized on Thursday morning at 11:30 o'clock in the study of the Rev. Dr. S. H. Goldenson. The ceremony will be followed by a luncheon for the members of the two families at the Concordia Club.

Miss Helen Kraft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kraft, of North avenue, Millvale, and John Ebner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ebner, of Sedgwick street, Millvale, were married Wednesday morning in St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church. The bride, wearing eggshell satin and lace with a tulle veil and carrying calla lilies, was attended by Miss Mildred Kraft and Miss Catherine Ebner. The former wore green crepe with a hat to match and the latter orchid crepe and hat and both carried roses. Miss Garnetta Pinnish was the flower girl and William F. Kraft, a brother of the bride, was best man. Howard Von Schafen was the usher. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Sebastian Schiffgens, was followed by an evening dinner and reception in the bride's home.

Upon returning from a Great Lakes tour, Mr. and Mrs. Ebner will live at Millvale.

Dawes Contrasts Mourning Gold Star Band With Social Climbers

CAMBRIDGE, England, June 6.—(AP.)—American Gold Star mothers and Americans whose aim in visiting England is to secure social precedence were contrasted sharply by Ambassador Dawes in a speech last night before a dinner of Masters and Fellows of Trinity College.

The ambassador, who will leave Engalnd shortly for a month's visit in the United States, was responding for 17 noted persons who earlier in the day had been given honorary Cambridge degrees, the ambassador himself receiving an honorary LL. D.

"We have recently had in London," he said, "a body of American travelers representing a cross section of the American people, representing the heart and soul of the American people, representing the home and sinew of the American people—a body of travelers not self-invited, with their minds occupied by thoughts of society reporters or fashionable dressmakers."

Then using his fist in a characteristic Dawes gesture, he said:

"They brought us no social introduction. The credentials which each carried were but the photograph of a son and a few withered flowers from a garden at home to lay on a grave in France.

"The heads of many of them were gray and the years had left them feeble, but the heart beats of two great peoples were keeping time with their footsteps. As ambassador of the United States I met them at Westminster Hall, where they were assembled at the invitation of the British government. That, to me, was the proudest hour of my sojourn here."

PARIS SENDS BLACK, PINK INTO THE SPORTS ARENA

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, JUNE 6.—An innate amount of chic can be tucked into a tuck. This is amply demonstrated by the demand for afternoon frocks with little or no ornamentation save horizontal tucking. Such frocks generally proving more effective than the most elaborate confection.

In fact the afternoon frock of semi-sheer material made on dressmaker lines has received the cachet of approval of the best-dressed women here, who invariably welcome clothes of effective simplicity with, of course, a minimum of ornamentation.

THIS summer will see frocks that should be equally at home on the tennis court and the beach, and the active women will no doubt make adequate use of them. Black and white, also black and pink are two color combinations new to the sports arena, that are assured of popularity in this particular field. Sports clothes have lost that strictly utility look of former seasons with happy results, but without sacrificing an iota of their usefulness. A practical note for the devotee of really strenuous games is the introduction of frocks with matching culottes with independent shirts of wrap-over cut. We imagine that such frocks should be most acceptable to women on your side.

THE WOMAN who is planning simple but effective afternoon frock, will, we feel, find the sketch shown here of absorbing interest. It is from Worth's new collection and is of silk marocain in a glorious shade of Parma violet. An inset piece at the front of the bodice and similar insets on the sleeves, are of white georgette barred with pin-tucks. The bow-knot at the base of the collar and the cuffs on the undersleeves, are likewise of white georgette. Horizontal tucking trims the bodice and the upper part of the skirt. The uneven hemline is an interesting detail.

MOLYNEUX makes the other model which is a tennis or beach frock, guaranteed to be a success on either location. It is of pastel pin tussor with tiny black dots. In one piece with the blouse are knee-length culottes edged with deep pleated flounces. The wrap-over skirt is independent and buttons at the side. Set into the bodice at the neckline is a simulated cravat of white lawn embroidered with dots matching those of the frock. A wide-brimmed hat of fine pink straw with a scarf trimming and binding of the dotted pink tussor completes the ensemble.

PART PLAYED BY WOMEN AT NAVAL CONFERENCE TOLD Y. W. C. A. AUDIENCE

Miss Josephine Schain Gives Vivid Recital At Closing Banquet

With profound simplicity and earnestness, Miss Josephine Schain, administrative chairman of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War, told an audience of 150 women and girls at Central Branch Y. W. C. A. last night what had transpired at the London naval conference. Miss Schain was one of three women from the United States chosen to go with the women of the other great countries to lay before the conference their petition for naval reduction.

It was a thrilling and dramatic tale she told of the American women carrying their three brief cases filled with names of the Japanese women and their man-carried basket cont ning the 180,000 signatures which had been gathered in 2v days from the women of their land, and of the manner in which the women from the other countries presented theirs.

The presence and speeches of the women met with dignified and surprising recognition from the men, and they seemed to be impressed with a sense of the idea that the women of the world were interested in naval reduction and that there is power in their organization, Miss Schain observed.

When inquiry was made as to why no women from Italy were present, the reply came back from the Italian government that the women of Italy were where they belonged—at home with their children and then, the speaker said, someone further queried were the children of Italy so naughty that they required the attention of all their mothers and grandmothers and aunts and sisters.

Miss Schain told what had been accomplished at the conference and emphasized again and again the point that ratification of those accomplishments rests with every individual citizen through her senators. In building up a background for her talk concerning the last conference, Miss Schain spoke of the Washington conference, the Kellogg pact and much else that had made important history. She commented on the striking difference between the open door policy of the United States in the Pacific and the attitude of the country in the Atlantic situation.

Miss Schain's talk was given at the banquet which closed Central Branch's week of commencement activities.

One hundred and twenty-five members of the Wilkinsburg Women's Civic Club and their friends attended the club's annual luncheon in the Alcoma Country Club yesterday. Mrs. Harry Walker, retiring president, turned over the responsibilities of the office to her successor, Mrs. Lettie Ege, and in place of a program the afternoon was spent at cards. Mrs. Harry Schuler, social chairman, and her vice chairman, Mrs. William Turner, were in charge.

Club Outing

One thousand tickets were sent to the sightless folk of the city for the boat ride on the George Washington today, the one big event planned for them during the year. A number of organizations are assisting the committees. The Woman's Civic Club of Wilkinsburg is assisting the cake committee, Mrs. John Dean and Mrs. F. R. Smith, one of the oldest workers for the blind, representing the club. Mrs. Herman Villwock and Mrs. R. A. Reardon, of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, are serving on the sandwich committee; the Wimodausis Club is helping in many ways and Boy Scout Troop No. 97, of Crafton, is sending 10 boys, dismissed from school for the day, to assist in whatever way they can.

As a fitting climax to its season, the Ingram Woman's Club will hear its history read Monday afternoon by Mrs. L. E. Aber. Miss Adda Hainer, leader, will also present Mrs. J. R. Barclay, of the Crafton Woman's Club, who will read her essay on "The Right Use of Leisure," which won the district prize in the General Federation contest. Mrs. A. J. Reber and Mrs. L. W. Ohl will furnish music for the afternoon.

The Highland Country Club was the scene of the annual outing of the Outlook Alliance yesterday. After the luncheon, at 12:30, a minstrel show was put on by club members arrayed in beach pajamas and Amos and Andy costumes, under the direction of Mrs. Harry Lanning, of the drama committee. Mrs. Marian Foster Smith was interlocutor, and Mrs. Lanning and Mrs. H. K. Schmidt were "end men." The chorus, which had been coached by Reese R. Reese, consisted of Mrs. Mary Rhoades McBride, Mrs. Bess Vetter, Mrs. George Blume, Mrs. H. E. McKown, Mrs. L. A. Staub, Mrs. Hollis Archer, Mrs. Raymond Metzger and Mrs. J. Harry Jones, with Mrs. D. W. Grier directing and Mrs. Martin Leiseder at the piano.

Bridge furnished the entertainment for the remainder of the afternoon. Lavender and yellow prevailed in the table decoration, where the favors were tiny sachets of lavender tied with yellow ribbon.

Mrs. William Thompson and Mrs. William Sarver were co-chairmen of hospitality.

The South Hills College Club will hold its annual spring luncheon at the South Hills Country Club tomorrow in charge of the social committee headed by Mrs. L. G. Schryber.

This affair will bring to a close one of the most interesting and profitable years in the club's history.

The outgoing officers of the club, headed by Mrs. T. E. Orr, will give their annual reports and bridge will follow. The newly elected officers for the year are Mrs. Ross M. Conaway, president; Mrs. C. Benton Kline, vice president; Mrs. H. A. Bowman, corresponding secretary; Miss Margaret Miller, recording secretary; Mrs. Arthur A. Turner, treasurer; Mrs. A. J. Wilson, publicity secretary, and Mrs. C. D. Foight, three-year director.

Mrs. Charles Morris Johnson, former president of the Housekeepers' Club and chairman of the home department of the Congress of Clubs, will give an afternoon of her own musical composition in the Business Women's Club, Arch street, Tuesday. The program will be given by Adele Eggers Furniss, soprano; Mabel Bird Ensinger and Mrs. William L. Stone, contraltos; Florence Stewart Blackmore, piano, and Morris Carroll Johnson, baritone. Mrs. Mary J. Cowley is president of the Business Women.

Hostesses for Monday's luncheon meeting of the Edgewood Col Club in the Edgewood Country Club are Mrs. E. C. Bothwell, Mrs. Reuben Helick, Mrs. A. S. Humphrey, Mrs. T. R. Kennedy, Mrs. Edward McCrady, Mrs. H. H. Sargent, Miss Frances Shallenberger and Mrs. William E. Fowler.

Miss Elizabeth Clugston, newly elected president of the Wilson College Club, will entertain the members at an informal tea in her Regent square home Saturday afternoon, June 21. Members of the executive board will assist her.

William F. H. Wentzel, of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society, will address the National Better Magazines Council at its regular meeting Monday in Utility Hall.

A luncheon at the Pines on Tuesday, June 17, will conclude the year's activities for the Oakland Women's Club. Mrs. J. J. Martin and Mrs. W. B. Gress are in charge of the affair.

Its very first club picnic will be held June 14 in North Park by the Southern Club, beginning at 3 o'clock. Mrs. C. Fitzhugh Lee has accepted the chairmanship for the event.

Hospitals Graduate Classes in Nursing

Nineteen nurses received diplomas at the commencement exercises for the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing last night in the First Presbyterian Church. A reception at the William Penn Hotel followed the commencement.

Commencement exercises also were held for the eight graduates of the Montefiore Hospital School of Nursing, held last night in the Schenley Hotel. Samuel H. Goldenson, rabbi of the temple Rodef Shalom, was the principal speaker.

DUCHESS HITS NAVAL TREATY

NEW YORK, June 6.—(INS.)—The Duchess of Atholl talked straight from the shoulder today before sailing home to England to resume her job as member of Parliament.

Her grace, wife of one of the wealthiest Scottish peers, wears only cotton dresses for the sake of the stricken textile industry in Lancashire.

Her views:

She is quizzical about the London Naval Treaty — extremely quizzical.

She doesn't think the proposed American tariff will help England —and may draw reprisals.

She believes there is no sympathy in England with the non-resistance campaign in India.

Regarding the treaty she said:

"We do not feel that the peace of the world depends on armaments alone. Anglo-American friendship does not depend merely on naval yardsticks but on something much more than that—understanding and good feeling."

400 Reservations For Traffic Dinner

More than 400 reservations have been made for a dinner of the Traffic and Transportation Association in the Keystone Athletic Club tonight. The dinner will be held in connection with the annual election of the organization. C. W. Gottschalk, retiring president, will preside.

South Hills Picnic at Kennywood Today

The school and community picnics of Knoxville, Carrick and Brentwood were held in Kennywood Park today. Committees included Miles H. Miller, of Knoxville; C. B. Critchfield, W. H. Sprenkle and Mildred J. Sharpe, of Carrick, and C. H. Bracken, of Brentwood. Entertainment features, including two free performances by Dave Costello's Circus, were on the program.

The East Pittsburgh schools will be at the park for an outing tomorrow, with the athletic meet of the Girl Scouts of Allegheny County also listed.

Class of 60 to Get Diplomas at Kiski

SALTSBURG, Pa., June 6.—The Kiskiminetas Springs Preparatory School tomorrow will graduate a class of 60 at its forty-second annual commencement exercises.

SUNDAY MENU
Tomato and Sauerkraut Cocktail
Braised Beef with Vegetables
Whole Potatoes Horseradish Sauce
Peppers Stuffed with Cauliflower
Celery and Cucumber Salad
Individual Fresh Fruit Tarts
Coffee

Most Sunday dinners feature either roasts or chops or steaks—all worthy of an honored place on any menu, I grant you. However this week I am going to suggest one of the less expensive cuts of meat. Wisely prepared and delicously seasoned, I'm sure it will prove a welcome change. I'm referring to Braised Beef with Vegetables. You try it.

Select 2 pounds of beef from the lower part of the round or shoulder. Sprinkle it with salt, dredge with flour and brown the meat in its own fat. Remember that in turning meat be careful not to pierce it with a fork which allows the juice to escape.

Place the beef in a casserole or deep pan. Add 1 cup of diced carrots, turnips, onion and celery. Now mix ½ cup tomato catsup with 2 cups boiling water and pour two-thirds of the liquid around the meat and vegetables. Cover closely and bake two hours in a slow oven, basting every half hour with the remaining liquid. Turn the meat over once while cooking.

During the last hour place whole potatoes around the meat and continue basting until tender. Add a tablespoon of horseradish mustard to the gravy and you have a spicy accompaniment to the meat.

The peppers stuffed with cauliflower are placed in the oven, too. Select half a dozen peppers, cut a thin slice from the stem end of each and remove the seeds. Parboil them 10 minutes, then stuff with a filling made of 1 cup creamed cauliflower, 2 tablespoons crumbs, and 1 teaspoon melted butter. Mix thoroughly and if it lacks moisture add a little vegetable stock or milk. Bake until the skins of the peppers are tender, basting occasionally with butter and water.

Wrinkling your noble brow over the dessert question again? It's indicative of the national love for sweets, this continual demand for dessert recipes.

Well, there's gelatine—flavored gelatine to be exact, with the flavors that come from fresh ripe fruits—great golden oranges, crimson strawberries, luscious raspberries, tart lemons, cherries bursting with sweetness. And can you think of anything simpler to make, more tempting to look at, or easier to eat than a gelatine dessert? Even the children can have second portions, it's so remarkably easy to digest.

Here's a remarkably good recipe for a remarkably good dessert: 1 package of strawberry gelatine, 2 cups boiling water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 12 marshmallows, a cup of cream, ¼ cup confectioners' sugar, crushed sweetened strawberries, 1 angel cake, whole berries, sweetened flavored whipped cream.

Dissolve the gelatine in boiling water. Cool. Add lemon juice. Cut marshmallows with a wet scissors into small pieces. Add to cream. Sift in sugar. Add gelatine to cream mixture. When the mixture begins to thicken, add crushed strawberries. Cut out center of the angel cake, leaving bottom and sides thick enough to hold jelly. Fill the cake with fruit jelly. Chill 4 hours longer. Serve garnished with whipped cream and whole berries.

There are variations to this recipe, too, just to make it more interesting.

1. Fold in a cup of whipped cream to the fruit jelly before filling into cake.

2. Use canned crushed pineapple in place of strawberries.

3. Add ¼ cup chopped maraschino cherries and ¼ cup chopped almonds to pineapple filling.

4. Use round sponge cake in place of angel cake.

POTATO PUFFS—To 1 cup of hot mashed potato add ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Then add ½ teaspoon parsley and 1 tablespoon cream and let the mixture cool. Beat the yolks of 2 eggs well and mix them with the potatoes, then add 2 stiffly beaten whites. Form the potatoes into balls and dip them in the following batter.

Mix the yolk of 1 egg, ½ teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon melted

Our Garden Vegetables Are Valuable to Health

Every garden should have cabbage, lettuce, beets, radishes and those other plant foods which contain the vital elements of diet.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,

Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator From New York

Vegetable production in America has increased to a great extent in the last quarter of a century. Commercial gardening has had a tremendous impetus. More and more interest has been given to the home garden by increasing numbers of people who find gardening a pleasurable and healthful business.

For those who are so fortunate as to own a garden, getting down to earth and helping things to grow is a delightful pursuit. The smell of the soil and the tonic early morning air and sunshine give new vigor and meaning to living. Even though muscles and joints creak after hours in weeding out vegetables, there is a certain feeling of well-being in your tiredness which makes for sound sleep at the end of the day.

In looking over the list of vegetables which are commonly found in most home gardens, we do not find many that are native to the United States. We do find some that have been handed down to us from our American Indian tribes, and which, no doubt, were brought by these nomadic peoples from farther south.

CORN FROM INDIANS

Sweet corn is one of our best food products and every garden should contain it. Sweet corn was first obtained from the Susquehanna Indians. In fuel or energy value, corn stands high, for it has nearly 1600 calories per pound, or 100 calories above the average of most cereals. This is due to its large fat content. Corn contains twice as much fat or oil as wheat, three times as much as rye, twice as much as barley, and two-thirds as much as hulled oats. Indian corn has about the same amount of nitrogenous matter as other cereals, except oats.

To the Indians, too, we owe that wonderful concoction called "succotash." Both sweet corn and lima beans were a common food for our American Indians and it is not strange they were combined in this most excellent fashion.

USED LIMA BEANS

The Indians in the southeastern section of the country and along the Gulf Coast used lima beans. Without doubt they are native to South America because they are still growing wild in Brazil.

The Indians of the semi-arid Southwest were those who attained the highest agricultural status in the United States. They lived in communal dwellings and had most intelligently carried out methods for utilizing and conserving their water supplies.

The vegetables of that region however were not well suited to the climate of the more humid East. The whites of the Eastern seaboard came in close contact with the Iroquois Indians of Western New York, who were far advanced in agriculture. Our knowledge of garden plants was largely gained from them.

VEGETABLES NECESSARY

The Iroquois tribes planted corn, beans and squash all in the same field. This method of planting is followed today by many gardeners and farmers.

You wouldn't think of having a garden without cabbage, lettuce, beets, radishes, onions, and all the other good vegtable foods which are so necessary to good health. They should be eaten more freely in every home. They contain the vital food salts, iron, lime, potash and phosphorus, which we need in the chemical process of building and repairing the body. They are important as aids in eliminating the wastes of the body. You cannot afford not to have these essential foods in the daily diet.

DAILY ROUGHAGE IS AN ESSENTIAL IN ANY DIET

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation. Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "vest pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. Many people soak it in fruit juices. Excellent in cooked foods. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. It is served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Ask for it! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MAPLE NUT CINNAMON TOAST—Soften ¼ cup butter and work ¼ cup of sugar and 1 teaspoon of cinnamon into it. Cut 6 slices of bread rather thick, remove crusts, toast on one side, then spread the untoasted side with the creamed mixture, sprinkling finely chopped or ground in a moderate oven until the sugar melts.

MOCK ALMONDS—bread into quarters shape with a small cookie cutter into almond shaped pieces. Brush with melted butter and slowly in oven. Serve

TOAST NESTS—Take thin slices of stale bread about 3 inches square, cut off the corners and scoop out the center. Use the waste bread to roll and dry for other things. Toast to a golden even brown in the oven. Before taking out of the oven, butter generously, drop a whole egg in and cook for a few minutes.

CHEESE TOAST WITH BACON—Broil ½ pound bacon until delicately browned. Make a sauce of 4 tablespoons bacon drippings, 4 tablespoons flour and 2 cups milk. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon paprika. Stir in 2/3 cup grated cheese and cook over hot water until the cheese is melted. Pour over 6 slices of toast and place
2 or 3 slices of bacon over each slice of toast.

NOODLE APPLE PUDDING—Cook 1 package of noodles until tender in boiling salted water.
Drain. Slice 6 baking apples thin and place in a saucepan. Cover with ¼ cup of sugar, and 3 tablespoons of butter and cook slowly until tender. Remove from the fire, add ½ cup currant jelly and mix well. Set aside to cool. In a buttered baking dish, place alternate layers of noodles and apples, the top layer to be noodles. Mix together 3 eggs slightly beaten, ½ cup of sugar, 1 cup of milk, a teaspoon vanilla and pour over all.
Bake in a moderate over for 45 minutes.

MINT JELLY—Combine ½ cup apple vinegar and 1 cup water and add enough green coloring to give the tint desired. Add 3½ cups of sugar, stir and bring to a boil. At once add ½ cup bottled pectin, stirring constantly and bring again to a full rolling boil and boil for half a minute. Remove from the fire and add ½ to 1½ teaspoons spearmint extract, according to flavor desired. Let stand for 1 minute, skim and pour quickly.
Cover hot jelly with film of paraffin; when jelly is cold, cover with ⅛ inch of hot paraffin. Roll glass to spread paraffin on both sides.
If lemon juice is used instead of vinegar, use 1½ cups water and strained juice of 2 lemons. Makes four or five eight-ounce glasses.

LIVER AND BACON WITH GRAVY—Cut liver in slices for serving, about 1-3 of an inch thick. Fry a slice of bacon for each slice of liver and remove the bacon to a plate to keep hot. Dip the liver slices in flour which has been seasoned with salt and pepper and fry in the bacon fat. Arrange the liver on a hot plate and surround with the strips of bacon.
To 2 tablespoons of the bacon fat in the pan add 1 tablespoon flour.
Stir well and when slightly

SPRING SALAD—Six hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet gherkins, ½ green pepper finely chopped, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, ¾ cupful cooked dressing, ½ lemon juice, 5 drops tabasco sauce, ½ tablespoon salt, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, ¼ cupful cold water, ½ cupful boiling water.

Soften the gelatin in the cold water, add the boiling water and stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Add the other ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pour into cold, wet, individual molds and place in the refrigerator until firm.

Serve on crisp lettuce leaves with additional cooked dressing. Serves eight.

EGGS CREOLE—One cupful canned tomato sauce, 1 teaspoonful minced onion, 1 tablespoonful chopped green olives, a teaspoonful butter, ½ teaspoonful pepper, salt, if necessary, 8 eggs, 1 tablespoonful chopped parsley.

Mix all ingredients except the eggs and parsley and simmer gently for 10 minutes. Meanwhile butter 4 custard cups or ramekins and drop 2 eggs in each being careful not to break the yolks. Sprinkle them with parsley and set in a saucepan about ¼ full of boiling water. Cover and steam about 10 minutes or until the eggs are set. Turn the eggs out on individual plates and surround with the sauce. Serve at once. Serves four.

Drops 142 Pounds, Loses Job, Gets Divorce

LOS ANGELES, June 6—(AP)—Viola Barton, weight 370 pounds, former fat lady of the circus, obtained a divorce from Arthur C. Barton, circus novelty salesman, because his alleged cruelties caused her to "dwindle away" until she lost her job. Mrs. Barton said she weighed 512 pounds when she was married six years ago, but that her husband's mistreatment wrecked her figure. Intoxication and attention to other women were among the specific allegations.

BRIDE BOMBING CASE NEAR END

ROCKVILLE, Md., June 6—(AP)—The state's evidence against Leroy Brady, young Southern Maryland farmer, accused with his brother, Herman, of sending the home-made bomb which exploded New Year's day and took the life of Herman's 18-year-old secret bride and two members of her family is complete.

Alleged fragments of the bomb were introduced in evidence along with devices from automatic guns. Leroy, adept at mechanics, had made, to show their similarity, after a Johns-Hopkins University professor and Baltimore police detectives had qualified as experts.

Herman Brady is to be given a separate trial. He had been married in August to Naomi Hall, of Seat Pleasant, Md., near Washington, but, it was testified, revealed the marriage only to members of his family.

Humiliating and extremely painful . . .

—these troubles that come from harsh, non-absorbent toilet tissue

AILMENTS of this kind bring mental as well as physical suffering. For these are troubles one must bear in secret.

Yet millions have them. In many cases, inferior toilet tissue is directly responsible for rectal diseases.

580 doctors and 223 hospitals, recently questioned on the subject, agreed that "harsh toilet tissue may cause serious injury."

ScotTissue, Sani-Tissue and Waldorf are famous bathroom tissues specially processed to satisfy the three requirements doctors say toilet tissue must have to be safe: absorbency—softness—chemical purity. Each sheet is made up of millions of tiny "thirsty fibres."

These specially treated fibres, soft and cloth-like, are extremely absorbent. Without this absorbent quality, thorough cleansing is impossible.

Only the finest, fresh materials go into Scott Tissues. They are absolutely pure—neither acid nor alkaline in reaction.

WINNING AND LOSING BY ONE TALLY

WHEN A BALL club is beaten repeatedly by a margin of one run, there are two ways of looking at it. Either the team is unlucky in having the breaks go against it in close games when they count most heavily, or it is weak when the going is tight and lacks the sock required to get a tally for itself in a pinch or the fighting defense necessary to keep the other side from pushing over the winning marker.

Jewel Ens

Two explanations also may be offered for continued success in the winning of such games. Either a club is lucky in getting the breaks in the crises, or it is able to produce in an emergency that little extra something which spells the difference between defeat and victory in a nip-and-tuck struggle.

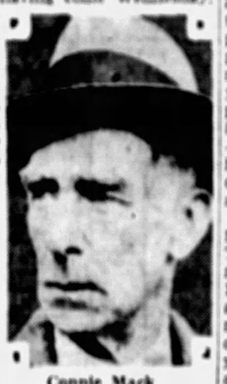
The question as to whether it's misfortune or weakness on one side, or luck or superior class on the other, is one that cannot be answered by figures, as the testimony of what has happened in 111 such games in the two big leagues up to date is conflicting.

FOR INSTANCE, THE Boston Americans have lost more games by one run than any other club in either circuit, the Hubbies having been nosed out 12 times by that margin. That might be taken as a sign of inferiority, as the Red Sox look like the weakest team in the majors and their club batting average of .262 is the lowest in the big show with single exception of the St. Louis Browns' mark of only .244.

But the New York Giants, who are hitting .304 collectively, can hardly be said to lack a punch, and certainly no club bossed by John McGraw can ever be accused of being short on fighting spirit, yet the Gothamites have the second poorest record in games decided by one run. They have been defeated 11 times by a single marker, or only one below the total of the Red Sox.

ON THE OTHER hand, Connie Mack's Athletics have made the best showing in either league in games decided by one run. While winning eight times, one of the victories having come Wednesday, they have been beaten twice. Walter Stewart, Brown pitcher, having won a 2-to-1 decision over them on May 7.

That showing might reasonably be attributed to the superior class of a world champion outfit, yet the second best record in the American League, seven won and three lost, is held by Donie Bush's Chicago White Sox, who are not to be classed as a strong club and whose team batting average is only .274.



Connie Mack

SO WHETHER A club wins that kind of games consistently through strength or the breaks, or loses them regularly through weakness or ill luck, is a point that may be argued either way. If fighting spirit is the factor that decides these contests Jewel Ens must be given credit for keeping the Pirates on their toes, for in spite of their crippled state the Bucs have made a very creditable record in games decided by a lone tally. The Rovers have been defeated only four times by one run up to today, while they have won seven games by that margin. They beat Cincinnati four times, and St. Louis, Chicago and Boston once each, and lost to Boston and Cincinnati once each and to Brooklyn twice. They might have escaped the fourth loss at Brooklyn yesterday, but for a questionable decision at the plate, according to reports.

SIXTY-TWO GAMES out of 173 in the National up to today were won and lost by a solitary run. The Cubs won 11 and lost five, the Braves won 10 and lost eight, the Dodgers won six and lost five, the Reds won 10 and lost 10, the Phillies won seven and lost eight, the Cardinals won six and lost 11, and the Giants won five and lost 11.

One run has been the winning and losing margin in 49 out of 176 games in the American League. The Athletics won eight and lost two, the White Sox won seven and lost three, the Senators won five and lost three, the Browns won eight and lost six, the Indians won seven and lost seven, the Yankees won five and lost eight, the Red Sox won six and lost 12, and the Tigers won three and lost seven.

ANDY BEDNAR, sent to Wichita in the Western League by the Pirates for seasoning, continues to look like a sure bet for the future in the big show. The young right-hander did not suffer a defeat until a few days ago, when Oklahoma City beat him, 5 to 3. Prior to that he won seven games in succession.

Andy Bednar

Southpaw Charley Wood, another Wichita pitcher owned by the Pittsburgh club, also is standing opposing batters on their heads. Like Bednar, he has lost only one game, and in his last start against St. Joseph he struck out 16 men and allowed only three hits for an easy 10-to-0 victory. Two of the three hits charged against him were infield scratches. He struck out Kunes, the St. Joseph third baseman, five times.

THE RETURN OF Paul Waner to the Pirate line-up yesterday and George Grantham's success in keeping up his hitting streak by batting safely in his sixteenth consecutive game (Grantham, incidentally, has made a home run in each of the last four championship games played by the Bucs and has boosted his season's average to .394) were not sufficient to offset Jess Petty's presence on the slab, and the Bucs dropped two out of three at Brooklyn in the opening series of the trip before moving on to Boston. No doubt it is only because of the crippled condition of the pitching staff that Petty is being used at all, or even carried. He has started seven times this year and has failed to go the distance once.

EDWARD (SLIP) MADIGAN, head football coach of St. Mary's in California, which team was not defeated last season, says he will not accept mental time measurements by the officials next fall, when the speed of his shift plays are questioned. He refers to the new rule, calling for a count of six, instead of four, as heretofore.

Madigan will demand the use of a watch. He says he will insist

JOHNNIES GET EIGHTH WIN

Johnstown scored its eighth triumph in a row in the Mid-Atlantic League yesterday, defeating Clarksburg at Johnstown by a score of 8 to 4. Pritchard hit a home run in the first inning.

At Jeannette, the Jays won over Scottdale, 8 to 3. Cumberland added another defeat to Wheeling's string winning by 8 to 5, and the Fairmont Diamonds defeated Charleroi, 9 to 0.

SUN-TELEGRAPH AIDS YOUTHFUL GOLFERS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

We're from Missouri! If you are a young fellow and think some day you may be a fine golfer like Bobby Jones or Walter Hagen or Johnny Farrell and aspire to great heights in the links game—now is the time to put up or shut up! Show us that you are developing into a star of the game by entering and playing in the third annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Western Pennsylvania Junior amateur golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy and other beautiful prizes, which is to be staged again this year at the Schenley Park municipal links, on Monday, July 7. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is eager to assist you in developing into a real tournament player, if you have the stuff in you and want to have the chance to show it.

While this year's junior tourney will be conducted very much the same as the two big successes that preceded it, strictly on an amateur basis, there are a few changes in the rules and regulations and additional prizes for this year's competition. The changes will make the event bigger and better.

NO ENTRY FEE

There is no entry fee—it doesn't cost any accepted entrant a penny. Of course, all of the contestants must provide their own clubs and balls—and if you don't happen to have a set, Professional Al McBride at Schenley Park has a limited number of clubs he'll be only too glad to rent for the day.

Amateur golfers 19 years of age and under, not attending institutions of learning higher than preparatory school grades, will be permitted to enter the 18-hole medal play test. And caddies 17 years of age and under will be permitted to play, because the U. S. G. A. has raised the age limit—a boy now may caddie until he has attained his eighteenth birthday before he is declared professional.

While play by all participants for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, which will go to the boy registering the low score for the 18 holes, will be the most important part of the big tournament, a new competition is to be held in conjunction with the tourney this year. A beautiful trophy will be awarded for the high or preparatory school team of four players which aggregates the lowest score. With a number of high and preparatory schools interested in forming a district golf league, and inter-school matches growing in popularity, the competition for the school trophy should be keen. The individual members of the team will receive golf medals, and the school will be given the trophy. Suitable medals for members of the runner-up team also will be awarded.

CLUB TRIALS CARDED

A plaque for the club caddie team championship, won by the Castle Shannon Golf Club team last year, again will be placed up for competition. Caddies, of course, must be 17 years of age or under, and it is imperative that they qualify in a preliminary test at their own club, if it is within 20 miles of Pittsburgh, prior to playing in the tournament. Eight boys are to be qualified from each club to play at Schenley Park, the boys having the four low scores in the preliminary test to represent their club in the fight for the team troph. In the unusual event of any club refusing permission for its caddies to qualify, the Golf Tournament Editor should be consulted immediately by calling him at Grant 6500.

The preliminary caddie test worked successfully last year.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: IT RAINED MUD IN OKLAHOMA—According to A. L. McCuistin, government meteorologist, the mud-rain in Oklahoma of May 6, 1930, was caused by a 50-mile velocity surface wind which picked up much dust and dirt, raising it to a height of about 5,000 feet, with a velocity of about 82 miles in that altitude. The moisture in the air caused this dirt and dust to settle down in the form of mud rain.

NET TOURNEY PLAN LAUDED

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Racqueters and net officials of the Steel City district hailed with enthusiasm and delight the announcement yesterday that The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will sponsor revival of the Pittsburgh parks tennis championships.

The contest, scheduled to be staged the week or 10 days beginning July 14, will be run off on no less than six batteries of public rectangles—Schenley, Highland, Olympia, Riverview, West and the new Frick Parks—and will draw into competition scores of players, both men and women, who are not affiliated with any of the 17 clubs comprising the Pittsburgh Tennis Association.

According to present plans, play will be limited to men's and women's singles, the respective victors in these events to be sent as Pittsburgh representatives and guests of The Sun-Telegraph to the national public parks championships, billed for Washington, D. C., the week of August 18. The system of tilting in the local tourney will be fashioned after the method employed when the event was inaugurated here. Elimination jousts will be run off in each park and the winners of these will meet in an inter-park elimination series.

TOURNEY LAUDED

Local tennis and park authorities are in hearty sympathy with the Sun-Telegraph move. David I. McCahill, donor of the McCahill Cup, symbolic of the Western Pennsylvania men's singles championship, and Pittsburgh member of the Public Parks Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, has given cordial approbation to the proposal.

From park headquarters comes the word of Director James Moore that his bureau is strongly in favor of the affair.

"We approve both the golf and the tennis tournaments held by the Sun-Telegraph," declared the director, "for it is our constant aim to promote the good health and happiness of the community by fostering movements to bring the people into the sunlight and fresh air of our parks. We shall cooperate in every way possible with those in charge of the Public Parks tennis championships and shall aid in reserving enough courts at stated periods during the tournament to take care of the matches."

OFFER FRICK PARK

Director Moore also contributed the valuable suggestion that the Inter-Park series be put on at Frick Park, where a splendid group of six courts was opened last summer. The writer inspected the Frick layout, which by the way is conveniently situated at the corner of Forbes and South Braddock avenues, on the way in from the Pitt-California tussle at Fox Chapel late Wednesday. Austin Famariss, vice president of the P. T. A., was with us. We found the equipment good, the surface harder and truer than that of many of the better club courts of the district.

The Public Parks campionships will be a sanctioned tournament, authorized by the United States Lawn Tennis Association and conducted under the direct supervision of Committeeman McCahill and the Pittsburgh Tennis Association.

Remember! The touranment is open to all non-club racqueters of Pittsburgh. There is no entry fee; the lone requisite is a public parks player's permit, obtainable through the park bureau. Rules for the filing of entries will be published in the immediate future.

EARL SANDE INJURED

NEW YORK, June 6.—(INS.)—Earl Sande, famous jockey, was reported to be resting easily today after suffering lacerations of the nose and left cheek in an automobile accident yesterday. It is not expected that the injuries will prevent him from riding Gallant Fox in the Belmont Stakes tomorrow.

MATMEN INVADE BOWL TONIGHT

The Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock, built primarily for boxing, will give wrestling a tryout tonight, when a card of three bouts will be offered the fans.

George Manich meets George Hagen in the main bout on a two-out-of-three falls basis, while Frank Brunowich engages Vanka Zelzniak in the semi-final, one fall with a one-hour time limit. In the opener, two district rivals, who have met before, Pete Abate and Jap Washington, will clash, also in a time limit event.

The Bowl management reports lively interest in its first mat venture and if the gate is up to expectations it plans to run similar shows every Friday night.

Between Rounds

Dick Shikat, the German, recognized in Pennsylvania and New York as the world heavyweight wrestling champion, defends his title against Jim London, the Greek, in a bout at the Phillies' park, Philadelphia, tonight.

Get this. It's the full name of Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight champion, who boxes Jack Sharkey for the world title at the Yankee Stadium, New York, next Thursday night—Max Sigfrid Adolph Otto Schmeling.

Johnny Jadick boxes Patsy Ign at Allentown, Pa., tonight. Floyd Hebert meets Larry Martinucci in a 10-round bout in Brooklyn, and Young Jack Thompson, welterweight king, boxes Billy Wells, of England, in a non-title bout at Omaha.

Farmer Joe Cooper will arrive in town tomorrow to finish his training for his battle with Joe Trippe in the Meyers Bowl Monday night. Harry (Kid) Brown, of Philadelphia, who meets Johnny Sinacasy in the semi-final, will continue light training at Donora, following his win over Sammy Harris at Washington, Pa., last night. Bobby Young and Eddie Brannon are in the other 10-rounder at the Bowl.

Nathaniel (One Round) Hagan, Negro heavyweight, has declined to box Dick Reed, of Youngstown, in the opening bout at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night and Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, has been signed to meet the best opponent obtainable to round out the card.

Clair Repole, of Homewood, and Reggie Davis, of Irwin, will box the main event of a card of 10 amateur bouts under the auspices of the Irwin Community Club on the Norwin High School field tonight. The show originally was scheduled for the night of Memorial Day, but was postponed because of cold weather.

POLO STAR WEDS

BUENOS AIRES, June 6.—(AP.)—Juan Reynal, internationally known polo player, and Miss Jeanne Hughson, an American girl, were married yesterday in the Nuestra Senora De Las Victorias church and with a civil ceremony thereafter at the Argentine sportsman's father's residence.

VON PORAT RECONSIDERS

CHICAGO, June 6.—(AP.)—Otto Von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight, today surrendered to the demands of the Chicago Stadium and agreed to meet Young Stribling in a 10-round match June 18. Von Porat and his manager, Ed Stevenson, were suspended for six months by the Illinois State Athletic Commission yesterday for turning down the match.

BOSTON, June 6.—Heated protests of Ted McGrew's ninth inning decision were still ringing in the Pirate camp today as the Pirates prepared to pay their first visit to Braves Field. The warm objections to McGrew's ruling that prevented a deadlock ball game in Flatbush yesterday were mingled with praise for Glenn Wright who left fly with a characteristic shot to the plate that caused all the trouble.

Rolly Hemsley, who made a daring dash, Manager Ens, who had a better view of the play than Umpire Ted, and most of the Pirates insist that Hemsley beat the throw. But McGrew, from a position that was none too good, ruled otherwise and the umpires generally win these arguments. The score was 6 to 5, in the Robins favor.

PLAYERS CHARGE UMP

Ted was manhandled by some of the boys with whom he associated intimately in the spring training series. Police sprang to his rescue as McGrew was being pushed about the diamond. He was tramped on a bit, but it isn't likely that the Buccos would have been guilty of any serious assaults. Be that as it may, the scene was

JOHN WHITE — BUFF DONNELLI

Aldo (Buff) Donnelli, football captain at Duquesne University, will be graduated next Wednesday. Yesterday, he received a fine pre-graduation present from his friend, John White, who was graduated last year, in the form of a scrapbook filled with stories of the great Buff's athletic exploits on the Bluff. Donnelli also has gained fame as an outstanding amateur soccer player, having been a member of the former National champion Heidelberg team.

BROWNS CHECK A'S; INDIANS ROUT SOX

Associated Press

A student of psychology might well find material for research in the mysterious something which makes baseball players who have been traded from one club to another do their best against their former mates. This phenomenon has been remarkably evident in this season's games and all the more noticeable because of the numerous recent trades.

The New York Giants now composed to a considerable extent of former Cincinnati players dispersed one great feat after another as they swept a three-game series with the Reds. Lacking the perfect combination of having an ex-New York pitcher opposed them, the Giants didn't do their best in this line as they won the final game yesterday 7 to 4. Bill Hughey Critz, known as a light hitter before he came to New York, upheld the tradition by hitting a single and a home run and driving in two runs.

WRIGHT CHECKS BUCS

Glenn Wright, whom the Pittsburgh Pirates sent to Brooklyn in exchange for Jess Petty two seasons ago, returned to action against his old team yesterday and was instrumental in giving the Robins a 6 to 5 victory. Wright helped to drive Petty from the mound with a heavy batting attack that gave Brooklyn a good lead, then played the key position in a fast and close double play that ended the game when the Pirates seemed sure to tie the score.

The Chicago Cubs got along very well without two former Bostonians, Hornsby and Bell as they wound up their series against the Braves with a 10 to 7 victory. It was the eighth in succession for the National League champions. Hack Wilson's seventeenth home run was the best of Chicago's 11 hits.

Philadelphia had homer No. 14 from the bat of Chuck Klein to aid in a 10 to 4 triumph over the slumping St. Louis Cardinals.

The St. Louis representative of the American League, the Browns had better luck with a ninth inning rally. Going into the ninth four runs behind the Philadelphia Athletics, they put on an uprising that called Jack Quinn into action as relief pitcher for the third successive day, scored five runs and won the game 6 to 5.

TIGERS STOP NATS

Detroit's Tigers started their scoring early to keep the Washington Senators a game behind the Athletics. They put over four runs off Sam Jones in the second inning and won by a 6 to 2 count.

Cleveland scored early and late to beat the humble Boston Red Sox, 17 to 7.

Play in the tournament is expedited—the chaps who have little chance of winning a prize only hold up the play of the field and cause the better players to become "cold." Again, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has no desire to take from district country clubs its supply of caddies for that day, inconveniencing club members. Last year, virtually every club in the district entered into the spirit of the tournament and enthusiastically lent a hand, from chairmen of golf committees down to the hard-working caddie-masters, in an effort to assist in the preliminary qualifying.

It is, of course, imperative that all entrants obey to the letter the rules of the United States Golf Association for medal play and the local rules of the Schenley Park municipal links.

BURKE DIRECTOR

As in the past, John Jay Burke, city office manager for the Allegheny County Parks, former public links executive committeeman of the United States Golf Association, will be honorary director of the tournament. Burke has accepted the post and is delighted to again be associated with the work of bringing out the best in golf in Western Pennsylvania's junior amateur golfing ranks.

The Schenley Park family also has pledged its aid to the Golf Tournament Editor again—Al McBride, professional; Johnny Hapchuck and Chuck Onoretta, assistant professionals; Andy Petrolia, caddie-master; Eddie Kunold, superintendent of the clubhouse; Tom O'Keefe, time clerk; John Kauffmann, greenkeeper; Frank Petrolia, who runs the restaurant, and last but not least, Mike Lipchick, club-maker and assistant pro, and his assistant. These men will give up their daily duties for that day to assist the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in putting across its biggest and best junior tourney.

(An entry blank for the junior golf tournament will be published in Sunday's paper. Watch for it and fill it out and send it in.)

FOREIGN DOGS RUN TONIGHT

Three foreign dogs will be among the contestants in the ten-race program to be presented at the New Kensington Fairgrounds tonight under the auspices of the International Greyhound Racing Association and the New Kensington American Legion. Three dogs from Ireland are scheduled to show their prowess against American entries in the eighth event. Andy, who scored a fine victory last night, is the favorite to repeat tonight, with Darktown a strong choice for second.

Mixin Art led the quarter-mile speeds all the way to the wire at the Bridgeville Kennel Club's Speedway last evening. He broke on top from the inside, opened up a good lead on the back stretch and lasted to stall off the fast-closing Silvanus.

At New Kensington, Demuth landed his second triumph of the meet, winning the ninth race, a futurity, and paying the fine price of $17.60, $7.80 and $9.00. Jimmy Jamestown was second and Bold Knight third.

TOMMY JORDAN BEATEN BY M'TIERNAN

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Hard socking and [illegible] showers featured the [illegible] Bridgeville Bout Club's Mc-Tiernan and Tom Jordan at Hughes Park Monday last night with M'Tiernan the winner at the finish by a wide margin and almost by a knockout. In the sixth round when the referee stopped Jordan who seemed to feel he had enough of that stage but given a respite decided to stick it out and finally lived to finish the bout on his feet.

The thing which somewhat offended in that M'Tiernan who hails from Swissvale always was the cleaner and hard hitter who generally the aggressor with driving punches was not lacking in thrills. In addition to that knockdown in the sixth which found Jordan a rangy veteran from Brooklyn who has fought many of the stars taking a count of four before he was saved from elimination it there was a moment in the eighth round when he tried to win on a foul, but didn't get away with it.

TRIES TO WIN ON FOUL

Sorely pressed Jordan found himself herded into a neutral corner by the crowding McTiernan and took advantage of a light left on the belt line to squawk "foul" and go down for the agony act. Referee Joe Keally and Timekeeper Max Zeugschmidt began to count over him and he got up at nine dragging a right off the floor as he came to nail his onrushing opponent. The bell again intervened at a most interesting point.

For a time in the early rounds while he was strong Jordan made things interesting for McTiernan as he countered heavily with rights to the body at close quarters. However he never was really dangerous and didn't carry a round in the scoring.

McTiernan, at the low weight of 153½ pounds, boxed and hit harder and more sharply than at any time since his illness, and only his opponent's ring generalship and ruggedness enabled him to stand up under the punching that Buck dealt out to him. Jordan weighed only 149¼, but had both height and reach on McTiernan. The decision was unanimous.

GALLAGHER BEATS FARONE

Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale 127¼, outfought Al Farone, of the West End, in the eight-round semi-final, put on after the main bout because of the drizzling rain. Farone did little leading and considerable clinching, and in the last two rounds was badly shaken by his opponent's rights to the heart and jaw.

Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side 147¼, won by a technical knockout when Ralph Munroe's seconds tossed in the towel for him at the end of the fifth round of the second bout. Munroe, a Negro scaling 142¼ pounds, took a hard punching while the fight lasted, and was bleeding badly from the nose and mouth most of the way.

Hugh Fetzer, of the North Side, 158½, won the referee's decision over Billy Brent, Negro, of Chicago, 151 in the first bout, a hard-fought six-round affair.

GIZZY-O'MALLEY NEXT

The threatening weather kept down the size of the crowd. Joe Keally and Jack Henderson alternated as referees. Jock Simco and Frank Ferris were the judges and Harry Klaas did the announcing. Battling Gizzy and Steve O'Malley were announced as the finalists for next week's show with Mickey Solomen and Jackie Wilson in the semi-final.

Long's Sport Comment

that the officials time the shifts made by St. Mary's in all games in which his team participates, in order that they may be certain his players are keeping within the new requirements on this particular gridiron maneuver.

ANOTHER PITCHING STAR of the past who like Ed Walsh, Garin Lieberhardt and others may send a son to the major leagues, is Jack Powell, formerly of the Cleveland and St. Louis Nationals and St. Louis and New York Americans.

His 18-year-old son Jim is showing so much promise as a catcher for the McBride High School team of St. Louis that big league scouts are looking him over. The boy is being coached by his uncle Jack O'Connor, one-time Pirate backstop.

K. O. Christner

WHILE IT WAS by no means a world-beating achievement that Primo Carnera scored in Detroit last night when he knocked out K. O. Christner in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round fight, the big Italian must be credited with having accomplished more than in any previous ring appearance in this country. Christner never was a champion, and isn't as capable or dangerous now as a year ago, but he is still good enough to be classed as the strongest opponent Carnera has yet faced. At that the outcome was one that had been generally expected, not by reason of any uncommon class that Carnera had shown earlier, but because it was a foregone conclusion that his managers would not risk him in any match that might spoil the financial plum in prospect when he meets George Godfrey in Philadelphia on June 23. The latter is the fight that will have to be watched. Victory would not mean much to Godfrey, but it would mean a fortune to the Carnera crowd on account of what they would be able to get out of it later in matches with one or more of the white toplimers.

PHILA. COMPANY LEAGUE.
Bylesby at Duquesne Light.

By TOM BIRKS

Two games will be flashed in the City League this evening to lead a well balanced card on the local sandlots. Pleasant Valley, striving to find the form that carried it to a championship last season, will tangle with St. Johns. The hard fighting O'Shea aggregation should give the title holders a tussle.

Dunsky has Jacoby back in the lineup, and Lou will endeavor to start the Smilers on another winning streak. Dunsky has been getting tough breaks, especially from players who turn up to play to suit their own convenience, but the second half is coming along, and it will be a fighting outfit that will wear those trick suits.

THOMAS, STOWE CLASH

Pop Geer will have the J. L. Thomas team for the attraction at Stowe. Geer feels that the first half race is still open and expects to take the Bloomfielders into camp.

In the West Penn League, Universal will tangle with Homewood at the cement town. This game should pack in the community fans. Manager McKeag hopes to give the East Enders their second setback.

The Commercial and Industrial League flashes two games. Joseph Hornes will take another crack at Reliance Life in one affair and B. and O. will travel to Etna to meet Carnegie Steel.

In the Philadelphia Company League, Bylesby meets Duquesne Light at Mellon Field. The Steel City loop flashes a real battle when Lincoln Place goes to Sullivan Field to meet the Young Men's Star Circle club.

GRAYS WIN FIFTIETH

The Homestead Grays hung up their fiftieth victory of the season last evening, defeating the City League leaders, Book Shoe, 11 to 4, at Washington Park.

In the City League, the Jimmy Smiths downed Pleasant Valley, 7 to 5; North Side Civics won over J. L. Thomas, 6 to 5, and W. O. W. walloped Stowe, 10 to 2.

Homewood landed on Universal, 5 to 0, and Dormont defeated Verona, 9 to 2, in the West Penn League. In the C. and I. circuit, Reick-McJunkin defeated Hornes, 5 to 2, and B. and O. won over Mine Safety, 3 to 2.

RELIANCE WINS

Duquesne Light defeated the Railway nine, 6 to 1, in the Philadelphia Company League; Reliance Life downed the Jenkins, 9 to 7, in the Greater Pittsburgh loop and St. Philips defeated the Methodists, 1 to 0, in the Crafton-Ingram Church League.

Mellon Bank nosed out the Rosenbaums, 10 to 9, in the Commercial circuit, and the North Siders defeated Troy Hill, 6 to 5, in the N. S. Twilight League.

The D. J. Brodericks defeated the Braddock Park Arrows last evening, 5 to 4, at Braddock.

South Hills sank further into the cellar, losing to Westmoreland, 14 to 3. Alcoma won over St. Clair by 10 to 5.

The Kittanning Country Club team scored a 50-37 victory over the Brackenridge Club array in a special match at Brackenridge. Swagert, of Kittanning, turned in the low gross score of 77.

The Nemacolin Country Club will stage an invitation tournament on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, it was announced by Jimmy Devlin, professional there.

Nick Altrock Says:

DETROIT, June 6.—Folks, I want to speak to you today about a ball club—the Cubs. When Hal Carlson passed on and Hornsby broke his ankle they were entitled to curl up like a slice of fried bacon. Instead they went and blasted their way so close to the top they are now like salt on the Robins tail. A club like that has got a stomach that you could cut up and make into tennis racquets. I guess the Cubs are all like Hack Wilson. Hack does his best work when there's gloom on the horizon and foozles things when the sun is shining.

Sears Cup Duels To Open Today

BALTIMORE, June 6.—(AP.)—Thirty-two of the country's leading women tennis players, including nine who in recent years have won national championships start play today in the two-day competition for the Sears cup.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

BOSTON, June 6.—Well, folks, we just missed leaving a whole blanket of fog all over Flatbush. It was a hot day but I think a lot of them poor Flatbush birds in the stands were chilled worse than a sparrow on a zero day when we put on that act in the ninth.

That was a tough play to give and maybe Ted called it right. It was so close. We all figured that Rolly had beat the ball and that's why we rushed to the plate. One or two of the boys might have walked on Ted in the scramble. But they all like him and I hope he doesn't have anybody set down or fined. I don't think he's that kind of a guy.

I was kinda glad to get going again. New York is a great place. But they do a lot of daffy things around Ebbets Field. One day they had a bunch of giddy girls from a show out on the park tryin' to cash in on some free publicity and yesterday they had Rudy Vallee. There's a clean looking young fellow. And when he came out to the battin' cage Max Carey and the boys told him to go up and hit a couple.

Well, I just wish you could have seen that dude up at the plate. He swung all his might and the ball just went to second base.

I was wishing Kid Gleason or some guy like that was around to hit him a few grounders and toughen him up. He had his saxaphone with him, and after we saw him at the plate, I felt like sayin':

"You better not lose that saxaphone or that curly hair or you'll be out of luck."

At that, he acted like a dandy boy.

CARNERA STOPS K. O. CHRISTNER

DETROIT, June 6.—(AP.)—Before 18,000 fans who paid $75,000 for the privilege of watching him perform, Primo Carnera, giant Italian, knocked out Meyer (KO) Christner, of Akron, O., in the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

The fourth round had gone only one minute and 20 seconds when Carnera landed a terrific left hook to the point of the jaw and Christener went down and out. Carnera worked up to the grand finale most systematically after losing the first round by a wide margin on points.

In putting Christner down for the long count Carnera accomplished something that outstanding heavyweights of the country have tried and failed to do. In fact, it was the first knockout defeat of the Akronite's career.

"Style Twins"
Summer 1930
THIS IS A TRULY WARNER YEAR

MILAN "TWINS"
I paid $12.00 for this Original Oriental Milan which I first saw at the Jockey Club at Havana.
In my "Style Twin" I have duplicated the fineness of the weave, the graceful crown, pliable brim and the specially woven band of the original.
My exact "Style Twin" costs you . . . $2.85

VENTILATED "TWINS"
Light — Cool — and Comfortable
Air currents of comfort circulate through Portholes in the crown, with a Perforated Leather Band, on the inside, and especially woven Ventilated Silk Band on the outside.
All these additional Comfort Features are skilfully concealed in a beautifully made "Style Twin" which I have Reproduced for $2.45

THE straw hats shown in our windows Today, are "STYLE TWINS" of the most Expensive Styles seen in the most Exclusive Shops in the Style Centers of the World.
We have reproduced exactly the Styles, actually worn by the Style Leaders in the fashionable resorts of Europe and the U. S. A.
I believe our collection of Straw "STYLE TWINS" represents the greatest variety of new styles, and the largest assortment of fine imported straw braids, at the lowest prices ever shown by us, or anyone.

PANAMA "TWINS"
I paid $12.50 in Palm Beach for this Genuine South American Panama. This Optimo shape was the most popular Style at the Everglades Club.
I produced its exact "Style Twin"—A Genuine Hand-Woven South American Panama for $5

RATHMORE WINS IN HORSE SHOW FEATURE

FAVORITES BOW TO CANADIAN JUMPER

Rathmore entered by R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa, Ontario won in the competition for jumpers, open to all, one of the features of the morning program of the annual Allegheny Country Club horse show at the club's Sewickley Heights grounds today.

The victory of the Canadian horse occasioned considerable surprise, for Westmoreland Lad and Windsor, two of the most celebrated thoroughbreds ever to compete in the local show, were entered in the competition. Young Dictator, entered by B. F. Jones, III, beat out Westmoreland Lad for second honors, with Dark Michael fourth. Both Westmoreland Lad and Dark Michael are Ralph Lynch entries. The summary of today's events:

Heavyweight hunters, up to 200 pounds—Lillian S. A. Douglas Nose, first; Pat Lyon, Henry W. Oliver, second; Ballpate, Henry W. Oliver, third; McKee, R. S. McLaughlin, fourth.

Saddle horses, hunter type, not exceeding 15.2—Desert Rose, Oliver Hill Stables, first; Christmas Morning, Lewis A. Farr, second; Pensive, Mrs. Dorothy Hamilton, third; Shetland pony, Mrs. Charles Dilworth, fourth. (Only three entries.)

Combination hunting and harness and saddle horses—Bob B., Charles C. Cobb, first; Buster, Edward James Mac, second; Ranger, Basil Schaaf, third. (Only three entries.)

Jumpers, amateurs to ride—Rathmore, R. S. McLaughlin, first; Dusty, Dorothy B. F. Jones, III, second; Westmoreland Lad, Ralph Lynch, third; Dark Michael, Ralph Lynch, fourth.

the wildest the Pirates have taken part in for many a long day.

Skipper Ens was still sore this morning as he announced that Heinie Meine would pitch for the Buccos in the opening encounter with Bill McKechnie's tribe. Meine has been out most of the season. Bill Cunningham is likely to oppose the Pirates.

The topic which the Pirates refuse to give up concerns the exciting ninth round at Ebbets Field. After eight stubborn innings, and with the Buccos trailing by one round, Catcher Al Bool put the tying run on the sacks with a single to center. Hemsley went in to run for Al and Mosolf batted for Leon Chagnon. Mosolf walked.

LUQUE SAVES GAME

Uncle Robbie stopped the game and rushed Dolf Luque to the scene. Charlie Engle went up with strict instructions to bunt, but he fouled out.

The tension in the stands was terrific as more than 10,000 feared for the worst with Paul Waner at bat. The first pitch to Paul was a ball. The alert Ens knew that the smart Luque would get the next ball over and he put on the hit-and-run sign.

Ens was right—the next pitch was over, and Paul smacked the ball straight at Jake Flowers. It was a grounder, and Flowers acted like an infielder who was intent on starting a double play.

Now Glenn was in full view of the flying start taken by Hemsley, and when he grabbed the ball which forced Mosolf, he did not risk a probable double play at first—instead he let fly with his powerful whip in the direction of Catcher Lopez. The fleet Hemsley knew he was in for it if he did not open up with his best speed. The ball reached the catcher just about the same time as Rolly collided with the enemy. The Buccos claim he wasn't touched, but McGrew ruled against the Pirates, and the field was in an uproar with a score of Buccos threatening to climb Ted's frame.

Jess Petty was charged with the defeat, although Jess pitched cleverly until the fifth, when he weakened. Chagnon relieved him.

Molla Mallory Out Of '30 Net Events

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP.)—Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, eight times American champion, may play no tennis this year. She is convalescing at home after undergoing hospital treatment for a month and does not expect to be able to compete in any tournaments this year. There is a possibility, however, that she may have completely recovered in time to play in the national championships in August.

Sarah Palfrey, Miss Ryan in Final

LONDON, June 6.—(INS.)—Miss Sarah Palfrey, American Wightman Cup star, today defeated her team-mate, Mary Greef, 7-5, 6-3, in the semi-finals of the North London tennis championships at Stamford Hill.

In the other semi-final match, Miss Elizabeth Ryan defeated Mrs. E. R. Clarke, of England, 6-2, 6-1. Miss Ryan and Miss Palfrey will meet in the final tomorrow.

SCOTT TOPS FIELD

MIDLOTHIAN, Del., June 6.—(AP.)—Scott, of the home club, shot a 78 to win the Elks' gold cup golf tournament and with the qualifying mark in the annual men's invitation tournament at the Wilmington Country Club yesterday. The event is considered the junior amateur championship of Delaware.

Fight Results

Hickey Park, Millvale—Buck McTier, defeated Irish Tommy Jordan, 10 rounds. Peaches Gallagher defeated Al Rose, 8 rounds; Georgie Bretsch won by technical knockout over Ralph Mabrey, 8 rounds; Hugh Keiser won referee's decision over Billy Brent, 6 rounds.

At Detroit—Primo Carnera knocked out K. O. Christner, 4 rounds; K. O. Clemons and Benny Touchstone drew, 8 rounds; Jack Rivers defeated George Wilson, 6 rounds; Charley Retzlaff knocked out Tom Sayers, 1 round; K. O. Redmond knocked out Larry Creighton, 2 rounds; Tiny Powell knocked out Jack Lewis, 2 rounds; Danny Gaspard knocked out James Alcorn, 1 round.

At Waterbury, Conn.—Al Brown knocked out Milton Cohen, 1 round.

At Sioux City—Tuffy Griffiths knocked out Cowboy Bill Greene, 8 rounds.

At Birmingham—W. L. (Young) Stribling defeated Frankie Wine, 10 rounds.

At Stockton, Cal.—Bobby Vincent and Johnny Owens drew, 10 rounds.

BROWN WINS

WATERBURY, CONN., June 6.—Al Brown, bantamweight champion, knocked out Milton Cohen in the first round of a scheduled 10-round go here last night.

SHAW HIGH SCHOOL'S baseball team, Cleveland champion, will meet Westinghouse here this afternoon and take on Shady Side tomorrow.

Sport Vignettes

It seems there were a few millworkers and underpaid clerks who didn't win fortunes in the lotteries on the English Derby, but so far they haven't broken into print . . . Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, is one power in the alleged National Pastime who is bitterly opposed to the new night baseball fad . . . He believes one of the best sales arguments for the game is the old saw that it keeps the fans out in the fresh air and sunshine and thinks the moonlight racket will work incalculable harm . . . The absence of Betty Nuthall from the English Wightman Cup team is stirring a lot of criticism . . . Why? Can't they trot out somebody else to be beaten by Helen Wills Moody? . . . Good feature about baseball these lively days is that sometimes there are more errors than hits . . . That's something, anyway . . . Bill Miller, former partner of Jimmy Bronson, is picking Max Schmeling to defeat Jack Sharkey in their bout next Thursday night on general principles and hopes he's wrong—again . . . Bill claims he has compiled a perfect record for being all wet on Maxie . . . Says he picked Joe Monte to beat him and saw Max win by a knockout . . . Then he bet on Joe Sekyra against the German schlager and Schmeling won like Gallant Fox . . . Then he bet on Johnny Risko and Max knocked out the Clevelander . . . Finally he got down a bet on Paulino to beat the German and blew that one, too . . . So, this time, he's going to bet on instead of against Max, which would seem to clinch the heavyweight title for Sharkey . . . The Belmont Stakes, to be run at Belmont Park tomorrow with a great duel impending between Gallant Fox and Whichone, was established 'way back in 1867 and antedates the classic Preakness by six years and the Kentucky Derby by eight years and is the richest 3-year-old stake in the world . . . Gallant Fox will go to the post the favorite because of its victories in the Preakness and Derby, but Earl Sande's mount was soundly beaten by Whichone as a 2-year-old in the Futurity last year, finishing third . . . Whichone developed lameness last winter and had to be nursed back carefully to running form, while Gallant Fox always has been sound . . . Whereas Whichone was the leading money winner among the 2-year-olds last year, Gallant Fox heads the list as a 3-year-old this year, having garnered $112,800 to date and standing a fine chance of grabbing a great deal more in the many big features still in the offing for which it is eligible . . . The Belmont will be worth approximately $82,000, with $70,000 going to the winner . . . The first year it was run its value was only $1,800 . . . Sonny Workman, the jockey who rode Whichone to a fancy victory in the Withers last Saturday, will have the leg up on him against Sande and Gallant Fox in the Belmont, and what a race is in sight! . . . Some idea of why the Sammy Mandell-Al Singer fight for the lightweight title in New York next month is expected to be the greatest "draw" in the history of any of the lighter classes may be gained from the fact that in the last year bouts involving Singer, an idol with the New York fans, have drawn more than a half-million dollars . . . That's great stuff for a kid who has not yet won a title, and don't forget that he was out of commission for at least three months with bad hands . . . In six bouts under the auspices of Madison Square Garden alone, Singer drew a total of $478,411, an average of just a little less than $80,000 per bout . . . Only one of them was an outdoor affair, the one with Kid Chocolate, and it drew $178,650 . . . These figures are from the annual financial statement of the Garden corporation, just announced . . . By the way, what has become of Eddie (Bow Tie) Kelly, the best round indicator card holder at the local clubs, whose place has been taken by newcomers, and whose familiar phiz has been missed by the ringsiders? . . . And why isn't Bill Schuster getting a crack at some of the announcing jobs at the open-air arenas after his fine work indoors at the Moose Temple and Motor Square Garden?—HARRY KECK.

PEABODY WINS SCHOOL MEET

By the very narrow margin of three and one fourth points, Hugh Lambie's Peabody High School track and field team retained its City Scholastic championship, winning the annual meet in the Pitt Stadium yesterday afternoon.

Westinghouse gave Peabody a gruelling race for honors, and finished second with a total of 41½ points to Peabody's 44½. Schenley was a close third with 37½ and South Hills scored 24¾ points for fourth.

In the girls' division, South Hills led in the senior division with 39 points. Schenley topped the intermediates with five and Westinghouse nosed out Baxter by a point in the junior classification.

Herron Hill and Westinghouse tied at 29 points for the junior boys' title, but Herron Hill was awarded the title trophy because of its victory in the relay.

Records were broken in three events in the senior meet. Roscoe Fleming, Westinghouse flyer, set a new mark of 22 4-5 in the furlong. Lawrence, of South Hills ran a 4:44 mile for a new standard and then Fleming, running his second race of the day, set a new mark of 50 2-5 in the quarter-mile.

Mike Milligan, in winning the hundred yard dash, equalled the mark he set a year ago by negotiating the distance in 10 1-5. The summary:

REYNOLDS VICTOR

DISTRICT STARS IN NATIONALS

By JESS CARVER.

Dismayed not a wit by the presence of half a score defending champions and the cream of the intercollegiate track and field performers of this broad land, a quintet of Pittsburgh district collegians are in Chicago today, where they'll compete in the annual N. C. A. A. (national intercollegiates) track and field championships at Stagg Field.

Pete Bowen

Those carrying the standard of Western Pennsylvania into the national competition are R. F. (Pete) Bowen, Everett Utterback, Wid Harris and Ed Knoblock, all of Pitt, and Len Friedman, javelin tosser extraordinary, of Geneva.

Bowen, Knoblock and Friedman are completing their varsity careers with this meet. The Pitt flyer will run in the century and in the 440-yard event. Knoblock is an entry in both the high and low hurdles (he has the best chance of gettin' somewhere in the highs) and Utterback will broad jump and high jump, and Friedman will take part in his specialty, the spear toss.

Trials in all events will be held today with the Southern California squad, victors in the I. C. A. A. A. meet at Boston last week, favored to annex the team title.

BETTING HEAVY ON TITLE GO

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service

NEW YORK, June 6.—Betting on the heavyweight championship fight here next Thursday night between Jack Sharkey, of Boston, and Max Schmeling, of Germany, is heavier than on any sporting event of the year, it was announced today by Wall street commission brokers. Sharkey is the favorite at odds of 7 to 5.

An order to "lay" $50,000 at these odds that the Boston Gob will beat the Teuton Schlager has just been received from Boston by W. L. Darnell & Co., 42 Broadway. There is plenty of Sharkey money on hand, and German coin of the realm also is showing up in sizable quantities.

Odds of 7 to 5, with Sharkey the favorite to win, also were quoted by J. S. Fried & Co., Inc., 80 Wall street. This firm announced that to date it has placed $50,000 at odds of 5 to 7 that Schmeling will take the championship title back to Germany.

Darnell & Co. reported it has orders to get down the following "freak" wagers:

Five thousand dollars at 1 to 4 that Sharkey knocks out Schmeling; $5,000 at 1 to 4 that Schmeling "K. O.'s" Sharkey and $5,000 that the fight will not go the limit.

W. L. VICTOR

BIRMINGTON, Ala., June 6.—(AP.)—W. L. (Young) Stribling, of Macon, Ga., won an easy 10-round decision over Frankie Wine, Montana blacksmith, here last night. Stribling weighed 190½; Wine 165.

Local Athletic Leaders Deny Drink Evil

Local college sports leaders today took exception to statements made by Charley Paddock in a signed article in a current issue of a weekly magazine to the effect that since the advent of prohibition "drinking has affected American athletics to the extent that strong drink has become a serious problem."

Commenting on the sprint star's statement that college athletics and athletes, as well as U. S. aces in the international sports spotlight, had suffered from a strong drink epidemic, Clarence (Buddy) Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech; W. Don Harrison, director of athletics at Pitt, and Elmer Layden, Duquesne University athletic director, agreed that because local college athletes were not addicted to the drinking of intoxicants, they represented the highest standard of fitness and stamina yet achieved.

Brown Beats Harris Of Technical K. O.

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 6.—(AP.)—Harry (Kid) Brown, Philadelphia junior-lightweight, won a technical knockout victory over Sammy Harris, Akron, O., in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night which inaugurated the open air boxing season in Washington.

Freddie Edwards, Chester, W. Va., won on technical knockout over Paul Oger, Barberton, O., in the fourth of a schedule eight-round go.

VON ELM WINS FRENCH TITLE

LA BOULIE, France, June 6.—(AP.)—George Von Elm, of Detroit, today won the French amateur golf championship, defeating R. G. Morrison, of England, 9 up and 8 to play, in the 36-hole final match.

Von Elm, former amateur champion of the United States, was the outstanding favorite from the opening of the championship. In the final match he never was in danger of losing, finishing the first 18 holes with an advantage of five holes over his opponent. The American played the 18 holes of the morning round in 70 strokes.

The Detroiter's victory marked the second American triumph in two years in the French golf competition. Last year the title was won by Jack Westland, of Chicago, who did not defend it.

Wheels of Commerce Kept In Motion by Spirit of Their Venturesomeness

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, June 6.—William C. Potter, who was a mining engineer before he became president of the world's largest trust company, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, once remarked to me that, unlike engineering, which deals with facts, banking deals to a degree with surmise.

The banker is called upon to finance business in the making, and he must judge in advance whether the projected enterprises of his customers will be sufficiently successful to enable them to discharge their indebtedness to the bank. Dealing with dynamic situations, the banker must look ahead and seek to visualize what is coming. Naturally, he tends to be somewhat more cautious in times of recession than in periods of abundant prosperity. And yet when conditions have been liquidated there is distinctly less risk than under boom situations, when excesses are in the making.

Even more than the banker, the business man must look ahead, make his production plans months before definitely receiving orders, and he must forecast public taste. The essential speculation in business springs from this necessity of making plans for the future, which, in the nature of things, is to some extent unknowable. But this spirit of venturesomeness knits the future to the present and keeps the wheels of commerce in motion.

SPECULATOR DEADLOCKED

And the stock speculator is in the specialized business of looking ahead, and acting on hunches and opinions as to what the nature of prosperity will be in the future. He anticipates developments, so that when the actual event has been accomplished its market significance has already been fully discounted. Of late, the speculator class has been deadlocked, and, torn by a division of opinion, the market has been unusually dull and quiescent.

Harold T. Johnson, thoughtful Wall street broker, in discussing the situation, asks:

"CAN things stand still in this country?"

Answering his own question in the negative, Mr. Johnson took the optimistic viewpoint that the next swing in business will be upward. In setting forth the alternatives he pointed out:

"It would seem to be the fact that by next fall things will be very much worse or very much better. In either case, the discount process in the market is likely to anticipate the event by many weeks. A person interested in stocks must today subscribe to either one or the other school of thought, expert opinion on either side of which is readily available, with, however, the majority at the present time on the gloomy side.

"The present position in the country is one of poor business, and ideas on the trend of the coming months are based only on hope, fears and theory. The above discussion is offered as a theory of hope."

Of late, the dullness of the market has reflected lack of conviction as to which way the cat of prosperity will jump. The market has been suffering from a popular feeling of neutrality and apathy.

GASOLINE PROFITLESS

Oil executives assert that they are unable to make a profit out of the sale of gasoline at present low prices. However, the disposition of gasoline pays overhead, and such profit as is made from the sale of lubricants and allied products goes directly to net income. In view of the narrow margin in standard products, the oil companies are turning more and more to trade marked derivative products, including grease and soap, on which there is a wider profit margin. One factor in keeping down gasoline prices is the quiet economic war between the Standard Oil and Royal Dutch-Shell interests.

The railroads, whose net earnings this year have been hard hit by the temporary setback in trade, won an important victory in the Supreme Court this week. The court unanimously reversed the interpretation placed on the Hoch Smith resolution by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The resolution sought to get the commission to consider the state of agricultural prosperity in fixing railroad rates, making the railroads a balance wheel for distributing prosperity as among different industries. The court held that such an interpretation of the resolution is in direct violation of the interstate commerce act. Apart from technicalities, the resolution itself, if it has any meaning, is in violation of the interstate commerce act.

The National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, which advocates the repeal of the resolution, has characterized it as "a political rate-making fallacy."

The court decision is a bull point for all good railroad securities.

P. R. R. First Quarter Net 88c a Share

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company reports March quarter net income of $11,449,666, after taxes and charges, comparing with net of $12,496,656 in the first quarter of 1929. This was equal to 88 cents a share on 12,941,487 shares, against 96 cents a share on the same basis in the first quarter last year.

Forbes' Interview With Wife on Cost of Living

—By B. C. FORBES—

HAVING BEEN ASSURED by the Federal Bureau of Labor that the cost of living is now lower than at any time since the war, and having read almost daily of this, that and the next commodity selling at extraordinarily low prices, I decided to interview a housewife on this subject of the falling cost of living. Designedly, I selected my wife. Here is a truthful record of the interview:

"Do you find things are now cheaper?"

"Yes, a good many things are."

"Which?"

"Clothes are cheaper—a lot cheaper."

"I WAS THINKING more about different kinds of food. Has the price of bread or rolls or other things you buy from the baker come down?"

"No; I haven't noticed that the baker has reduced his prices."

"What things have come down most?"

"Vegetables. They are really very cheap and very good. That asparagus we had last night was terribly cheap, yet you yourself said it was as good as you ever tasted. It was local asparagus."

"HOW ABOUT MEAT?"

"Yes, some of the butcher's prices have been reduced a little, but not so very much. But my meat bill is down."

"What else?"

"Coffee has been wonderfully cheap for a long time. Sugar is down a lot, too."

"How about milk?"

"It's down a cent a quart from last year."

"ANYTHING ELSE?"

"Yes, eggs have been cheap all through the winter. Butter is very reasonable—very."

What about some of the other things you buy?"

"I ordered our winter's coal last month, to get the lowest price of the year, but although lots of our friends are now using oil burners, it doesn't seem to have made much difference in the price of coal. It's a very big item. And the children's shoes—they cost almost as much as grown-up's. I bought one pair of hiking shoes and have to buy two pairs more, for the other boys, and what do you think I had to pay? $18!"

"TELL ME ABOUT some of the other things that now cost less."

"Well, help is very much more plentiful. They don't now consider it a great condescension to come to work for you. And plenty of them are willing to work for less wages than they used to demand."

"SO, ON THE WHOLE, you would say that you notice quite a difference in the cost of running the house?"

"Yes, quite a difference, I would say."

"BULLY! HOW ABOUT a little reduction in your household allowance?"

"Oh, ho! So that's what you were getting at, smartie? Well, your answer is 'no'!"

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENTS SLUGGISH

Bears Attempt Another Offensive but Fail to Make Much Headway

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP.)—The stock market was subjected to another minor bear offensive today, but the speculative community has given itself up so completely to a premature case of mid-summer apathy that bears were unable to make much headway.

Wall Street was distinctly surprised by the increase of $79,000,000 in brokers' loans announced last night. In view of the extreme sluggishness of the stock market during the period covered by the low figures the gain was generally interpreted as indicating that the new bond issues were not selling well. This was seized upon as bearish material by professional traders, and prominent shares generally were depressed a point or two. More than a dozen issues, mostly inconspicuous, reached new lows for the year.

UNFAVORABLE NEWS

Such developments as a drop of more than 11 per cent in Woolworth's May sales, although largely due to abnormal sales efforts a year ago; a drop of about 9 per cent in the May sales of Simmons and subsidiaries, passing of the Coty dividend, and a news ticker analysis predicting a sharp drop in automobile output during the next 60 to 90 days were not of a character to impart any buoyancy to the market.

There were some indications, however, that the commodity situation is clearing up. Some Chicago board members are becoming more optimistic as to the outlook for the wheat market. Silver reacted but moderately after yesterday's sharp rally. Finance Minister Inouye of Japan was quoted by Dow, Jones & Co. as stating that he expected commodities to touch bottom by July. He said indications point to a strong silk market within a few weeks, and inquiries from Japan's cotton textile markets indicate that an end to the decline is not far off, unless America produces a bumper crop. The Annalist's weekly commodity price index gained about 1-3 of a point.

RALLIES IN SPOTS

Selling was most active in the morning, and by early afternoon the list rallied in spots. Credit remained plentiful, with rates practically unchanged. A few stocks sold off 3 to 5 points or more, including American Tobacco, Allied Chemical and Detroit Edison. Such issues as American Telephone, American Can, McKeesport Tin Plate, North American, Goodyear, Loose Wiles and Lambert reacted a couple of points. Stocks reaching new lows included Coty, American Rolling Mill, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Erie and International Mercantile Marine.

Houston Oil, Foster Wheeler and Coca Cola were conspicuous in the afternoon rally, selling up moderately above yesterday's closing levels.

Car & Foundry's Payment Of Regular Dividend Surprises Sellers

In view of the action taken by the directors of American Locomotive in reducing the dividend on the common stock there were many who sold American Car and Foundry on the belief that the directors of that company would take similar action. The declaration of the regular dividend of $1.50 quarterly came as a surprise to them. American Car and Foundry is a well managed company with a conservative board and its action in making no change in the rate is significant. Of course, continuance of the dividend will depend largely on the course of the company's business.

The manner in which Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward first modified and then eliminated freight prepayment, which has been a source of loss to both of them, indicates strongly that there was some measure of co-operation between the two companies in that matter. As far as can be ascertained, however, their co-operation has gone no further.

Weakness in bank stocks in the over-counter market quite pronounced in some directions provided one of the outstanding developments in yesterday's session of security trading. Bank shares turned distinctly heavy late Wednesday and yesterday's opening was characterized by a good deal of fresh weakness, the more prominent issues showing recessions ranging from 2 to around 6 per cent in market value as compared with Wednesday's closing levels. Changed conditions in the money market as contrasted with this time last year, perhaps explained the shift away from bank securities, but the weakness was ascribed by dealers principally to thinness of bids indicating public apathy has spread to affect bank as well as corporation security.

Some of Wall street's tired and belaborred bulls may be able to find some encouragement from the tenor of a conversation reported to have taken place between an individual close to some of the street's biggest banking interests and a prominent member of the financial community recently. The latter suggested to the former that there was little indication of much of a bull market until well along in the fall. The forthcoming reply was not to worry because good markets would be under way again before that time.

Early strength in the amusement shares yesterday under the leadership of Warner Brothers proved rather puzzling to the observers, who, though bullish on this group earlier in the year have since seen fit to become a little less optimistic. The disposition in such quarters of late has been toward revising downward earlier estimates of earnings for the current quarter. Initial strength in the group was not maintained however, selling which overtook the general market making itself felt in those issues by way of canceling most of the early improvement.

There were several unfavorable developments in the course of yesterday which served to switch a number of New York traders to the bear side in an effort to catch a turn. Foremost among such developments was the weakness in the copper stocks, which was rather marked. Also there was the cut of 5 to 10 per cent in tire prices announced by a leader in the rubber business, and moreover, the reduction of 50 cents a ton in pig iron prices at Chicago, the latter serving in a measure to offset the advance announced Wednesday in scrap iron prices at Pittsburgh. Steel shares were depressed in consequence of the weakening of prices reported at Chicago.

Lion Oil Company Postpones Dividend

NEW YORK, June 6.—The meeting of directors of Lion Oil Refining Company to act on the quarterly dividend of 50 cents has been postponed but will be held not later than June 17.

The postponement has been occasioned by the absence of Col. T. H. Barton, president, from the city.

WALL STREET HEARS

That United Corporation is planning to issue rights to purchase $3 preferred stock.

That the increase of $79,000,000 in this week's brokerage loan figures largely reflects new financing.

That the most important stock market traders are doing practically nothing for the present.

That favorable developments in connection with American Can's foreign activities are expected.

That the transactions of floor traders for their own account has accounted for at least one-third of the volume of trading on the stock market during the past few days.

TRAFFIC 'THEFT' LAID TO OHIO

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 6 — Steps to combat what is charged to be unfair attempts to divert traffic from National Route No. 40, one of the nation's most historic highways, were taken at a meeting here of representatives of chambers of commerce, motor clubs, and hotel men of four states.

Re-contruction of the National pike west of this city necessitated a six-mile detour. The detour has been improved for traffic, 1,000 cars passing over it daily.

Men attending the meeting charged that traffic rightfully belonging to the National pike was being diverted by signs in Ohio which declared the route was closed.

Uniontown, Cumberland, Hagerstown, Wheeling and Ohio men attended the conference. Another meeting will be held June 11, at Uniontown.

SLEUTH GUILTY IN KIDNAPING

SCRANTON, Pa., June 6 — (AP.)—John Cartusciello, private detective, and his brother, Alderman Michael Cartusciello, both of this city, were convicted by a jury in Lackawanna County Court on charges of kidnaping and conspiracy. Sentence was deferred.

Albert Ziman, of this city, formerly of New Jersey, was the prosecutor. Ziman charged that the Cartusciello brothers and his wife, from whom he had been separated, came to his home here some months ago and arrested him. He alleged that he was bundled into an automobile and forced to go to Passaic County, N. J., where he was placed in jail on charges preferred by his wife. The Carusciello brothers denied the charges.

City Work Horses Go On Parade Tomorrow

The seventh annual work horse parade will be held tomorrow under the auspices of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society. The City of Pittsburgh will have more than 250 horses, including the Black Squad of 40 police horses, in the parade. Assistant Superintendent of Police Ben R. Marshall will act as lieutenant general in the parade.

DREAD NEURITIS YIELDS READILY TO NEW KONJOLA

"I Am Glad to Give My Endorsement of This Wonderful Medicine," Says Happy Man.

What a glorious thing it would be for all who suffer and who would be well again, if all the health and happiness that Konjola, the new and different medicine, has brought into the world could be measured. Like any worth-while treatment, Konjola must be taken systematically in order to work the toxic poisons and accumulated impurities out of the system. It is recommended that six or eight bottles be taken, and while the first bottle usually produces results, it should be continued to thoroughly cleanse the system. Daily many local people call to tell the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, of the amazing benefits derived through the use of this super-remedy. Is it not wise, sensible, to believe that what Konjola has done for others, it will do for you? Just the other day Mr. Harry J. Schreiber, Route No. 2, Glenshaw, Pa., made the following statement about the work of Konjola in his case:

MR. HARRY J. SCHREIBER

"I have been benefited so much by Konjola that I am glad to give my indorsement of such a wonderful medicine. I suffered terribly from neuritis in my right arm, shoulder and my back. I tried almost everything suggested but without relief. I even took special treatments but they were a waste of time. The pains were intense, I was almost frantic. Walking was difficult, I could not lift a thing, and I slept but little.

"My father recommended Konjola to me and I started on it. To be brief, I experienced something wonderful. The pains eased up before the one bottle I purchased had been completed. I felt that I owed a debt to this medicine and so I gladly make this public statement. I have since completed four bottles and feel fine. My appetite has increased, and I enjoy sound, restful sleep. The neuritis has vanished entirely. I have not felt it at all since I finished the first bottle of Konjola.

Konjola works with the important functionary organs of the body. Konjola drives the poisons from the system, regulates the organs of elimination and produces glorious and abundant relief. It is recommended that Konjola be taken from six to eight weeks for the best results.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is sold by all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

Friml's rhythmic "Valse Huguette" from "The Vagabond King" will be sung by Lois Bennett, soprano, in the Quakers' program at 10 o'clock from KDKA.

By request, Jessica Dragonette and Leo O'Rourke once again will do the pretty "Blue Room" duet from "The Girl Friend," WCAE at 8.

Making his last appearance on the radio until fall, Mario Chamlee has selected "Out of the Dusk to You" for his farewell number on WJAS at 10 p. m.

Lois Bennett

Countess Olga Albani, who proves herself equally versatile at opera or ballads, will give us "Down the River of Golden Dreams" as a solo for the 10:30 Kodaks on KDKA. Also, in duet, "You Do Something to Me."

Imagine the Nit Wits with lots of gold. What they wouldn't do! Tune WJAS at 8 for the answer.

DO YOU KNOW—

THAT the "Red" and "Blue" networks of NBC derived their names from crayons of those colors used to plot their routes on a map of the U. S.

THAT John Barclay, Columbia baritone seven feet tall, uses "Song of the Flea" for an encore number.

THAT five cents out of every dollar is said to go into radio.

THAT Chairman Charles McK. Saltzman of the Federal Radio Commission is "nike shy."

THAT the Majestic Hour expends $2,500 a week for talent alone.

THAT dance music is the most popular form of radio entertainment, followed in order by popular songs, old time songs, jazz, variety, novelties, semi-classical music and comedy sketches.

THAT Columbia summer rules specify blue serge jackets, white flannel trousers, white shirts and blue cravats for announcers—and the same outfit with polka dot ties for production men.

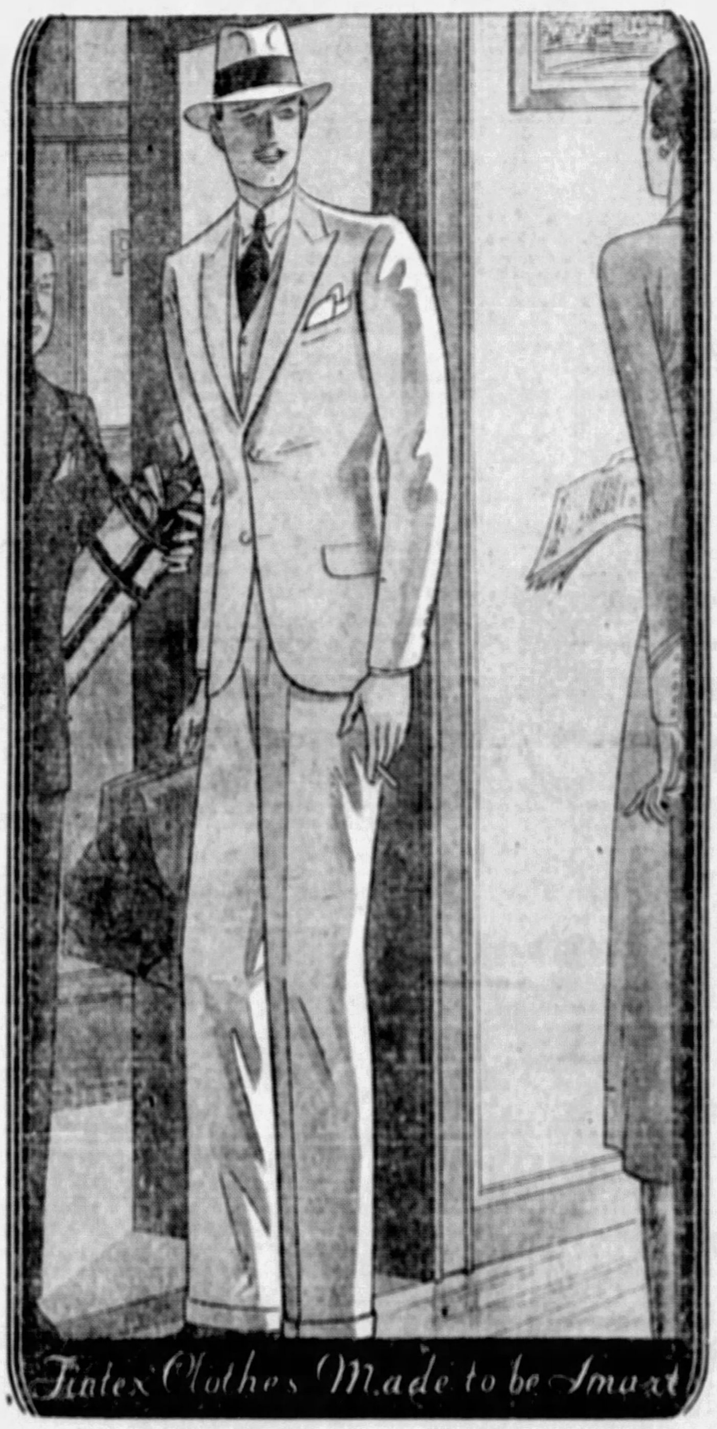
We were thinking of June.



when we created these GRAYS and TANS

WE were thinking of warm days, out-of-door days. We were thinking how difficult it was to combine summer smartness with summer comfort. And we were thinking of the thousands of men who were looking to Fintex to do something about it. ¶ So we created these suits in Gray and Tan. We chose handsome light worsteds, delightful flannels and cool sturdy gabardines. We put an unusual type of workmanship into them—to insure your comfort—to safeguard their smartness. And we tailored them in styles that are the word in our best country clubs. ¶ We've gone far to bring you real summer smartness—and we invite you to choose from a selection that challenges your imagination in variety and distinctiveness.

GIRL UNAFRAID

By GLADYS JOHNSON

Item Printed in the Spy Makes Ken Furious

CHAPTER L.

That night, when Ah Ling had left, Ardeth went to the little alley in the rear of the shop.

The quick winter night had fallen. It was black and cold in here. Tall loft buildings frowned down on two sides. The end of the blind alley was formed by her own little shop.

Ardeth had left the night lamp burning in the rear room and now she pressed her face to the window pane where the paint had worn thin.

Objects in the room were plainly visible through the pink light. Anyone in there would be recognizable to one watching from the alley.

Just so had Cyril Underhill stood peering in, that night Ken had come down here, broken and lonely. He had watched that impassioned scene. He had seen Ken leave in the early morning hours.

The girl closed her eyes for a moment and shivered.

The thought was like a snake coiled in her path. She repainted the window panes. She hung heavy curtains before it and drew them close at night. But she could not draw a curtain over that disquieting knowledge in her own mind.

The venomous attack left her painfully self-conscious. She dreaded attending to the store the next day. She flushed when ever a customer glanced at her. Something of defiant courage gone from her. She tried to gain it back by lashing herself with self-scorn.

She had told Tom that she was unafraid. Had told that to Mary, and here she was, in panic at the first thrust of a coward's sword.

Ken Angered

She looked at her own white reflection in the mirror with disdainful eyes. That was right—let a lie make her look guilty! Was that the sort of thing her pride was fashioned of?

At four, the next afternoon, the phone rang. She found herself mute and trembling at the sound of Ken's voice.

"Ardeth—have you seen this week's Spy? That thing—about us?"

Without waiting for her reply he went on in hot rage, "God, what a rotten thing! If I could get my hands on that beast . . . whoever it is? Don't you care, sweetheart! Everyone who knows you will know it's just another of the dirty lies. I'm going down to the printer. I'll find out who that sneak is and he'll print a retraction on the front page or I'll twist his head off!"

She had suddenly galvanized into life. She was clinging to the phone saying in a frantic voice, "No, NO, Ken! Listen to me—you mustn't do that! Don't you see—it would only make more talk. It would get in the daily papers—it will be dreadful! Oh, don't you see?"

"Ardeth, do you know who the Spy is?" Ken's tone was grim.

Asks Forgiveness

She shook her head violently, as though he could see her. Shook it until the hair flapped against her face.

"No! Of course not! But you mustn't try to find out! Can't you see—to take notice of it would show that we recognized ourselves. Even Ah Ling saw that . . . she said that . . ."

"But I'm not going to let some sneak get away with that! I'm going to find out somehow and when I do—"

"Ken! Ken!" she was imploring now, "you must listen to me. Please—please! Don't you see, you can't get him for what he wrote. Not legally. He said you left here late. It's true. He can prove it. And if you fight him—why it will just set people to talking. They'll think what they please, anyway. Don't you see, dear?"

She was crying in her earnestness.

The man was still for a moment, only singing emptiness coming over the wire to her. When he spoke again the fire had gone from his voice—he sounded very tired.

"But to have to sit helpless while some one stabs us in the back . . ."

"It's the only thing we can do with safety!"

Another long moment, and when he spoke again his voice was beaten.

"Whatever I do seems to hurt you, Ardeth. I just bring you trouble and unhappiness. It's like the old idea of Greek tragedy. No matter how well intentioned a fellow may be — no matter how he may struggle to go in one direction, he's predestined to go the other way. I'm sorry, Ardeth. It's all I can say. I shouldn't have come that night. A rotten thing to do . . . to get you into my own mess. Forgive me."

Visits Mary

"Oh—of course! Of course!" She was crying.

"Well . . . Goodby. I want to see you, of course, but it's too dangerous. But I had to talk to you. Goodby, sweetheart."

"Ken!" she cried. But the click on the wire told her that he had hung up.

She replaced the receiver. Looked about the room with vacant eyes as one coming out of a daze. Fortunately, there was no one in here.

She went swiftly to the rear room. Washed her hot face. Patted it with the powder puff. She found herself wondering how Ken had discovered the article.

She was not to find out the answer to that until she went out to see Mary Eastwood later in the week.

Fred was out of town on business and Ardeth and Mary had a light and early dinner with the Chickadee in the nursery. It was not until they had returned to the living room—the violently protesting Chickadee having been put to bed—that Ardeth found an opportunity to open the subject.

"You saw The Spy for this week, Mary?"

Cecile Gets Copy

"I was wondering when you were going to come to that, Ard. Oh, yes, be sure your good friends discussed it plenty! Phyllis Hawkins and Maida Duvant had a copy when I saw them down at the hairdresser's—the same woman marcels us, you know. Though I will say for Phil that she was pretty indignant. Once she had her own toes stepped on in the same way and it knocked a lot of charity into her."

Ardeth's voice trembled. "It was a cowardly thing! But in a way it's true, Mary. Not of course the way it tried to make out—but—but—Ken did come down . . ." She told of that visit and Mary listened, the firelight glowing on her steady black eyes.

"Indiscreet but darned human," was Mary's comment at the end of the recital. "Of course it was Cecile told Ken about it. She reads the miserable paper every week, you know."

Ardeth's face went cold. "You think that—that she saw it?"

"As if I'd been there! And Lord what a beautiful rave she must have pulled!" breathed Mary fervently.

Imaginary Love Is Often Cause of 'Broken Heart,' Fay King Warns

By FAY KING

Very often the "broken heart" trouble which makes a girl so miserable and unhappy is more a matter of her imagination than her heart.

She meets a young man who probably reminds her of some movie favorite. She immediately begins weaving him into her dreams of romance.

She over-emphasizes his every word into a greater expression of admiration and devotion than he intends it to be.

A postal card from him, bearing the most casual message, is read between the lines until she is convinced that it is a suppressed expression of undying love.

Later letters wound her because they say so little.

She grieves because her great love has come to an untimely end.

It never existed except in her romantic imagination.

Mary Tries Hard to Be Nonchalant and Brave

I took a step after Mary's rapidly retreating figure, then realized that I could not go to her until I had delivered Noel's tray to Katherine. My little kinswoman herself stood in the doorway, as I turned back to it, and reached out her hands for the tray with a cheery comment, pitched loud enough to be heard by her patient, and, I surmised, to camouflage Mary's exit.

"Just look at the eats!" she apostrophized. "Tea and toast and jam and hot milk 'n' everything. There's the perfect hostess for you! I certainly shall send a photograph of you—and the tray—to a woman's magazine. Will you haul Mary back here to share this? She went to her own room to powder her nose and fix up her hair. But tell her the primping can wait until she has a cup of tea."

I caught her cue and in returning added an extra flourish.

"If she's already taken her hair down," I said, "I'll come back and carry a cup of tea over to her."

"That will be sweet of you," she returned. "But if you hurry, perhaps you can catch her in time."

As clearly as if we had spoken the words, our mental interchange ran thus:

Katherine: "I want to keep Noel from suspecting Mary is upset. Get her back if you can."

I: "She was crying. I may not be able to get her in shape to come back. If not, I'll be as plausible as I can about her absence."

Katherine: "Good, but bring her back if you possibly can manage it."

I turned away with a comprehending little nod and going down the hall to Mary's room knocked lightly at her door. A faltering "Come in" greeted me, and I opened the door to see Mary standing in the center of the room, her head thrown back and her hands clenched at her sides as if she were finishing a sprint. The traces of tears were still upon her cheeks, but none in her eyes, and there was no sound of sobbing, although she was breathing rapidly. Palpably she was putting up the best fight she could against the emotional breakdown and with no pretense of ignoring it. I carefully kept all sympathy out of my voice, and spoke in the same cheery encouraging tone I would have used toward an athlete competing in a difficult event.

"Bravo! Mary!" I said. "I'm counting on you. Sit down and let me do your hair for you. Aunt Katherine wants you to come back into the room for your tea."

I'll go back to Noel's room, now, Aunty Madge. And sometime I'll thank you properly. If I should tell you what I think of you now, I—I—couldn't go back. But—will you go with me?"

"Of course," I told her, debating the advisability of warning her to look cheerful, and then put it aside when I noticed the spring in her step and the sparkle in her eyes as she approached Noel's room.

"If you've eaten all the jam!" she threatened him laughingly. "Auntie Madge says she brought up enough for a regular party."

"Don't let her bully you, Noel," I said. "There's a big reserve supply in the kitchen, and nothing could make me happier than to see you clean up everything in sight."

"Well! It wouldn't make me happier," Mary declared, wrinkling her nose at Noel and spreading a tiny piece of toast with jam. "I'm simply ravenous, a regular coyote, and you can bring on your reserve supply for Noel if he wants it. 'Me,' as Katie says, 'I'm goin' be vun leetle peeg.'"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, June 7

A very active and intriguing day is the augury based on the mutations of important planets. While Jupiter is in trine aspect with Luna, promising increase and fertility of business affairs, with fruition of the best hopes and wishes, yet domestic, social or romantic associations may have some peculiar or irregular slant. It would be wise to keep firm control over the conduct, refraining from impetuosity and rashness, the position of Mars stirring up turbulence and vexation.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of fulfilled ambitions, with increase and progress in business. But there is need for husbanding the resources and refraining from precipitant actions or hasty investments.

A child born on this day should be active, resourceful and energetic, and should tenaciously follow its ambitions. It may be disposed to financial recklessness or gaming.

Household Hints

Here is suggestion that mothers will appreciate. When buttons are torn off of clothes so that a bit of the cloth is torn away, find a button on some outworn garment and cut it off, leaving an inch square of the cloth attached. Slip the button through the hole in the garment to be mended. Turn in the edges of the square on the wrong side and sew to the garment. Run a few stitches close to the button, and you will have a much more substantial mend than you would have by simply attaching another button over the darned hole.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Love, the 'Carrot'

"Love is the carrot," remarks Coningsby Dawson, "by which man, the donkey, is induced to forsake the field for the stable."

This sounds like only a cynical epigram; but, it is rapidly becoming the secret attitude of most men of today toward marriage. And, there's a reason!

After all, why should a man who lives in California go to Florida for a change? Why SHOULD a man marry, so long as women put a premium on bachelorhood?

Of course, every man ought to marry. There is nobody on earth — not even a spinster — quite so lonely and disillusioned as an old bachelor when the wine of life is on the lees.

But no gay YOUNG bachelor can look far enough ahead to see the morning-after headache—or the heartache of the lonely years. He sees only that life for him is one long glorious love-feast, whoopee-and-petting party, with a constant change of partners—so long as he can dodge marriage. That is why he keeps his fingers crossed.

Why should he concentrate his heart, his time, his money and his kisses on any one woman, so long as he is encouraged to broadcast them?

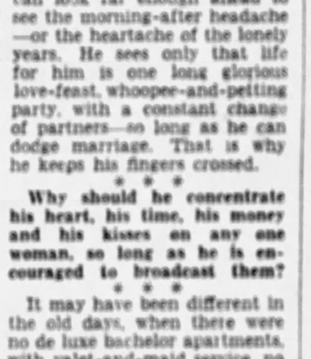
It may have been different in the old days, when there were no de luxe bachelor apartments, with valet-and-maid service, no petting parties, and no really desirable girl could be kissed without effort.



But—NOW! Why should a man choose any one woman to "brighten his life," when ALL the women are trying so desperately to make it one long summer holiday with the sunshine of their smiles?

Why should a man who can loll around on a different girl's piazza every evening and be petted and waited on, yearn for the privilege of sitting around the SAME house, every evening, to be told to go out and mow the lawn or run down and bank the furnace?

Why should a man, for whose attention so many women are frankly and unblushingly struggling, not feel that it would be "cruel" for him to waste ALL of his kisses and affections on any one woman?

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

All bending exercises tend to taper the waist, to lessen breadth of hips. Scatter the contents of the button box over the floor. Pick up the buttons, one by one. Each time stand erect, lift up on the toes, come down on the heels, bend at the waistline, keeping the legs rigid. Too much sitting or not enough walking puts flesh on the body, let muscles go slack, adds to circumference.

Toenails should be cut straight across. Cutting down at the sides thickens the surrounding tissues that form hard pads under the nails and in time causes discomfort. Clipping the cuticle at sides or base of nail makes it heavy. The less toenails are tampered with, the better. With shoes properly fitted they should kick up no trouble at all.

Dentists tell you now to shimmy the toothbrush when cleaning teeth. Place the bristles upward against the gums, shimmy gently, then bring downward with a rolling motion, so that the bristles travel along between the teeth. Massage the gums gently once a day.

THE OFFICE WIFE

agency shortly before her marriage. She had carried on successfully, dividing her personality with but little effort, it seemed, between the office and her home. Then had come an enforced period of absence from her desk before and after the birth of her boy.

During that time she had worked at home, driving herself savagely when her body rebelled. Then she had returned to the agency, leaving the child with a competent nurse.

But Frank Howard had not long held his position with an insurance company. His lungs had been weakened and scarred by mustard gas. He was now up at Saranac for indefinite time.

Betty murmured: Mrs. Holmes—that's the nurse—was to telephone if——"

"You'll be home pretty soon," Anne reminded her hastily. She could not bear the dreadful implication in that if—if!

A young man, tall, built like a greyhound, but with frankly red hair and merry eyes, passed by, a sheaf of papers in his hand. Seeing Anne, he paused and smiled, gayly yet with a sort of hungry appeal.

"Remember—8 o'clock!" he reminded her and went on his way, whistling softly.

Anne looked after him thoughtfully.

"You see a good deal of Ted O'Hara, don't you?" asked Betty, with the pardonable curiosity of a good friend.

Eaton's Secretary Odd

"Considerably. We go out, or he comes to the house. Mother's crazy about him." Anne laughed and her small pointed face with its vivid coloring lighted up with sheer mischief. "Her people and his hailed from the same county back in the old country. They have a grand time together. I think they get along because they're both red-headed and neither can put anything over on the other."

"You're not far from red-headed yourself. Well, he's a nice boy," commented Betty, "and he'll go far in his job."

Her own disaster uppermost in her mind, she warned, almost involuntarily: "Don't—don't be hasty, Anne!"

"Not me!" Anne answered. "I like my job so well. I'm too ambitious—too darned ambitious, I guess," she said ruefully, with her lovable trick of catching herself up, laughing at her own earnestness. She turned, touched Betty's hand a moment. "I must get back. The chief's with Mr. Sanders. He asked me to take a letter later. Andrews has gone home."

"What's wrong?" Betty wanted to know. "I saw her—she came into the lavatory to wash her face. That's all she ever does to it, poor soul. Her eyes were red and she looked all shot."

Anne shook her bright head, ruddy gold in the sun, pale gold in the shadow. "I don't know. I see her sometimes, you know. I occasionally eat dinner with her; she lives alone on West 10th street. She's an odd woman. And she eats, sleeps and breathes the office."

When she had gone, with her heart-warming smile, Mrs. Howard returned to her work. She had liked the younger girl ever since their first meeting in Mrs. Howard's own department. Anne was so pretty, so vital, so friendly, with a warm, giving, genuine sort of friendliness, and an excellent brain functioned under her clipped lovely hair.

Ted in Love

She had worked up well, thoroughly, not too quickly. Her present job was a good one. Forty dollars a week. Betty estimated. Forty dollars a week for a girl with no responsibilities was an excellent salary.

Mrs. Howard glanced at her watch. No news was good news.

Ted O'Hara passed her desk en route to Sanders' office, probably to get another glimpse of Anne. He'd been fathoms deep in love with her since the day he'd first set eyes on her. No one could blame him, mused Mrs. Howard, but a girl was a blind and gallant fool to marry.

Still, if she herself hadn't married she wouldn't have had Billy — Billy and his father, those dear obstacles to the fulfilment of her once ambitious dream.

With an impatient sigh she turned back to her desk. But her mind was not on the work.

If Andrews were let out, thought Betty fleetingly, would that mean that Anne might be a logical candidate for the position?

Anne was with Eaton now, in his office. She waited while he attended to a message that had been brought in and, waiting, looked about the room with an appreciation which never failed, no matter how often she saw it. In the last six months she had come almost daily to Miss Andrews' office, bringing memoranda from Sanders to Eaton, and always had looked longingly through the door between, and—once or twice, when Eaton was not there, she had gone in.

Likes Eaton's Office

Now she could study the room. It has such beauty, she thought. She could spend a year here and never see enough of it. She loved beauty intuitively and wistfully, and it had not much entered into her life. Her own home was comforable. It was glaringly modern in the employment of electric lights, shining radio and phonograph and lurid chintzes. But it had no magic.

When beauty reached her it did so through the pages of magazines and books, through an occasional play or motion picture, through eventful trips into the country—country that was not merely half city; stretches of beach and sea which did not border on asphalt pavements. And now, touching her life more closely, had come these glimpses into Eaton's quiet office with its suggestion of money spent for loveliness.

Now Eaton spoke to her in that dangerously magnetic voice, handing her Miss Andrew's notes. "Do you think you can read these, Miss Murdock?" he asked. "Or shall I start over again?"

Anne looked at the pothooks with accustomed eyes. "Yes, I think I can manage, Mr. Eaton. Will you take up your dictation where you left off?"

Eaton flashed her an appreciatives mile. It was rather rare to find a girl who could read another secretary's notes, he thought. And thought, too, as he dictated smoothly, that it was even rarer—and amazingly pleasant—to be working with so pretty and young a person. His terse, crisp phrases continuing evenly, he saw how easily Anne's pencil kept pace with them.

Well, Janet Andrews had been a good worker, too, but she'd certainly lacked charm. Somehow, the whole room seemed to settle into a becoming and suitable background for the small girl with the red-gold hair and the pointed, ardent face whose crossed legs and short skirts revealed delightful silken knees.

"Thank you," he said, as she rose to go. "Can you get it out at once for me? Special delivery. You might, if Mr. Sanders doesn't need you immediately, use Miss Andrews' office."

A moment later Anne had settled herself at Janet's orderly desk. The small room was pleasant and well furnished. It had about it a certain air of prestige. Andrews' name was on the outer door in discreet letters: Secretary to the President. * *

A little later Anne laid the letter on Eaton's desk. He read it through, commented on her speed and accuracy, signed it, and as she turned to go, asked on a sudden impulse:

Anne's Opportunity

"Shall you be busy this evening, Miss Murdock?"

She thought of her engagement with O'Hara, answered immediately: No, Mr. Eaton."

"Miss Andrews' illness leaves me in rather a hole," he confided ruefully: "I'll arrange things with Mr. Sanders if you can stay and help me for an hour or two."

He looked up at her swiftly. Her face did not change as he asked his question, but her breast rose perceptibly with an increased pace in her breathing.

"I'd be glad to, Mr. Eaton," she replied quietly.

She went back into Andrews' office and straightened the letter paper and carbons mechanically. Glad! What an inadequate, almost fatuous word! Her heart was pounding. To work with the chief, after three years of hoping and planning for such an opportunity! And to work with him through the quiet evening hours, the office hum silent, the lamplight shining on the big desk, shut in with beauty, beauty reflected from paneled walls, beauty in drawn draperies and opening roses.

Looks for Chance

To work—with the chief!

Well, why shouldn't she—permanently? Since her coming into his business she had planned every step to reach this particular goal. Had cultivated the uninspiring friendship of Janet Andrews; uninspiring, that is in itself. Had learned the man's secretarial requirements, and his personal needs as well.

It was on the cards that Andrews would go some day and Anne had prepared herself to fill that hypothetical vacant place. She had no feeling that in studying Eaton's demands through the unconscious medium of Miss Andrews she was doing anything unethical. If her chance came to her, why shouldn't she take it? She was younger than Andrews; she was well equipped; she was infinitely better-looking.

People said that appearance, personality didn't count. But Anne knew better, and she was honest about it—with herself. Larry Eaton was a man, as other men. And a woman in business had need of every weapon she could employ to hold her job, and the man who controlled the job. Well, if she got this job, thought Anne, she'd hold it!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Correct Diet Faults During Childhood

Proper nutrition is the most important problem confronting the young mother. It means a constant battle to carry out a program that shall assure nutrition for the normal growth and development of her child.

DR. COPELAND

Unless a child learns the h. bit of eating properly very early in life, it may mean that he will be weakly, sickly, flat-chested and undernourished generally. But this is not all, for all sorts of troubles are apt to go with them—poor teeth, poor eyesight, catarrh, colds, and a low resistance to disease.

Every mother should inform herself about food values and all the simple rules of hygiene which have to do with the health of a young child. Study a good book on the care of a child. There are myriads of them. Consult your family doctor about the best combinations of foods for your child and follow his directions.

Up to the time for weaning a child, about a year old, the diet will have been carefully directed. Before the teeth are formed, the child can be given cereals, properly cooked and strained, so that no indigestible hard lumps or even small particles are left in it.

After weaning, a child should still have plenty of milk to drink, but the amount will be reduced somewhat to afford an appetite for some of the solid foods. Cereals with whole milk, several varieties of strained vegetables and fruits may be given.

Cream soups and strained vegetable soups are excellent. Lamb, beef and chicken broth with rice or tapioca are excellent for the child's luncheon.

Introduce all the new foods gradually and in very small amounts. Follow your doctor's orders as to what these foods shall be.

Most children from the time they are a few weeks old are given orange and tomato juice. The child up to two years should follow this rule.

HOLLYWOOD AND BROADWAY GOSSIP; ALSO REVIEW OF NEW FILM

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Man About Town

Answers, the London mag, was never so comical as it was in its May 17 number, when it attempted to translate American slang for its subscribers. "We must learn American," headlined Answers, "if we want to understand some of the talking films." Then it proceeded with its definitions in this manner:

"A yeggman is a certain class of crook who specializes in blowing open safes with nitro-glycerine; not to be confused, however, with a 'butter and egg man,' which indicates a person easy to swindle."

And they hang pictures!

London, however, understands what "to make whoopee" means. It means, says Answers correctly enough, "to have a gay time." But it stumbles on "Wop" and "dump" in this manner: "A 'wop' is an Italian; a 'dump' is a burgh or 'town,' thus 'A wop dump' is a township mainly inhabited by Italians."

And they shoot scenes!

"A 'sugar daddy,'" continues Answers, "is a man who gives a young lady expensive presents. The young lady thus treated is known as a 'gold digger.' 'To spiel' is to cheat anyone in a game."

And they bury the past!

"A 'guy,'" says Answers, "is anybody of the human species and masculine gender." . . . "To 'razz' anybody is to tell them off . . . To take anyone 'for a ride' is to murder anyone with the chances of detection reduced to a minimum. A variation of this method of procedure in relation to gang warfare is to put the victim 'on the spot.' This means that he is decoyed by confederates of the actual assassins to a rendezvous previously agreed upon between them, and shot down from ambush!"

And they punch tickets! And choke carburetors!

Sights and sounds along the Stem at Sunup: The big spender of last year who bought wines and other goodies in the night clubs—until the stock market tottered. There he is alone in the corner sipping tea and envying the fools who've taken the spotlight from him . . . Another "big" spender, this time, and the first time in a night club with his own wife . . . He appears so bored . . . "He won't give away any thousand dollar bills tonight," groans one of the entertainers . . . The "sport" from Pittsburgh money circles braving the titters in his tuxedo and long black cravat.

Of course she isn't . . . On the way out her escort pushes a heavy-hitter out of his way, sans an apology, and is floored with one terrific blow. . . . There goes Sigmund Romberg, the composer, who will receive $1,000,000 from the Warner Brothers for four pictures . . . And the Street was excited only the day before because Amos 'n' Andy are to get $80,000 weekly for six weeks to make a talkie. And the Warners agreed to pay the broadcasting group an additional $15,000 weekly for wire service, as the hookup will have to be in Los Angeles, instead of Chicago.

The fading ingenue who once filled the first two rows with admirers when she was a Ziegfeld folly . . . The famous millionaire who frequently hurled parties in her honor, at which diamond bracelets were given to the ladies as favors . . . In her prime, she owned three houses. Then the escalator broke and she slipped. . . . She's 40, they say, but she never whines about her luck . . . She now officiates as an assistant hostess in a West 58th Street late spot.

If it is a small bill, say, for $10 or $20, the crook goes in person to the gas company or whatever firm it is, and pays the bill with a spurious check made out in the debtor's name . . . "Mrs. Colby sent me to pay her bill," he says, "take it out of this, please." . . . The check is made out for, let's say, $15, and if "Mrs. Colby's bill is $10, the thief makes five bucks profit . . . Not much, of course, but five dollars here and five dollars there, you know.

The ex-nurse whose employer-doctor fell in love with her, and gowned her in the smartest frocks . . . No matter how crowded the most exclusive gay places were, when they ankled in, the management placed a table on the floor for them . . . Orchids, jewels, ermines and the other doodads . . . Then something happened. It invariably does . . . She now wears nothing but beads for trunks in a night club revusical, and chorines for $50 per . . . The doctor and his new "heart" are steady patrons of the place.

"Doesn't it drive you mad, seeing him with another girl?" someone asked the jilted one . . . "I guess it does," she said . . . "But sometimes when he takes her home, he comes back and asks me to go out with him" . . . "And," asks the startled questioner, "do you?" . . . "Uh, huh," she replies, and droops her head.

Speaking of nurses reminds us that the letter from the unnamed Cleveland nurse here last week has aroused the Carnegie Hospital there and the nurses have been scolded by the executives. . . . It is our fault, and we are very sorry . . . The nurse, we should have said, was not from the Carnegie Hospital, but from a hospital on Carnegie Avenue.

The Morning's Mail:

"Dear Mr. Winchell. I have just finished reading your column; the nurse's letter and your answer. Both have given me an insight into two humans, not just clay masks and affected movements for outward appearances, but of the real person down underneath, each with their own idiosyncrasies, griefs and hopes. To me, it was the rubbing of the stained glass on the outside, to peer into something beautiful and sacred.

"I, as an individual, and also 'one of the mob who read your drivel,' am a bit different in one respect. I do not envy your position, not at all! But heartily sympathize and admire your alertness, which you need to forever be on the job. Always in search of something to interest the other fellow, wisecracks, quips, anecdotes, etc., listening to a lot of slush and nonsense from people who think they are somebodies and who you know aren't. Hearing countless stupid, trite, colorless jokes every day, and mingling with people who fawn over you, because you have power to aid them or make them appear ridiculous, but who wouldn't notice you if you needed a break.

"You wonder why people are interested in Broadway columns? Did it ever occur to you that if they had a columnist writing up the antics of the insane they would be just as interested? At any rate, good wishes, and whether you will be going up the ladder or sliding down it, here is one of the mob who reads your 'drivel' who won't forget.—May Barmack, Bronx."

THEY MARRY IN FIRST REEL ON SCREEN IN STANLEY

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Young Man of Manhattan," pleasant and entertaining screen romance, opened yesterday in the Stanley. Its plot is laid against the background of newspaper life. But it is not the habitual movie conception of newspaper life. And this is said in spite of the fact that the familiar drunken reporter, in the person of Charles Ruggles, is present as usual-quenching his thirst or else creating it by eating peanuts.

There is no frenzied city editor. There are no copy boys running wild. In fact, there are no scenes in the newspaper office. However, it has newspaper atmosphere. There are flashes of the news trail at football and baseball games, at prize fights and bicycle races. And there is the novel—dream of many newspaper men—to be written.

GOOD OLD RAINBOW

The picture, based on Katharine Brush's magazine story, details the romance between a sports writer and a girl who writes about the movies. It is love at first sight for them as they meet in a downpour of rain and before the first reel is over they are married. And for about five more reels they are bounced about on a frowning sea of matrimony. But good old Rainbow shows up at the finale.

The picture is well directed and the cast gives us newspaper people that are sincerely drawn. Claudette Colbert is the heroine. Norman Foster is there as the hero. The other prominent players are the aforementioned Mr. Ruggles and Ginger Rogers, a dimpled blonde, who sings about having "it," but "it" doesn't do her any good.

A BIG FELLOW

Dick Powell's stage show is titled "Summer Follies." The big feature—and you can take "big" literally—is the rotund Larry Rich. They say he's a comedian! Speciality dancers and a fellow with a harmonica are prominent. Also some of the old Enright and Stanley Rockets emerge as the Warner Rockets and do some rocketing.

Bernie Armstrong wears a midshipman's cap and plays the organ.

Eddie Cantor on Location Making "Whoopee" Into Movie

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.

Eddie Cantor and the principals of his "Whoopee" company, now in its sixth week of production as the inaugural effort of the new Goldwyn-Ziegfield combine, left Hollywood for the Sequoia National Park, in California, to put in two day's work on location. Cantor and Eleanor Hunt were to do the famous automobile breakdown scene in front of a natural background of majestic redwoods.

Although only six persons appear in the scene, 74 persons made up the party. This includes Mr. Goldwyn and Mr. Ziegfeld, Director Thornton Freeland, a dozen color cameramen, electricians, an orchestra and three art directors. Mr. Goldwyn points out that even in one of nature's greatest beauty spots, motion pictures require a trained eye to compose the screen pictures, and electricians to light them.

Eddie Cantor

Later, Cantor and his fellow-players in "Whoopee" are expected to make the "Invocation of the Gods" scene on location, probably in the San Bernardino mountains, but possibly in the Grand Canyon or Zion National Park.

AS VENGEFUL WIFE

Bebe Daniels is seen in an entirely new role in Radio Pictures' "Lawful Larceny." From the underworld character she played in "Alias French Gertie" and the singing Southern beauty she portrayed in the operetta, "Dixiana," she undergoes a complete transition and plays a vengeful wif in "Lawful Larceny."

Ted Healy and Bebe Daniels.

His Clowns, including the Howard Brothers, Larry Fine and Freddie Sanborn, have arrived in Hollywood under contract to Fox Films and will make their first audible screen appearance in "Soup to Nuts," a screen story by Rube Goldberg.

TOGETHER AGAIN

Although Bryant Washburn and George Fawcett have both been in motion pictures more than 10 years, they never played in a production together until Washburn was cast as the heavy and Fawcett as the old circus owner in "Swing High," Pathe's musical circus romance, featuring Helen Twelvetrees and Fred Scott.

The occasion brought to Washburn's mind the fact that Mr. Fawcett was the star of the first stage production in which he ever appeared. It was "The Great John Ganton." Washburn played a super, but it was called a "walking gentleman" in those days.

STUDIO OCEAN

Warner Brothers own an ocean, two lakes, one river and unnumbered small pools.

Scattered about on the four major properties of the company in and about Hollywood is every known kind of water location from the Bay of Naples to the swimming hole in Muddy creek, where Herbert Hoover bathed as a boy in Iowa.

Any studio with a pretentious program of production must be so equipped—or able to rent such locations from other companies. These Warner waters properties are mapped and photographed and are frequently used by other companies when plans call for locations they can't find on their own properties.

Largest of these is the great dyked lake on the auxiliary Burbank plant, next to the Warner ranch. Here some 20 acres are kept under water varying from six inches to six feet in depth with enormous painted panoramas as a background. The water scenes of "See Naples and Die" are being made there.

Wind machines whip this body of water into a miniature ocean with white-caps, tides and mighty combers.

Sophie Tucker Gets Dells' Engagement

Sophie Tucker, songstress, is to open a week's engagement Saturday night in the Dells, Wildwood. This will be Miss Tucker's first local appearance at an entertainment center other than the stage.

If you read the Classified Rental Ads and use the telephone before you start looking for a place you will save hours of fruitless searching and many disappointments.

MERCER WORKS IMPROVED

SHARON, Pa., June 6.—Improvements costing nearly $2,000,000, in progress for more than two years, have been completed at the Mercer Works of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company. The plant is now one of the most modern sheet mills in the country.

Included in the improvements is an addition of 160 feet to the annealing furnaces, four mechanical gas producers which replace the old hand fired producers, a four-high cold roll for full finish sheet, a 72-inch three high roll mill for wide sheet, a 150-foot extension to the waterroom and an added storehouse 180 by 108 feet.

Heat Wave Kills 4 In New York Area

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP.)—Heat, which pushed the mercury to 90 degrees, took the lives of two men and prostrated four. There were four deaths attributed to the heat in the metropolitan area yesterday, a day of 90-degree heat.

Vet of Sherman's March to Sea Weds 3rd Wife

KANSAS CITY, Kan., June 6 (AP.)—John Wesley Herring, 86, Civil War veteran, matched with Sherman to the sea only once, but last night he matched to the altar with his third bride, Mrs. Josephine Slagel, 69.

Herring's first wife died several years ago. His second marriage ended in divorce. The couple expect to make their home at Welborn, Kan.

MASKED BANDIT STEALS GEMS

CHICAGO, June 6.—(INS.)—Police today searched for a masked bandit who last night climbed through a window of the home of Charles T. Byrne, wealthy steel manufacturer, scooped up $7,000 worth of jewelry and $45 in cash and escaped.

Rousing Joseph H. Prior, Mrs. Byrne's brother, the bandit forced him at the point of his revolver to lead the way to Mrs. Byrne's room, where the robber seized the jewelry, two platinum and diamond rings and two bar pins.

Miss Mary Corbett, a guest, saved a $2,000 diamond ring by putting it in her mouth.

REPUBLIC GETS BIG PIPE ORDER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 6.—The Republic Steel Corporation has received an order from Phillips Petroleum Company for 800 miles of 50,000 feet of eight-inch pipe, totalling $2,000,000 in value.

The pipe will be used for a gasoline-carrying line to extend from Texas to Wichita, Kansas City, St. Louis and intermediate points, and will be one of the longest of its kind in the country. The tubing will be manufactured by Republic in its new electric welding mill, to be placed in operation this month.

85 Used Cars Must Go!
Liquidation Sale
PENN BUICK IS OUT OF BUSINESS

Prices on the entire stock of used cars have been cut far below the market average. These cars must be sold at once in order to complete the liquidation of Penn Buick. Certainly, Pittsburgh never had an opportunity to buy dependable automobiles at anything like these bargain prices before. We will accept your present car in trade. You may purchase any car with a small down payment and defer the balance over a long period.

DAILY TRUE STORY

This story starts where a great many leave off—with a marriage.

However, all romance doesn't end with marriage and a great many things happen after marriage.

Fred Hixon was a mighty likeable chap.

Stell Butler thought so. She was so sure of it that she married him.

Fred had a real estate business. He was popular and belonged to a number of clubs and managed to make his business pay quite a decent [illegible].

Stell's people had [illegible] very enthusiastic about the match.

"Fred's all right—[illegible]," her father said. "But [illegible]."

"Who doesn't?" Stell demanded.

"I mean he's too popular. He has so many friends [illegible] thinks he ought to drink with all of them—it will get [illegible]."

Stell discussed it with Fred just before they were married.

"Your father's a good guy, Stell," Fred declared. "He doesn't understand [illegible]. Now, I've got hundreds of friends, residual guys [illegible] millionaires and not pathfinders. They've got jobs or business and they are steady and looking ahead. I have sold in the last five years over a hundred lots to these sort of friends of mine."

"Yes, but Fred, what's [illegible] to do with drinking?"

"Heaps. My little dollybirds, heaps. I made these friends by being jovial. Sometimes at lodge meetings sometimes at lodges and often at speakeasies. I'd treat and they'd treat. We would tell stories over a few rounds, discuss business and call a spade a spade and get to be real friends. When the time came for them to think of a home they thought of me."

"Yes, I see. Fred, but Father says it will grow on you, that it will [illegible] you, make you forget your business."

Talks With Father

"Father is a good guy, but he's back in the Rutherford B. Hayes days, in regard to business methods. We have to mix, we have to be a good sports, right sort of guy to make friends and be johnny-on-the-spot to garner in the coin."

"I thought I'd tell you, I'm going to marry you, and I told father so, but I wish you'd explain."

"I have, honey-bunch."

"To him?"

"Sure."

So the next time Fred dropped around he got to talking to Mr. Butler, he told of some new sales.

"I cleaned up three grand on that one sale—just because I knew Peterson and he knew and trusted me," Fred said.

"Three grand what?" asked Mr. Butler.

Stell giggled as Fred shot her a tiny wink.

"A grand," he said, "means a thousand dollars."

"Well, for mighty sake, why not say so?"

"The way I met Peterson was over to Mike's place."

"Mike who?"

"Lordy, I don't know," Fred confessed after he made sure his sweetie's Old Man wasn't kidding him. "We call him Mike, he runs a place back of a tailor shop near my office."

"Oh, you mean he sells liquor?"

"And how. Peterson and I used to toss down a few and chat and when he got ready to invest he thought of me. If I had been a grouchy temperance crank I'd never met him, never got the sale, never cleaned up three grand—meaning thousand—so easily."

"I suppose so. I thought real estate men sat in their offices and waited for buyers."

"In the days of that noted real estate agent, George Washington, perhaps, not now."

"Washington," said Papa Butler, sternly, "was a soldier and a statesman."

"Yea, I've heard he was, but he also opened up a nifty real estate office in Alexandria and made a lot of coin. Today we have to go after business, have to make friends, be jovial, crook an elbow now and then and spin a yarn."

"I suppose so—but it will get you in time, son—it will knock you, and I don't want Stell to make any mistake, marriage is a serious thing, you know," and so on and on, for 10 minutes, whereupon Fred Hixon shook hands and agreed thoroughly.

Kept Forgetting It

"Only you got me wrong—I happen to be one of those wise birds who can drink or let it alone!"

"I hope so—and be good to her," Mr. Butler said.

Fred was good to her, mighty good to her.

He continued to thrive and he put in a branch office. His circle of friends increased and so did his acquaintance with speakeasies.

Now and then he would come home late and plainly jingled.

"Oh Freddy, you've been drinking too much," Stell would say.

"Li'l honey-bunch, you got it wrong, man can't drink too much. This was business, lotta big business, got a customer lined up for the Levi block—clean ten grand myself, get you a car a block long—nice dinner, honey, nice dinner you served."

Then he would go to bed.

It was no joke to Stell that she had served him no dinner at all that night.

It was amazing how many friends Fred collected. Some would drop in for a chat and suggest the nearest speakeasy. It kept Fred decidedly busy.

More and more often his assistants failed to close deals because they lacked the selling force, and Fred was out with friends, crooking his elbow and telling the latest ones.

His business dropped off the [illegible]

Wife Leaves

"Sure some cute little Hixons running around the yard."

What's the use? You wouldn't stay sober long enough to get acquainted with them."

I've been serious for a year," Stell would declare with more truth than he realized.

She went to him one day imploringly.

"Freddie, you'll have to stop drinking and attend to business. You have cut down on my allowance. I haven't any decent clothes, we owe bills—you must stop drinking."

Listen, Stell, there's just a little slump in the realty market. It will pick up, drinking has nothing to do with it. I tell you."

"You can't stop drinking, that's the truth."

"Who, me? Don't be a silly honey-bunch. I tell you that I'm the sort of a bird who can always take a drink."

"Always," Stell cried bitterly, "always and forever."

"I can always take a drink or let it alone as I see fit."

"Yeah? Well, you stop drinking or I'll quit."

"You wouldn't quit me, honey-bunch."

Stell said nothing more. Two weeks later he came home to an empty house. Not even a note. He waited around until midnight and telephoned to her father.

"Hello, Pop," Fred said, lovingly. "Stell there?"

"Yes, Mister Drink-or-leave-it-alone, Stell is here."

"Ouch," Fred said, with an embarrassed laugh. "Put her on the wire."

There was a pause, then Mr. Butler's voice again.

"She doesn't want to go on the wire, she has nothing to say."

"Click."

That was when he hung up.

For days, for weeks, Fred Hixon remained drunk. He remained very drunk. Now and then he had a hazy idea that there was some real estate business to transact and he would meander around aimlessly and end in another speakeasy.

In a Witch's Peak

One afternoon he found himself in an alley. He saw a "beanery" which reminded him that he hadn't eaten lately. He went in. The place seemed deserted. He ordered hamburger and onions.

Someone came in and sat near him. He squinted solemnly. This newcomer had horns and a long tail.

Someone else sauntered in and began to chat with the devil; this one was a golden-haired angel with white folded wings.

"A queer's hell," muttered Fred.

The queerness had only started. Another one came, a hideous thing with brown legs and an elephant's head. And following was a big bullfrog that walked and laughed like a man.

A scaly sort of a monster carrying a spiked tail over his arm and then a hag of a woman in a witch's peak and a jackass who took off his long ears and placed them on the table.

Very plainly Fred Hixon recognized, in turn, a unicorn, an ibex, an apteryx, a kangaroo with a blue face, a fish that played a mouth organ, little Red Riding Hood, a Chinese dragon and sundry other monsters.

Fred Hixon tossed down a coin and departed before his hamburger and onions were served. He departed hastily. He managed to get out to his deserted home, where he bathed and slept and cleaned house.

For six long weeks he worked re-establishing his business. Then he made a ten-strike and bought a nice car. Sunday he drove around to Pa-in-law Butler's. Stell came out to talk with him.

"Honey-bunch," he said, "I always told you I could drink or leave it alone—you've seen me drink—now watch me leave it alone—for keeps!"

She rode back home with him.

If Fred Hixon had ever gone to see that children's play, "Story-book Land," he would have recognized the devil, angel, fish, elephant, et al. Back of the theater was an alley. In the alley was a beanery. Between matinee and evening many of the players used to drop into the beanery for eats without bothering to get out of their bothersome costumes and difficult make-up.

Let There Be Light In Probe of Primary

Why should there be evasiveness and dark secrecy in conducting the recount of protested primary election returns?

Judge James R. Macfarlane, after looking into the matter of a missing voters' list, containing 532 names, that had accompanied a ballot box in which were 550 votes, is quoted as saying:

"I don't know what you are talking about. I have nothing to say for publication."

The matter, of course, is unfinished and Judge Macfarlane undoubtedly will make such announcement as he deems necessary at the time he considers proper. The public has faith in him. But, meanwhile, the public will wonder why there should be all this secrecy. The public hires its judges, is boss of its elections, pays its servants on election board and judicial bench and certainly has a right to know what they are doing and what is going on about them.

There also has been protest against methods of the recount board and against one member serving on it. That person is a former investigator for the Allegheny County Elections Association, an organization for preserving honesty of elections, which protested against the presence of its former employe on the board.

The recount is being conducted in secret with no one present representing candidates whose rights are at stake. Why cannot things be open and above-board? The public, naturally, thinks that nobody interested fears the light except those who have been dishonest at the polls or their influential friends who may be in a position to shield them. All the public wants is an honest count and there does not have to be secrecy to assure the people that their rights are being upheld.

In fact, darkness is a strong intimation to the public that there is something to conceal.

LET THERE BE LIGHT!

Gang Politics Rioting Disgusting to Public

Another of the numerous disgraceful episodes that frequently have marked the course of gang politics in Pittsburgh is the use of police and police clubs in what appears to have been an effort to control the organization of the Fifth Ward Republican Committee in the interest of Mayor Kline's machine.

"It took a small army of police and considerable mace swinging to do it, but the Fifth Ward has two ward chairmen today."

That is the way a reporter commented on the riot attending the meeting of committeemen of the ward, long loyal politically to James Malone, who was elected chairman of his faction. His election took place outside a schoolhouse held in possession of Mr. Kline's policemen. The Kline candidate was elected by those inside the school.

With such actions is it any wonder that machine politics nauseates the public!

Turkey Today

China Tomorrow

Turkey, progressive, abolishes the Arabic characters in writing and printing; substitutes the Roman alphabet.

Anybody using the old script will be punished in court.

Elderly Turks will shake their heads over this ruling and wonder what Mohammed the Prophet thinks about this imitation of the infidels, from his seat up in the seventh heaven.

When Peter the Great cut off the long beards of his subjects there were similar misgivings among the conservatives in Russia.

Any change is painful to some.

The Turks, freed of the beautiful but impractical Arabic writing, will modernize their country more rapidly now. Our alphabet, clumsy as it is, is still a great time saver compared with the Arabic.

And some time the Chinese will adopt our writing, in place of the several thousand symbols they use now in their books, requiring a lifetime to learn.

H. G. Wells thinks the clumsy Chinese "word signs," as they are called, are the main reason why China is about where she was 5,000 years ago.

When China goes modern, the white races will have something to think about.

Four hundred million yellow people, superior to us in some respects, will change the balance of power in the world.

Our alphabet will hasten that change more than anything else.

It is surprising how much good—or evil—there is in 26 letters.

Martial Music

In Cans.

The Army is experimenting with robot bands. In fact, it already has bought one for Fort Washington, Md., and will purchase others soon for all posts where a full-fledged garrison band is too expensive to keep up.

The device is built into a motor truck. It produces a volume of sound equal to two regular bands. It also plays in perfect time when the truck is in motion.

Fantastic as it may seem, you may expect the idea to be developed still further—with an individual band for each doughboy, carried on the belt along with his canteen and first aid packet. Men fight better to music, but in recent years it has been impracticable to march musicians into action. Now science promises to overcome the difficulty by providing portable sets as easy to transport as a couple of pieces of hardtack or a tin of corned willie.

Battle orders of the future may read something like this:

"Extra ammunition, rations and records will be issued to all units. Attacks will begin at hour H with one round of 'The Stars and Stripes Forever.'"

And some buck private will turn on "I didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier" as the outfit goes over the top.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Going Scold and Gray

We know that Lady Astor was born in America. Therefore we cannot figure how she can stand up in Parliament and oppose cheap beer.

"Bugs" Baer

Do not misunderstand us. Mr. Churchill is not the spokesman for the speakeasies.

A political argument over in England is far different from our style of branding calves. When an American smites his enemy hip and thigh he is liable to break a half-pint.

They don't orate in Parliament. They scold.

Mr. Churchill arose in his bespatted splendor, adjusted his Epsom Downs monocle, assumed a military attitude of round-shouldered parade rest, and then started to talk the lid off an iron kettle.

"How about the ghastly muddle in your own country?" said the winsome Churchill to the equally winsome Lady Astor.

"Why," said Lady Astor, shaking her dialing finger at Churchill, "the college teams are doing away with the muddle system. It doesn't gain enough ground."

That started 16 members of the House to scolding each other on all-fours.

The head scolder, who is equivalent to a Borah during the rainy season, yelled, "Out of order, out of order."

When you can only drink one scuttle of beer in England you are certainly out of order.

"What is America doing about the drink trade?" asked the minister for rebuttals.

"We don't trade drinks in America," explained Lady Astor, "we give them away."

"Do you think the government or the bootleggers should reap the profit on alcohol?" queried Mr. Churchill.

"It takes a little of everything to make a world," said Mrs. Astor, thereby placing the universe in the same class as a pousse cafe or a New England boiled dinner.

That kind of stuff goes on for weeks. Over here we stop when the argument is exhausted. Over there they exhaust the argument and keep on with their exclusive mumbling until they exhaust themselves, the radio audience and future generations.

It seems that there isn't much difference between London and Washington, except in the accent. The more the parliamentary bees buzz, sting and swarm, the less money we get. They drop their h's while we fumble the whole alphabet.

And no matter what English diplomats do to us, Lady Astor makes it all even. They gave her a seat. But she refuses to stay in it.

WHAT ARE SOCIAL SCIENCES?

By Archibald Henderson

The opening chapter of the first volume of the great new Encyclopaedia of the Social Sciences, a superb work projected by American scholarship, bears the title of the present article. This work deserves the hearty commendation and active support of the public. For at last, a long last, a comprehensive synthesis is here being attempted of the sciences which have to do with man, in both his personal and social relationships.

We may think of man as a separate individual, a distinct being, aside from his social relationships. We may also think of man with reference to the role he plays in the social group. There are individual qualities, characteristics, wants of man, considered as a separate entity. But there are also qualities, characteristics, wants which express themselves primarily through group action.

The phenomena associated with group activities carry the name of social phenomena. Such phenomena are classified and interpreted by sciences known as social sciences. The social sciences may be defined, says Seligman, as those mental or cultural sciences which deal with the activities of the individual as a member of a group.

While the state was a somewhat belated arrival among human associations, it is, nevertheless, probably true that politics, which concerns itself directly with the functions of the state, is the earliest of the social sciences. With the extraordinary unheaval produced by the World War and the consequent dislocation of many long-established political entities, there has seldom been a time in world history when politics and the state were so imperatively in need of intensive study and scientific analysis.

Furthermore, the growth of commerce, the opening of new channels of intercourse, the invention and rapid development of new means of communication, the constant creation of new world markets, all have given a predominantly economic cast to modern life. Political economy (or, as we now prefer to say, social economics) permeates and influences as never before, the history of nations.

It is coming to be recognized nowadays that social processes cannot be properly understood and adequately interpreted without the medium of history. While history, throughout the ages, has maintained the union of art and science, within comparatively recent years it has grown steadily more scientific and more rigorous in its method.

Lastly, jurisprudence accentuates the close, the interlocking relationships between law and economics. Any adequate legal system "must always reflect the myriad forms of social life." Jurisprudence is fully recognized today as one of the social sciences.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

On the waters of the Potomac sprawls a ship like a yellow scab.

It is a scab—this ancient ship so ironically named Success—a scab on one of the foulest sores in human history. For 66 years—between 1802 and 1868—the Success served as a convict carrier and floating prison between England and Australia. Men, women and little children were crowded together in that hell hole to serve, at the least, sentences of seven years. Sentences for what? For offenses that would hardly be noticed now. Hungry little boys imprisoned for seven years because they had stolen a pork pie! Girls imprisoned, leg ironed, at the mercy of guards, for taking handkerchiefs!

The waters of the Potomac are very calm, but if you can explore the decks of that ship without growing ill you're a tougher man than I, stranger. Stark and black against the lovely Washington sky rises the flogging frame. It was not always black. Nearly always in those days it rose scarlet from a pool of blood. Fifteen and sixteen-year-old girls and boys—sick old men—delicate women—were stripped and strapped to that frame and flogged. Then dipped into vats of salt water and scrubbed with harsh brushes to "cure them." Many found merciful death in that vat.

There are the cat-o'-nine-tails that wrought that death—thongs of rawhide and tipped with pellets of lead. There are the branding irons, with which every convict hand, however young, was branded. There are the straitjackets and 57-pound leg iron.

Below deck horror on horror. Rat holes in which five and six men were crowded together—to rot. An awful barred place at the stern, which the guards never entered, where, all day, all night, the insane and tortured fought and yelled. And, on the deck below that, sights which the mind will not receive. Barred crannies—solitary cells—where, for the first two years, each convict must serve his time, chained to the wall. No light. No air. Food which a dog would refuse. No sound. Or, if one spoke, the whipping post or terrible iron necklet. Two years of that!

Feeling sick? Burning with abomination of a country which could permit such horror? Wish you could yell your anger to the world? Don't speak too fast. Save a few of your yells for Dannemora. Your Dannemora. My Dannemora.

That convict ship operated 100 years ago. Things were pretty rough then everywhere. England wouldn't tolerate a shame like that today. But Dannemora—our Dannemora—is operating now. Operating with your consent and mine.

There are black holes in Dannemora as terrible as any in that convict ship. Last fall there was a prison riot in Auburn. Since that time the leaders of that riot have been in "solitary" in Dannemora. What does "solitary" mean? It means a pitch black hole, 4 feet wide, 6 feet 10 inches high, with no air save that which comes through a tiny grating. It means the freezing cold of a 35-degree winter climate. It means eyes going blind from darkness, throats going dumb from lack of words, brains going mad from constant solitude. And—things that are worse. There are whips in Dannemora too. And straightjackets.

Some of this officials deny. What chance have hundreds of prisoners against officials' denial? But even they cannot deny the size of those cells—the darkness—the solitude—and the fact that men have been confined for months under such appalling conditions.

The scab of England's shame lies cleansed and emptied in Washington Harbor now. But our shame spreads from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

Some guys never quit hoping, no matter how tough the breaks are for them. There was a fellow like that by the name of Tom Kennedy, and he always smiled and said it might be worse. He was coming down the side of a mountain in the Ozarks in his old car one day, and the brakes wouldn't work. Something had gone wrong for fair. He couldn't get any lever to budge, and the car was making fast time.

When they got to the straightaway, near the bottom of the mountain, the car was going faster than ever it did before, and then they saw that the bridge across the river in front of them was out and the river was all full of flood water.

His wife says, "Well, Tom, are we going to get killed?"

"Why, I don't think so. It looks pretty hopeful to me."

"But you can't stop the car, can you?"

"Well, that's the way it seems now. But we may run out of gas; I wouldn't be a bit surprised if we did."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Barter

All these are hers: A silken nest,
A marble home, a noble crest,
And leisure so that she may go
On restless journeys to and fro,
Through every land
To every strand
Where ceaseless tides of ocean flow.
She has learned much of costly things,
The countless wants wealth ever brings;
She knows the art of life, the ease
Of years that pass like symphonies;
Hers is the power
To brim each hour
With earth's most subtle harmonies.
But much she has forgotten, too,
Of stars that smile and winds that woo,
Of kinship with the soil and sun,
Of comradeship and work well done;
For bright alloys
She gave the joys
That God has made for every one.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

The more of the stock is left above-ground, the greater its influence. These and other mysteries are being investigated by such research stations as that at East Malling in Kent, and the results are already proving of great commercial value by helping applegrowers to standardize their crops.

But the most extraordinary facts concern the making of one individual organism out of two; and the manufacture of compound creatures or chimaeras.

H. G. Wells

To make two individualities coalesce into one, it is easiest to work with the eggs or very early embryos. For instance, if the fertilized egg of a newt is removed from its enveloping membrane, it elongates into a dumbbell shape at its first division.

If one such dumbbell is lifted and placed across another the cells adhere and the united mass may turn into a single but double-sized embryo. Even if the eggs come from different species of newt the united pair may be reorganized into a single whole, which in this case merits the title of chimaera, with its four quadrants alternately made of material from the one and the other species.

In making graft experiments with young frog or newt embryos, it is also possible to unite bits of different species.

In this way compound tadpoles, made of the front half of one kind of frog-embryo and the hind half of another, have been put together and even reared through their transformation to become young frogs, which seemed in no way incommoded by their unnatural compositeness; and by similar methods a salamander, half albino and half normal, can be built up.

But the climax is reached in plants; for in them not only can such side-by-side patch-works exist, but, even among the highest groups, composite organisms can be produced, made up of a skin of one kind of plant enclosing a core belonging to another kind.

Sometimes these strange chimaeras arise spontaneously from the junctional tissue where a graft has been made. The ornamental shrub Cytisus adami, often cultivated in gardens, apparently arose in this way, and consists of a skin, one cell-layer thick, of the purple broom, Cytisus purpureus, over a core of the ordinary yellow laburnum, Cytisus laburnum.

Occasionally one of the parts gets the upper hand; the core bursts through, makes a bud, and a strong-built, yellow-flowering branch of pure Laburnum results; or skin shoulders core out of its proper share in a bud, and there grows a branch of quite different character, brushy and purple-blossomed—pure purpureus.

Such hand-in-glove unions are possible even between tissues of different genera of plants. Old stocks of hawthorn (Crataegus) grafted with medlar (Mespilus) have sometimes given rise to branches consisting of a core of hawthorn with a tissue-glove of medlar fitting over it.

Recently a way has been found for manufacturing chimaeras at command. The stem of one kind of plant (tomatoes and other species of Solanum have chiefly been used, but it has succeeded with other plants such as poplars), is cut across obliquely, and the top of the stem of another species grafted on.

After the two have united, the stem is cut straight across the join; from the cut surface new stems and buds are formed, and a certain proportion of these give skin-and-core chimaeras, or graft-hybrids, as they are generally called. Sometimes the skin is only one cell-layer thick, sometimes two; and the graft-hybrid will differ in appearance accordingly.

The growth-rates of the two components may be different; and in such a case the graft-hybrid will either have a stretched, tense look, or its leaves will be all folded and rucked up because their skin is growing too fast for their central parts.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 6.—Thoughts while strolling: What's become of brown meat paper? Stitch McCarthy, a celebrated East Side bondman. A pony-drawn truck that delivers ladies' hats. A little German band struggling to be heard above the din. That milk white limousine with all gold trimmings—owned, of course, by a movie star.

Sinclair Lewis, a Sauk Center, Minn., boy, who made good in the city. Park avenue has more dogs than any other street. Sidney S. Lenz, the bridge expert, resembles Sigmund Spaeth. Venerable ladies who used to wear spectacles pushed up on their foreheads now carry lorgnettes.

T. Everette Harre, the novelist, and Leon Gordon, the portrait painter. The perfume parlors in satinwood. A department store announces "a new collection of corsets direct from Paris." Shawled women remindful of Ruth Draper's imitations. Russel Crouse and Arthur William Brown look alike.

Josephine Robinson, former bareback rider, who wrote "Circus Lady." Sir Joseph Duveen. Those worldly Broadway boys with mama complexes. Alex Gard who caricatures the limelight seekers for Sardi's. And the caped ushers at the Paramount. Medical students with Oberammergau whiskers.

A chill parlor opens at 1 a. m. Louis Mann doesn't hang out around the Astor any more. Crowds that always watch the cigaret machines in a Broadway window. C. P. Grenoker, the Shubert publicity chief. A Chinese messenger boy. Katharine Cornell has a sundae named for her.

The lazy summer stride to Broadway wayfares. Deems Taylor, the music critic. New York never seems to have had a successful street arcade. The taxicab driver lunchrooms where everybody eats with their hats on. Sports with a single striped collar and chamois gloves.

Vegetable and poached egg lunches. Visiting professional ball players who loaf in front of the hotel after dinner. Little girls with crescentic mouths and escorts with pelican noses. Mark Leuscher and his old theatrical partner, Louis Werba. All the hurdy gurdies play that Maine Stein song.

An old timer complains young men of Manhattan no longer whistle along the street. They can't with the eternal cigaret in their mouths.

One of the things a ridge hopper misses in New York is the reply: "Well as common," to the salutation "How are you today?"

* * *

Armenian restaurants serving the native tipple arak, are getting a big play. Arak is the clear white of water until diluted and then becomes an opalescent gaseous mixture like absinthe. It is reputed to harden the gums, whiten the teeth, brighten the eye and put extra curl papers in the hair.

* * *

Wilton Lackaye invited a handsome leading man at the Lambs the other day to drop over to the Flea Circus. Mr. Lackaye bought one ticket and pointing to his companion observed to the ticket seller: "I suppose you recognize the profession."

* * *

Frank Ward O'Malley, who left for Europe in a pet, has been back in our midst for several weeks. One of his mots concerning his latest voyage follows him. He was standing on shipboard gazing at the coast of Africa and innocently inquired of the captain: "Is that the Morocco Binding?"

A nightly hangout for sightless beggars is in side streets west of Broadway near the theatrical zone of the Forties. It is psychological vantage point. Experience shows that people who witness a good show become subconsciously sympathetic for the blind and are charitable. Players too are steeped with a superstition that to pass a blind person bodes ill fortune.

Sir Harry Lauder, recently parading around town in kilties, tam and spats, is comforting to spatticians. We certainly can't look that comical.

"Come over to my health school some time," writes Philadelphia Jack O'Brien. "It will do you good, Mac, to put on the gloves and get loosened up with a few socks."

Sorry, but on account of business conditions I've been transferred to the Utica office.

A silver-handled cane engraved with my name turned up in a Third avenue pawnshop to be discovered by Edgar M. Carr, who redeems and returns it with his compliments. The cane was left in a taxi 16 years ago after a dinner at Guffanti's—one of those 80-cent dinners with vin ordinaire, after which one doesn't care what happens to a cane.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

All need poise and dignity.

Demeanor should be in tune with conditions and associations.

But if you are not by nature a dignified person don't assume it, as an individual, or you will make yourself ridiculous.

Ridicule and amusement follow the one who attempts to fill such a role.

Perhaps you are unfortunate to be not of a more sedate nature.

But if you are not you can be sensible, and not allow a naturally frivolous nature to display itself all the time.

The person who does little else but smile and is apparently bubbling over with good spirits all the time is tiresome.

There is reason to think that such a one has little depth.

But it is not necessary to go around with a long drawn out face in order to be considered a thinker.

Some persons seem to have this opinion. It's wrong.

Whatever you do be natural and serious enough to want to be thought sensible.

It is the happy balance between serious and gas that pleases.

And the proper mixture makes for greater success and more enjoyment of life.

Text For Today

But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honor; that he by the grace of God should taste death for every man.—Hebrews ii:9.
